JUDGE JAMES M. ALLEN, Yreka

By BETTY DOW

YREKA—Judge James M. Allen, Superior Court Judge for Siskiyou County since 1938, was recently honored by the Yreka Chamber of Commerce as the "Citizen of the Year" in recognition of 46 years of public service.

Judge Allen had a colorful history and career which began in his early youth when he worked in the gold mines of Scott Valley; through several years as a school teacher, during which time he studied law, was elected district attorney, served in the California Senate, and was finally elected as judge of the Superior Court of the county.

Judge Allen's father came from Ireland, married a lass of Irish descent and settled in Quartz Valley, where Judge Allen was born on June 10, 1863. He attended schools in Quartz Valley, acquiring his high school education in Etna, after which he attended business college in San Francisco.

When he reached Happy Camp over roads that were nothing but pack trails, he found the going pretty rough. He mentioned in part that he had to visit many of the Chinese, who were mining the "tailings," and how they always paid off in gold dust, and he said in those days the three major tax assessments were for road, poll and hospital, which amounted to six dollars, two dollars for each.

On this trip, in order to reach Sames Bar, he had to cross the river, and two Indian children came to his rescue with their canoe (his horse had to swim across, "The river was rough," said the Judge, "but those Indian kids guided that canoe over the rapid swirling waters, and got me safely across." But, that was not the end of the hazardous journey, as at another point across the Salmon River, he had to cross over a high, narrow suspension bridge, with only a single board across its bottom. "I almost lost my horse that time," said the Judge, "but I made it all right, and it is an experience I will never forget."

Judge Allen a few years back, was elected as president of the Siskiyou County Historical Society, which post he held for two years. He became deeply engrossed in the history of the county, and particularly in the story of the Modoc War, which resulted in his writing a book on the subject. After considerable research, talking with oldtimers still living who remember the historic event, his book, "Wi-ne-ma," was published which highlights the heroic role played by this Indian maiden during that period of the war.

Judge Allen was married to Linnie May McFee of Roseburg in 1907, and they had eight children, all living with the exception of one son, Robert, who lost his life during World War II. Those living are Mrs. Velma Campbell, twins, James M. Jr., Yreka, and Mrs. Augusta Lillian Brown, Lake Tahoe; Norman Allen, San Francisco; Mrs. Irene Martin, Etna; Mrs. Mary Byrd, Redwood City, and Edward J. Allen, an attorney at Red Bluff. The Allens also have 15 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Also, at one time, he purchased the Farmer and Miner Newspaper in Fort Jones, which he operated for several years.

It was in 1909 that he was appointed justice of peace in the Scott Valley area and became interested in the study of law. He was also appointed as deputy county assessor. In June, 1913, he passed his bar examination, taken in the appellate court at Sacramento, and in 1914 he entered the race with five other candidates, for the office of district attorney for Siskiyou County, and was elected in the 1915 general election to that office, which he served for eight years, retired voluntarily in 1923, and engaged in private practice of law until 1926.

It was in that year he was elected state senator for Siskiyou, Shasta, Modoc and Lassen counties, which comprised the district at that time. Serving in that office from 1927, he retired voluntarily in 1934, and was reelected to the same post on a write-in campaign. It was in 1938 that he ran for the post of Superior Court Judge for Siskiyou County, serving in that capacity ever since, being elected four times. At one time Judge Allen served as a director of the State Prison Board, having been appointed by Gov. Frank Merriam.

The highlights in Judge Allen's career are many and varied, and one he enjoys telling about was when in 1938 he was elected as a delegate of the Democratic committee to attend a campaign meeting at Houston, Texas, when Al Smith was running for president. During the session, when his group was marching about the hall, with Judge Allen in the lead, carrying the banner for Al Smith, one of the members pointed out Mrs. Woodrow Wilson to him, and suggested that he hand the banner to her, which he promptly did.

Another highlight in the judge's life was when as deputy county assessor, he was delegated to "go out and assess the Klamath River country," that he recalled how the country was rough and wild, and

Red's Asylum Held In Doubt

RANGOON, Burma (UPI)—The Burmese government announced today it does not recognize the American embassy's right to grant asylum to Soviet Diplomat Alexander U. Kanacheev, who took refuge there June 24.

The government statement came after U.S. Ambassador Walter P. McCone called on Burmese Foreign Minister U Chan Htoon Aung to notify him of the Russian diplomat's position.

"Since the government does not recognize the right of any embassy or legation in Rangoon to afford asylum which covers protection," the government statement said, Kanacheev's presence in the U.S. Embassy is "being considered."

Kanacheev, information officer in the Soviet embassy here, applied for asylum June 23 and it was granted the next day. McCone Friday told the foreign ministry he would be moved "to another country." U.S. Embassy sources said.

The Russian diplomat issued a statement in which he said "the Soviet government uses terror, subversion and police-state methods to achieve its aims."

"I desire a life of freedom, which is not possible for citizens of the USSR, and request asylum."

Sheriff Answers Critics; Praises Work Of Deputies

Sheriff Red Britton answered his critics Friday in an appearance before the County Budget Board. He praised the work of his deputies and described his jail as "the best in the west."

He said he had transformed the jail from "probably the dirtiest and poorest to the best in the west."

The sheriff said the Oregon State Police Department was enlarging its force in preparation for a 40-hour week, but "my boys are on call up to 24 hours, seven days a week."

He also reminded the board (and his critics) that he had asked for no budgetary increases, and the two increases in his budget were made by the board itself. These include $2,500 more toward a forthcoming radio network and an addition of $6,000 for jail expense.

The budget board, which has labored three months on the county income-expense program for next year, referred the criticisms and suggestions from both Rogers and the Farm Bureau to the county court. It then passed the budget essentially as it had been prepared.

The budget amounts to $1,143,756 for the year, $89,246 less than last year's budget but within $30 of the six per cent limitation.

Budget board members are R. P. Ellingson, chairman, Lester Offield, and Bill Falvey of Bonanza, as well as the county court.
