Lectures On State Set

PORTLAND (AP)—A series of Oregon Centennial lectures will be given over the state this summer by seven graduates of Oregon colleges who have gained national prestige in their fields.

Each will speak once in Portland and twice in other parts of Oregon.

Dr. C. Easton Rothwell, a graduate of Reed College and the University of Oregon, and now president of Mills College in California.

Dr. Harold Benjamin, a graduate of Pacific University and director of the Connecticut Study of the Role of Public Schools.

Dr. Kenneth C. Swan, a graduate of the University of Oregon Medical School and now head of the school's department of ophthalmology.

Try Spraying Grass Green

WARSAW, Va. (UPI) — Researchers at a state experiment station here are testing a dye-like substance that may be the answer to the problem of keeping lawns green the year around.

H. M. Carper, station director, said the green stuff is sprayed on lawns when the grass turns brown in the fall.

Carper said the spray has held up well during its winter test on Bermuda grass plots, even in heavy rainfall.

"There is no evidence so far it will rub off," he said, "and we believe the applied color will last until new growth begins."

Carper said a gallon of the dye concentrate will mix out to 12 gallons of liquid. Each gallon of spray will cover 2,500 square feet.

A major authority on controlling forest fires is Kenneth P. Davis, a former University of Michigan "smokechaser" who served 18 years with the U.S. Forest Service in his native Montana.
