

ELDOR HENSCHKE, left, was recently honored with a 30-year-pin, presented to him by the International Paper Company, Long-Bell Division, by its representatives, Clifford Clayton, manager of the IPC, Klamath Falls, and Melvin Baker, district manager, Eugene. Henschke began work in 1929 as a yardman in the local retail yard, which at that time was called the Big Basin Lumber Company. He now resides at 501 Damont Street with his wife Mary.

This Movie Has Everything Except The Straight Facts

By ANTHONY AUSTIN
PARIS (UPI)—It's the movie that has everything—and almost none of it true. It's definitely anti-American, but Americans who flock to it don't know whether to howl with rage or giggle at its absurdities.

The motorcycle mob of blank-faced young hoodlums rips into the American town. Black leather jackets zero in on the hapless bookstore owner.

Slap! His eyeglasses fly from his hands. Crash! Cowboy boots grind his groping fingers into the floor.

"Brutality in America!" is the screaming message of the opening scene of the new French movie, "I'll Spit On Your Graves."

The scenes shift. In a cabin deep in Mississippi (after a lynching, of course) a poor white takes a pull on a bottle—imported Balandine's scotch—what else?

Meanwhile, back on Main Street tempers rise. The drugstore owner pulls his pistol from under the counter. Candles in empty coke bottles splutter in the night.

The hero, a light-skinned Negro passing for white, makes for the Canadian border with the white girl who loves him because he scowls.

Alas! Floodlights bare the fleeing pair and machine guns cut them down. Uncle Sam has the border watched.

Boris Vian, a Parisian Jacques-of-all-trades who wrote the script, was not limited in his descriptions of America, since he has never been there. He died two weeks ago of a heart attack while watching this movie version of his original novel, "J'irai Cracher Sur Vos Tombes."

The movie is the talk of the sidewalk cafes and American tourists flock to it for three reasons—to get mad, to giggle or to gulp at the sex scenes which would never be shown in an American movie.

American small town girls wear their parisian dresses only to shed them at the drop of a stare. In an underwater kissing scene the girl lacks the top of her bikini.

Campers are asked to register at the office between 1:30-4:30 p.m., as soon as they arrive at camp. After registering they will be directed to their tents and acquainted with the camp routine. First camp meal is dinner at 6 p.m.

Attending 4-H camp are Patti Metzger, Johnny Leemann, Kenny Kudrna, Nancy Ann Clair, Carolyn Goss, Doug Leemann, Deanna Johnston, Lynn Abramson, Laura Bowers, Cecilia Bowers, Sandra Wolf, Wayne Wolf, James Blair, Carol Elder, Robert Giese, Kenneth Thomas, Bonnie Jean Thomas, Merle Busic, Frank Nelson, Connie Nelson, Barbara Garrett, Kathy Butler, Linda O'Neil, Butch Moss, Sandra Moss and Verge Paddel.

Nancy Fae Rogers, Carrie Ann Morris, Ann Weir, Lucille Clegg, Denise Haven, Gayle Carroll, Linda Moran, Judi Serfert, John Sipp, Ray Hopkins, Carolyn and Kathryn Laux, Nancy Lantz, Cheryl-Petty, Nancy Maxwell, Larry Maxwell, Carol Biggs, Clifford Williams, Cinda Weir, Marvina Wells, Jane Doughty, Veronica Manhinney, Anita Lukl, Richard McDonald and Jimmy McDonald, all of Lakeview.

Cellar is pushing a provision which the House included in its 1957 bill, but which the Senate rejected. It would extend to all civil rights the present law's machinery for enforcement of voting rights by court injunction.

The rest of the bill consists largely of administration proposals such as federal prosecution in racial bombing incidents, a commission to push enforcement of anti-discrimination policies in federal employment, and help to school districts wanting to integrate their schools.

The least controversial feature is a two-year extension of the life of the Civil Rights Commission, now scheduled to end in November.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas reportedly appealed directly to Celler to get a civil rights bill passed by the House as soon as possible.

This pointed to a strategy like the one used in 1957 to enact the first new civil rights law in more than 80 years. The House passed a measure then and Senate leaders used it to bypass the Senate committee where Southerners had blocked action.

In the Senate legislation to strengthen civil rights laws remains tied up in a judiciary subcommittee which has succeeded in holding only one meeting out of four tries since concluding hearings May 28. Another effort is scheduled Friday.

Johnson and other Democratic leaders in Congress have been under heavy fire from a party wing led by National Chairman

Paul M. Butler. Butler said Sunday Democratic presidential chances in 1960 were endangered by what he called the lack of a progressive record from the Democratic-controlled Congress.

Even with the best of luck for proponents of new civil rights legislation, the chances of enactment this year seemed to hinge on Congress' willingness to have a long session, perhaps into September.

The bill the House committee considers today, behind closed doors is an amalgam of proposals by the Eisenhower administration and by Celler and other northern Democrats.

Celler is pushing a provision which the House included in its 1957 bill, but which the Senate rejected. It would extend to all civil rights the present law's machinery for enforcement of voting rights by court injunction.

The rest of the bill consists largely of administration proposals such as federal prosecution in racial bombing incidents, a commission to push enforcement of anti-discrimination policies in federal employment, and help to school districts wanting to integrate their schools.

The least controversial feature is a two-year extension of the life of the Civil Rights Commission, now scheduled to end in November.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas reportedly appealed directly to Celler to get a civil rights bill passed by the House as soon as possible.

