Water Aides Praise Bill SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Glowing reports of water development progress which would be made if the voters approve the proposed $1,750,000,000 water bond act have been presented to the California Central Valleys Flood Control Association. Water director Harvey O. Banks and Association Manager John M. Luther joined forces Monday in praising the bond bill which was passed by the Legislature earlier this month. The bond program — designed to provide money for water projects throughout the state — was proposed by Gov. Edmund G. Brown as a solution to the 10-year deadlock over water rights between Northern and Southern California.

Farmers Of California Won Legislative Fights

By JERRY REYNOLDS SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California farmers won just about every battle they got into in the 1959 Legislature despite the fact they had to whip Gov. Edmund G. Brown and labor together on two occasions. Perhaps the most important thing they got, this time working with the governor, was a water program of nearly two billion dollars. By 1965 3,300,000 acre feet of water a year will be moving through aqueducts built with the water money and 5 per cent of the water will go into irrigation. They also got: —The basis on which to embark on a full-scale battle with one of the three major farm enemies — weeds. The Legislature passed a bill setting up a definition of noxious weeds to which future abatement laws can be hooked. —100 scholarships per year worth $600 apiece to pay tuition and other fees for persons who want to study agriculture in college. To the benefit of the buying public, the Legislature refused to eliminate the lower milk prices at drive-in milk depots. These depots now sell milk up to eight cents a gallon cheaper than the retail store price, and the bill would have boosted drive-in prices to the store level. Another boon to the consumer was an approved bill which would limit moisture in frozen chickens to 4 per cent by weight. The Legislature was told that one new method used by some eastern packers put as much as 20 per cent weight on the chicken in the form of moisture frozen into the birds. A third bill passed guaranteed high quality butter to the consumer. The bill provides that only first and second premium butter may be sold to the public while lower grades may be used for baking only. The lobbyists for farm groups in the Legislature had just as good a defense as they had offense. The two times they took on Brown and labor together were on bills affecting farm labor. Farm groups opposed both and both were killed after two of the most spectacular fights of the session. One bill was Brown's proposal to put a $1.25 an hour minimum wage on industry and 90 cents an hour on farm labor. Farm groups opposed this on the basis it would raise costs and hurt California's crop competition with other states that do not have a minimum wage for farm workers. As a token of good faith, farm leaders in both houses then passed a resolution asking President Eisenhower and Congress to enact a minimum wage law for farm workers throughout the nation. The other bill killed was Brown's and labor's jurisdictional strike bill. Farm leaders opposed this on the basis that it repealed the farmer's right to get an immediate court injunction to stop a crop-damaging strike between two unions. Another bill killed largely by farm opposition was the proposed extension of daylight savings time. Daylight saving time, widely hated by early risers, now extends to the last Sunday in September. The bill would have extended it to the end of October. California's dairy industry, the top money item in California's two billion dollar a year farm production, was the subject of a number of important bills, but most of them were killed and made the subject of an interim study. Members of the Assembly Livestock and Dairies Committee, which will conduct the study, said the study should go to the roots of milk pricing and cost control through the distributor to the retailer. Among the bills killed were the one on drive-in retail prices, a bill which would have repealed distributor and retail price control, another to set prices on grade B milk. On other subjects: Poultry: Besides limiting moisture in poultry meat to 4 per cent, the Legislature killed poultry bills to prevent misrepresentation on egg and chicken labels, to require grades on poultry in retail stores and to ban chicken sales at less than cost. Cattle: Bills were passed to provide for humane slaughter of cattle and to provide state payments for cattle slaughtered as a result of adult cattle brucellosis vaccinations. Pests: Several bills were passed on pest control operators, most of which were sponsored by the industry. One other permit easier filing of claims for damages resulting from ground as well as air pesticide operations.

3 Districts Slate Vote

DORRIS—Voters in three Siskiyou County School Districts will go to the polls in special elections to be held within 15 days, late next month and early in August. Mount Hebron voters will go to the polls August 4 to decide on whether the school district should join the Macdoel District one mile away. Similar propositions have been defeated three times in the last four years. School officials said a survey indicates the majority of Mt. Hebron voters have changed their minds since the last election because Mount Hebron must pay tuition to Macdoel District during the coming school year. Tuition for 23 children from Mt. Hebron now attending the Macdoel school will be approximately $230 a pupil, which school officials said is more than Mount Hebron residents can afford. Residents in Forks of Salmon School District will ballot August 11 on a proposal to issue bonds to raise $4,000 and to accept a state loan of $60,000 to build a one room school, with kitchen, for the 17 pupils enrolled there. In addition, $6,000 will be required for a new water system and, because Forks of Salmon is without electricity, a generator will have to be purchased. Etna Elementary Board of Trustees set an election for July 28 to raise the tax from 90 cents to $1.30. The proposal was defeated by approximately two to one in an election earlier this year. Trustees said the money is needed to cover operating expenses as money available does not cover the amount budgeted.

Bus Driver Crash Victim

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI)—A bus driver was killed and 17 persons were injured, four seriously, today when a Greyhound bus and two cars collided 15 miles south of here. The Highway Patrol said the bus swerved off U.S. 101, smashed through a billboard, sheared off a telephone pole and rolled to a stop in a field. The bus driver, Martin Nardini, 57, Mountain View, Calif., was killed. The Los Angeles-San Francisco bus carried 20 passengers. Highway patrolmen worked an hour with acetylene torches before freeing a woman passenger pinned in the front of the bus with a broken leg. The seriously injured were taken to Wheeler Hospital in Gilroy, but authorities there would not release their names. About 13 others, less seriously injured, were taken to San Jose Hospital.

Man Burying Wife's Body Seen By California Pair

ACTON, Calif. (AP) — The wife of a retired gardener saw a man stop his car near her ranch home on this lonely stretch of desert "where nothing ever happens." "I went into the house and got my binoculars," Martha Schulze said Sunday. "I saw him bury something, but I didn't know what it was." "Let's go up and see what he buried," Mrs. Schulze told her husband, Charles, 76. "No," he said, "let's go shopping first. What's buried there will stay there." When they returned from a shopping trip to nearby Palmdale, Mrs. Schulze and a neighbor walked to the spot and dug up a woman's purse and shoes. Then Mrs. Schulze called police. The purse belonged to Ina Huebner Mosher, 38, who five months ago married Gerald Mosher, an oil field worker. Police found Mosher, 43, asleep in a hotel room in San Fernando, a suburb of Los Angeles. Officers said Mosher told them, between sobs, that he had strangled his wife Saturday in a fit of jealousy. Mosher told police he loaded his wife's body in his car and drove aimlessly for several hours. Then he stopped near Mrs. Schulze's home and buried the purse and shoes. "I didn't know what I was doing," Mosher told police. Then, they said, he led them to his wife's body, dumped from the car along a private road near San Fernando.

Budget Okay Seen By Chief

DORRIS—Dr. Jere E. Hurley, superintendent of the Siskiyou County High School District, said the final budget, set at $1,182,825 during preliminary hearing, will be adopted in August. It carries an additional $37,825 for 1959-60 for payment on a state aid loan. Otherwise, it is approximately the same as for the current year. Major items in the new budget include $605,000 for teachers' salaries, $109,000 for other instructional expenses, $115,000 for operation of the seven school plants in the district and $81,000 for student transportation. Hurley said 1,473 pupils attended district high schools during 1958-59, up slightly from the 1,419 during the previous school year.
