

Tallahassee Rape Decision Lauded By Negro Minister

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—A Negro leader believes that decisions in the Tallahassee and Marianna rape cases will have a wide effect on racial justice in Southern courtrooms.

The Rev. David H. Brooks commented on life sentences handed out here to four white youths for raping a Negro coed and to a 15-year-old Negro at Marianna for raping a white woman.

The sentences were imposed two hours apart Monday in cases which have attracted wide attention. Marianna is 60 miles west of Tallahassee.

Brooks, who is an Episcopal church pastor and president of the Tallahassee chapter of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, said that on the basis of these actions, Florida has taken the lead in the South "in efforts to erase the double standard of justice."

Circuit Judge W. May Walker, who sentenced the four white youths to serve life terms, said he saw nothing unusual in his actions.

"In the past six months I have sentenced two Negroes to life imprisonment for rape," he said. "There are no racial distinctions in crime."

The Tallahassee youths were convicted June 14 by a jury which recommended mercy and thereby saved them from a death sentence.

Only one of the four is considering an appeal—Willion Collinsworth, 23.

The three others are Patrick Scarborough, 20, David Erwin Beagles, 18, and Ollie Stoutamire, 16.

At Marianna, Jimmie Lee Clark who had been doomed to the electric chair by a jury verdict of guilty without a leniency recommendation, escaped with a life sentence.

Granted a new trial, Clark pleaded guilty and was sentenced to life imprisonment. He had been convicted for rape of a 68-year-old white woman.

Mass Killer Still Hopeful

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Mass killer Charles Starkweather is still hopeful he will get a review of his case in the courts.

The 20-year-old killer was convicted in the slaying of Robert Jensen, 17, Bennet, Neb. Jensen was one of 11 persons Starkweather has admitted slaying.

Starkweather contends he did not have a fair trial in that he was not properly represented by his two court-appointed attorneys. He asked the U. S. Supreme Court to grant a review of the case. The court denied the application without comment Monday.

Told of the decision, Starkweather said only that he still had hope. He returned to his oil painting of a snow scene.

Albert J. Ahern Jr., one of the two Washington attorneys who filed the Supreme Court application, said he will ask the court to modify its order to state that its denial was without prejudice to renewal of the constitutional issues in the Nebraska state courts.

Rampaging Auto Wrecks Havoc

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—She struck a trash burner as she turned into the alley. Frightening sparks flew up around her car. From then on, police said, Minnie G. Wickland's car:

Hit a corner of a house, tearing off some shingles.

Crashed through the front door and out the back wall of a garage.

Hit a corner of a nearby double garage.

Plowed through the side and out the front of another garage, toppling it.

Struck a parked car in front of a fourth garage, pushing it through the doors and into a boat parked inside.

Knocked down a fence and drove through a garden.

Police estimated total damage at more than $3,000. They charged Mrs. Wickland, 42, with drunken driving. She was released on $300 bail.

Mrs. Wickland and her husband, Earl, a passenger, escaped injury in the series which took place Saturday night in the alley in their block.

Cast Listed For Festival

Performing at the Oregon Shakespearean Festival in Ashland this year from July 28 to September 3 will be actors from the professional theater, plus a large number from preceding Ashland seasons.

Theodore Marcuse, who has played featured Broadway roles with Katherine Cornell, Judith Anderson and Maurice Evans, and who has been seen in "Wagon Train," "Have Gun, Will Travel," "Playhouse 90" and other television productions, will be Anthony in "Antony and Cleopatra."

Opposite him, as Cleopatra, will be Barbara Waide. A former Festival and Vining repertory actress, she has appeared on television's "Circle Theater" and other shows with Ralph Bellamy, Betty Field and Melvin Douglas.

Philip Hanson, recently returned from his position as entertainment director for the Army in Europe and former actor-director with the Festival and Vining Repertory, will play "King John." Nagle Jackson will perform the exacting role of Caesar in "Antony."

William Oyer, whose Hollywood assignments have included "Gunsmoke," "Suspense" and "Climax," will play Faulconbridge in "John," and Pompey in "Antony."

Producing director, Angus L. Bowmer, will portray Lepidus and the Clown in "Antony" and will direct "Twelfth Night." Mary Jo Randall will be Olivia and David O'Brien will play Orsino in "Twelfth Night."

Educational Conference Opens In Kansas Tonight

By G. K. HODENFIELD

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—How should you teach a teacher how to teach?

That thorny problem, one of the most troublesome in American education, will be tackled in a unique four-day conference on teacher education opening here tonight. Professional educators and some of their severest critics will seek a middle ground of agreement on a program of teacher education.

Represented will be such organizations as the National Education Assn., the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science, the American Assn. of Colleges for Teacher Education, the American Council of Learned Societies, and the National Academy of Science.

They are the Hatfields and the McCoy's of the education world.

For half a century they've been feudin', fussin' and fightin' about what to teach the teacher.

