Beverly Scott Is Bride Of Kenneth W. Dutcher

MALIN — Beverly Elaine Scott became the bride of Kenneth Wayne Dutcher May 30 in a ceremony performed by the Rev. Cornelius O'Connor of the Holy Cross Catholic Church of Tulelake in St. Augustine Catholic Church, Merrill, in the presence of 75 guests.

Tall baskets of pink gladioli, pink carnations and white lilies and stock decorated the church for the 4:30 p.m. service. Wedding music was played at the organ by Mrs. Donald Harris and soloist was Mrs. John O'Neill Jr. of Merrill.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold G. Scott of Malin are parents of the bride. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Viola Dutcher of Vancouver, Washington.

Escorted by her father, who gave her in marriage, the bride was lovely in an all white gown of Chantilly lace and net, designed with a fitted bodice. The long sleeves were tapered at the wrists and the round neckline was finished with a scalloped edging of lace accented with iridescent sequins. The graceful waltz length skirt belled out from the dropped waistline and was fashioned of lace applied on net. Her veil of illusion net was held in place by a crown headdress of lace with iridescent sequin trim. She carried an arrangement of a phalaenopsis orchid with stephanotis on a white prayer book.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Dan McAuliffe, the bride's sister, wore a dress of blue embroidered chiffon over blue taffeta with white accessories. She carried a white lace fan with pink and white carnations and pink satin streamers.

Junior bridesmaids were Patricia Hunt and Christine Hunt, foster sisters of the bride, who wore bouffant dresses of pink flocked nylon over pink taffeta and matching headbands. Their flowers were white lace fans with blue and white carnations.

Donald Eugene Dutcher, brother of the bridegroom, Portland, was best man. Ushers were Reginald Hunt and Ernest Hunt, foster brothers of the bride.

Mrs. Scott chose for her daughter's wedding an afternoon dress of blue-green silk print with matching jacket and black and white accessories. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Dutcher, wore an afternoon dress of aqua and white chiffon print over taffeta with white accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of pink roses.

Following the church ceremony at the Malin home of the bride's parents, the reception was held at the Malin ranch home of the bride's parents. At the guest book was Mrs. Donald Dutcher, the bridegroom's sister-in-law. The beautifully decorated cake was served by Mrs. Robert Scofield. At the coffee service was Mrs. Larry Johnson and serving punch was Mrs. Dor Brechtel.

The young couple honeymooned in Reno and Lake Tahoe. For traveling the bride wore a black beath dress with white jacket and white accessories. Pinned at her shoulder was the white orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The new Mrs. Dutcher attended school in Malin and was graduated from Sacred Heart Academy in Klamath Falls. She attended the Northwestern School of Commerce in Portland. Her husband was graduated from Vancouver High School and has served three years in the Army. He is employed at the National Biscuit Company, Portland. They are now at home at 6720 N. E. Mallory Street, Portland.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Bill Goodwin, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Urban, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Hardy, Mr. and Mrs. Daryl Phares and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Johnson, all of Vancouver, Washington; Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Guthrie and children of Astoria; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wagner, Joan Gerstene, Claire Carson, Mrs. Helen Brubaker, and Mr. and Mrs. Pat Adams, all of Portland; Mr. and Mrs. George Travess and Mrs. Jerry Aekle of Roseburg.

Cooking With Sunshine Tested On Reservation

PARKER, Ariz. (AP)—A University of Wisconsin research team is selling the Indians of sun-baked Arizona on the usefulness of sunshine. "It's not exactly selling," Dr. Milton Barnett says. "We prefer to all it good anthropology."

Dr. Barnett is head of a team which has been instructing Indians on the Colorado River Indian Reservation on the use of solar cookers developed at Wisconsin. The university wants to know if people in areas where only sunlight and poverty are plentiful will use them.

The solar cooker consists of a saucer-shaped reflector and a grill on which a pot, pan or skillet may be placed. The reflector is about four feet in diameter and made of cheap plastic coated with aluminum foil. When the reflector is pointed toward the sun, rays are focused on the grill. Living on the sun-drenched reservation have been two members of the Wisconsin team, Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Blake. Blake is a graduate student.

"The people here are just too courteous," Blake says. "They all say they like the cookers, whether they use them or not." The scientists had a hard time distributing the stoves at first. The neat, shiny reflectors looked like commercial merchandise to the four tribes of the reservation, who are never far from poverty. "We had to sell them on the idea of taking something for nothing," Dr. Barnett said. Once the Indians accepted the idea, they became almost too eager to help. Thirty-seven families accepted cookers, and all of the owners said they used them constantly. A little applied research and the scientists discovered perhaps half the families were actually using them.

Other solar cookers have been distributed to various parts of the world, but Barnett says the Wisconsin project is the first attempt at gauging the device's efficiency and acceptability in daily food preparation.

The findings? Indians have no trouble understanding, or using, the cookers.

Possible defects? Size, Dr. Barnett says. Present cookers will heat only one pot at a time.

MR. AND MRS. LOUIS MENDIOLA JR., the former Judith Annada Pieser, were married on May 30 at 9 o'clock in the morning in the chapel of St. Johns Cathedral, Boise, Idaho. The Rev. Dennis Falk officiated. The couple were attended by Kaye Hotell, West Coast Airlines stewardess and friend of the bride, and Don Mendiola, brother of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Mendiola, daughter of Mrs. Stanley A. Pieser of Klamath Falls, was graduated from KUHS and attended Marylhurst College in Portland and Southern Oregon College. Until her marriage she was employed as a stewardess for West Coast Airlines.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Mendiola Sr. of Boise. He graduated from Boise High School and attended the University of Idaho. After serving four years in the Air Force he is now employed at the M and W Market in Boise.

Dress For Heat Then Ignore It

The hot and often humid weather of summer frequently brings on skin problems. Women who have sensitive skins find themselves prone to rashes and other irritations.

There are several ways to keep yourself comfortable through such weather. First, remember that lightweight, loosely fitted clothing is far more comfortable and therefore better for your skin. It's also time to put away your closed pumps and get out open, airy sandals.

If you've a special summer sport, say golfing, take a medicated powder with you to the links. It should go into your golf shoes before you start playing. It's absorbent, refreshing and contains, the makers say, two antiseptics to destroy harmful bacteria.

It's also handy to make a girdle slip on easily during hot and sticky weather. And by the same token, this powder can be used daily after shower or bath to give your skin a cool, slick feeling.

North America ranks third in size as a continent, after Asia and Africa, respectively.
