SHADOW BUFF

Nat Bradford

Hang a sheet or tablecloth as a screen in a dark room. "It" sits in front of it on a low stool. At some distance behind him place a lighted candle or flashlight. The players pass one by one behind "It," throwing their shadows on the screen. "It" has to guess who each one is. Each player makes faces and disguises his height and walk. The one guessed has to pay a forfeit!

Let's Draw a Swallow

Ann Davidow

If you'd like to sketch a swallow, Here's a plan for you to follow.

Draw his graceful wings outspread, As when he's gliding overhead,

And his forking swallowtail By which you'll know him without fail.

Sometimes the swallow flies so high, He's just a speck against the sky.