The battle has resolved into a question of methods versus subject matter. How much of a student's time should be spent or learning how to teach, and how much on the field in which he will be teaching?

A preliminary get-together was held last year at Bowling Green, Ohio. To everyone's surprise, the opposing camps found they were not so far apart, after all.

Both wanted the same net result: a well-educated, well-rounded teacher, able to cope with changing conditions in a changing world.

This year they will get down to specifics, and outline a teacher education program that will make everyone happy.

There will be no effort to reach hard and fast, final conclusions. Even if they did reach complete agreement on an hour-by-hour, year-by-year program for the future teacher, it might take years to make it generally effective.

In a preliminary meeting Monday, a national teaching organization called for a comprehensive research program to set national standards for competent teachers.

The chairman of state organizations on Teacher Education and Professional Standards said the study would help determine how to recruit and train good teachers, and how to weed out the incompetent.

John R. Whitelaw of the U.S. Office of Education told another meeting that potentially weak teachers should be weeded out before they get their college degree and teacher certificate.

The practice teaching training, he said, "should be the check-point. From now on, there should be no question that if a student doesn't measure up at this point, he is through."

Charter Due New Troop

Klamath Falls newest Boy Scout troop will be known as the Centennial Troop, according to Sam I. Ritchey, Klamath district commissioner of the Modoc Area Council. The charter will be presented on Thursday, at 11:30 a.m., in Salem by Gov. Mark Hatfield, an additional honor.

The new troop is sponsored by Peterson School Parents and Patrons Club and has 18 members.

Although this brings to only 67 the number of troops in the Modoc Area Council, scout headquarters decided to jump the intervening numbers and give this troop No. 100 in honor of Oregon's Centennial anniversary, Ritchey said.

There are 748 Boy Scouts in the Klamath district and 1444 in this council. The Modoc Area Council includes the Bend-Redmond area, Klamath and Lake counties and the northern part of California generally included in the geographical designation, Klamath Basin. Northern California communities included are Alturas, Tulelake, Newell, and the Butte Valley area.

Scoutmaster of the new troop is Bob Abbey, a California Oregon Power Company employe here. He is assisted by Lyle Faust, U.S. Air Force site engineer, Kingsley Field and Lee Saunders, Klamath County sheriff's department. Neil Mayfield, a Copco lineman, is troop committee chairman.

Several of the scouts' parents will accompany the boys and Abbey to Salem on Thursday for the big event.

Negro Charged With 6 Rapes

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—A Negro man has raped six women, two of them white, in an eight-block area here during the past four months, police reported Monday night.

It was the first public word on the attacks. Police Chief James C. MacDonald said the assaults had been kept undercover in hopes of trapping the man.

MacDonald said that in each case the rapist attacked in the middle of night while the victim's husband was away.

The area has been under police watch for weeks.

Events Calendar Now Available

The Centennial Commission's Fine Arts Committee chairman, Dr. James Hart, has announced availability of 50,000 copies of a "Statewide Calendar of Events Commemorating Oregon Centennial."

The calendar lists 98 Fine Arts events which will be presented during the Centennial summer.

Distribution of the folders will be made at Centennial information centers in various parts of the state and at fine arts and information booths at the Oregon Centennial Exposition.

JAMES HOLDEN

Mills Awaits Army Comedy

A performance of a stage play, "No Time For Sergeants," sponsored by the Oregon Centennial Commission, will hit Mills School Auditorium Tuesday at 8 p.m.

The show stars James Holden who plays the part in which he was cast in the first Broadway road company, that of one of two hillbillies who bombed the Air Force with innocence.

Barbara Blanchard, Klamath Falls, who studied ballet and pantomime under tutors at the University of Utah, will appear in the only female role in the production.

She appeared as a dancer in the university's Christmas ballet production, "The Nutcracker Suite." A previous story mentioned that she starred in the show.

Holden is a seasoned actor. In his motion picture-television stage career, he has played with such performers as John Wayne, Edmund O'Brien and Gary Cooper. He always plays military roles.

Tickets for the one-night show will be on sale at the Mills School boxoffice.

'Johnny Reb' May Survive

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Confederate veteran Walter Williams "looks pretty good" despite his two-week bout with pneumonia and may pull through, his doctor says.

"He is much weaker than last week but we've pulled down his fever and he may pull through," Dr. Russell Wolfe said late Monday.

Williams, 116, last survivor of the Civil War, developed pneumonia June 6. He apparently had recovered but then suffered a relapse. He has been under an oxygen tent most of the time for several days.

"He doesn't talk much because he is so weak," said his daughter, Willie Mae Bowles.

THE GAME GOES ON

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP)—John W. Ulmer takes his bowling seriously, as reflected in this testimony in traffic court: "They paged me and told me another car had smashed into mine. I came out and looked at the wreck. About $1,000 worth of damage had been done my car. So I told my wife to see what could be done about getting the names and addresses of witnesses while I went back and finished my game."
