

Mary Robinson Is Bride In Ashland Church Rites

MONTAGUE—A wedding of interest to Montague and Yreka residents took place recently in the Assembly of God Church at Ashland, Oregon, when Mary Catherine Robinson became the bride of Robert Bruzelius.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Robinson of Ashland, former residents of Montague, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Bruzelius of Bemidji, Minnesota, are parents of the bridegroom.

Baskets of pastel roses and lighted candelabra decorated the church for the double-ring ceremony at which the Rev. R. L. Cornwall officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a chapel length gown of white satin, with an overskirt of embroidered tulle. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a crown of seed pearls, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white roses.

Serving as maid-of-honor was Sherrell Martin of Othello, Washington, a schoolmate of the bride. She wore a chapel length pink taffeta gown, with overskirt of pink net, and carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses.

Sharon Breeze, niece of the bridegroom, served as flower girl. She wore a turquoise blue taffeta frock, fashioned similarly to that of the maid-of-honor. White rose petals filled the white basket she carried. Neil Kinney, ringbearer, carried the wedding bands on a lace-trimmed satin pillow, which had been created by Mrs. Irene Williams.

Kenneth Bruzelius of Talent, Oregon, served his brother as best man, while guests were seated by Daniel Bruzelius of Santa Cruz, another brother of the bridegroom, and Edwin Robinson, brother of the bride.

James Kempster sang, "Walk Hand In Hand," and as the couple knelt in prayer, the "Wedding Prayer." He was accompanied by Mrs. Robert Williams, organist, who also played the traditional wedding marches.

The reception, which followed immediately after the ceremony, was held in the church annex, which was decorated with bowls of yellow roses and lily-of-the-valley. Decorations of the annex and church were done by Mrs. Lillian Kinney and Edna Kennedy. Mrs. Mary Grish created the wedding bouquets, boutonnières and corsages.

Focal point of the bride's table was a four-tiered wedding cake, made and decorated by the bride's mother, and which was flanked by gold candelabra and bouquets of yellow roses. Following the initial slice cut by the newlyweds, the cake was cut and served by Mrs. Maxine De Young. Dawn Nelson poured the coffee, and Adele Sheldon presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. Dorothea Mills assisted with hostess duties. The 135 guests were registered by Mrs. Kathy Bruzelius.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Robinson chose a blue flowered nylon dress, white accessories and a blue iris corsage. The bridegroom's parents were unable to be present.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Bruzelius are now at Thetis Island, British Columbia, where they will spend the summer working with the Marine Medical Mission, Inc., before returning to Bethany Bible College in Santa Cruz, this fall.

Crickets Are Cash To Indiana Woman

WARSAW, Ind. (AP)—Mrs. Susie Melton suddenly finds herself a cricket-breeding expert, but she's not quite sure how she did it.

For several years the determined housewife of nearby Etna Green has been raising crickets for use as bait for fishermen. But it seems crickets just refuse to breed in captivity, and not even expert scientists have been able to overcome the insects' demand for privacy.

Mrs. Melton has had her troubles with the chirping creatures. Once she had her brood up to 750,000 but they were all roasted when her cricket hatchery overheated.

Another time the heater conked out, and the crickets froze.

But Mrs. Melton refused to be outwitted by a bunch of bugs and kept at it until she has managed to breed 11 generations of crickets. College entomologists want to know how she did it.

"But darn it, I'm not sure," she says. "It could be the bins, bedding, food, temperature, controls—or all combined. I'll keep experimenting until I know."

Mrs. Melton isn't putting all her bait in one basket. Just in case the bottom drops out of the cricket market, she has started raising worms.

NEWS of interest to residents of this city is the announcement made recently in Johannesburg, South Africa, by Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Brooks, of the engagement of their daughter, Merle Rosemary Helene, to the Rev. Bruce Crawford. Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Crawford of Klamath Falls are parents of the future bridegroom. Rev. Crawford is a graduate of KUHS, Oregon State College and San Anselmo Theological Seminary near San Francisco. For the past six months he has been pastor of the Dutch Reform Presbyterian Church in Johannesburg.

Do It Yourself Trend Taking Over In Cooking

The disappearance of the domestic and the bounty of America are combining to create a new breed of discerning eaters: epicures who cook the dishes they enjoy.

"Lucullus, Madame Pompadour, Louis XIV and Marie Antoinette were great gourmets," says Poppy Cannon, one of the new cook-epicures, "but any of them would have been helpless in the kitchen. The Duc de Richelieu has several sauces named in his honor—but in honor of his inspiration and appreciation, not his preparation. The only notable exception I can think of was Alexandre Dumas, who was not only a great epicure but a magnificent and daring cook."

This country's great cooks and good eaters are being developed right in their own kitchens, not in its restaurants, she says.

"It has come about as a matter of necessity," insists Miss Cannon. "We have lost our servants, and in order to have great food you have to know how to make it yourself."

In another era it took years to evolve as a great chef, and most of them learned as they worked along with a skilled veteran. Today a beginner can take many short-cuts and has on hand a great many aids.

"In the first place, there is a wealth of literature on good cooking now," said Miss Cannon. "It is in books, in newspapers and in magazines."

In the second place, there is a wealth of materials available for superb cooking. No king ever knew such bounty of foods which are available in and out of season. The average supermarket—the average, mind you—stocks about 5,000 different items, including such things as saffron, oregano and sesame.

Miss Cannon says that thousands of men and women have become such good cooks and so knowledgeable about cooking that "advanced" cookbooks now have the basic recipes which which started with recipes on boiling water. A few years ago she authored a best-selling book on cooking short-cuts ("The Can - Opener Cookbook") which enjoyed a tremendous sale.

Now, in collaboration with Alice B. Toklas, a San Francisco woman who during 50 years of residence in France has become a world-famous cook, she is gratified at the sale of a book confined entirely to epicurean, exquisite dishes. It is called "Aromas and Flavors," and contains such lavish and rare recipes as a 17th Century secret for eggs pickled in wine and vinegar, a method to prepare a special salad vinegar with rose leaves and something Miss Toklas, with admirable understatement calls "Extravagant Mashed Potatoes" which calls for the use of a pound of butter with four potatoes.

"You can do great cooking with very little material," confesses Miss Cannon, "but it is not as exciting and you need to know more about cooking if you don't have much to work with."

"I think a beginner can get started toward being a great cook with a quick and easy success right away. A lot of people were discouraged in the days when they started making plain muffins—which were dull anyway—and finally moved on to more fancy things. I think the way to start is with a souffle—it's not hard and it's dramatic and quick."

WEDDING PLANS are being made by Linda Sue Dyer and Donald Leroy Snedden. They have chosen August 15 as the date for the ceremony which will be performed in the bride's home. She is the daughter of Mrs. Tom Legg of Klamath Falls and E. L. Dyer of Lewiston, Idaho. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Snedden of this city are parents of the future bridegroom.

FOOT RELIEF

Grandmother knew what she was doing when she used a foot bath of salts or baking soda. The warm water solution brings relief to tired, aching feet and also helps soften any rough spots. Keep your feet immersed for about three minutes.