This pointed to a strategy like the one used in 1957 to enact the first new civil rights law in more than 80 years. The House passed a measure then and Senate leaders used it to bypass the Senate committee where Southerners had blocked action.

In the Senate legislation to strengthen civil rights laws remains tied up in a judiciary subcommittee which has succeeded in holding only one meeting out of four tries since concluding hearings May 28. Another effort is scheduled Friday.

Johnson and other Democratic leaders in Congress have been under heavy fire from a party wing led by National Chairman

Paul M. Butler. Butler said Sunday Democratic presidential chances in 1960 were endangered by what he called the lack of a progressive record from the Democratic-controlled Congress.

Even with the best of luck for proponents of new civil rights legislation, the chances of enactment this year seemed to hinge on Congress' willingness to have a long session, perhaps into September.

The bill the House committee considers today, behind closed doors is an amalgam of proposals by the Eisenhower administration and by Celler and other northern Democrats.

"DENNIS THE MENACE"

"I LEFT 'EM OVER AT TOMMY'S WADIN' POOL! I DIDN'T BRING 'EM 'CAUSE I'M GOIN' RIGHT BACK!"

Steel Strike Appears On; Firms Take Adamant Stand

NEW YORK (AP)—The Steelworkers union waited expectantly today for an industry labor contract settlement offer. But there was no sign that steel firms intended to budge.

With an industrywide walkout threatened at midnight Tuesday, substantial progress must be made before Sunday if costly preparations for banking furnaces and tapering off steel production are to be avoided.

Executives of the industry's top dozen steel companies huddled to decide whether to make a last-ditch wage offer to avert a walkout.

Apparently there was divided opinion. There was no announced decision. New York newspapers reported the industry chieftains reportedly decided to stick to their advocacy of a one-year wage increase.

The Steelworkers union, headed by President David J. McDonald, indicated this meant a sure strike. The union, which granted a two-week strike truce from July 1 to next Tuesday midnight, rejected a bid Wednesday by President Eisenhower to put off a strike indefinitely.

The union was reliably reported to be banking on a sudden industry offer, or a departure on the part of one or more major steel companies from the solid industry front, to break the negotiating stalemate.

The companies have persisted in maintaining that any new steel labor cost increase would touch off a new wage-price spiral. The union claims the industry can afford higher wages and other concessions. Workers presently average $3.10 per hour earnings.

Formal negotiations lasted only an hour Thursday, recessing to today to let both sides huddle separately to review their positions. The union was reported to have shaved down its demands to a rock-bottom basis.

From both union and industry sources came informal estimates that a 10-cent-an-hour raise in wages and benefits, on a probable two-year basis, could settle the dispute.

Two subsidiaries of companies involved in the negotiations here were reported to have reached tentative agreements with other unions in California.

It is illegal to keep migratory birds in captivity.

State Secretary Appling To Speak To GOP Picnic

Howell Appling Jr., Oregon secretary of state, will be guest speaker at the annual Klamath County Republican Picnic Sunday, July 12, at 1:30 p.m. at the Malin Park in Malin. The picnic is sponsored by the Klamath County Republican Central Committee.

Also expected for the picnic are Mrs. Appling and top officers of the Young Republican Federation of Oregon.

The visiting Secretary of State and Mrs. Appling will arrive in Klamath Falls late Friday evening, Saturday, July 11. Secretary Appling will make recordings at both radio stations, KFLW and KFJL, Saturday morning Appling will meet with civic leaders for a nonpartisan luncheon at the Kingsley Airport Cafe. Mayor Pro Tem Walter Fleet will extend greetings from the city.

Following the luncheon Col. Jack Williams, commander of the base, has arranged a tour of the Air Force facilities.

The secretary of state will tour the Southern Pacific Railroad late in the afternoon and will appear on KOTI-TV at 6:15 p.m.

A buffet dinner has been planned for Secretary and Mrs. Appling, county Republican officials and the Young Republican officials. A reception is set for 8 p.m. in the Winema Hotel. The public is invited. Ann Watters is chairman of the reception.

Sunday morning the Young Republican Executive Board will hold its monthly executive meeting. Secretary of State Appling will greet the officials. Master of ceremonies at the picnic will be Fred Heard.

Ben Adair, Central Committee chairman, will be in charge of introductions and will read greetings from Gov. Mark Hatfield, State Treasurer Sig Unander and GOP state chairman, Peter M. Gunnar.

Helen Epley Hoffman is entertainment chairman. Mrs. Hoffman, head of the foreign language department at Klamath Union High School, has arranged a program centered around the Centennial theme. Marie Obenchain will be accompanist. Ross Ragland will introduce Secretary Appling. The closing prayer will be delivered by Mrs. Hoffman. Mrs. Frank W. Hurd will be in charge of registrations.

Charles G. Woodhouse will supervise the public address system. Malin Republicans are handling decorations and general arrangements.

Klamath County Treasurer Eva M. Cook and Heard are co-chairmen for the weekend.

MADRID PASSES 2-MILLION MADRID (UPI)—Metropolitan Madrid officially has moved past the two million mark in population, making it the sixth largest city in Europe. Officials Wednesday celebrated the event by heaping awards and honors on five day-old Ana Isabel Sainz de Cuetos Torres, who, after a careful check of records, was named the capital city's two millionth citizen.

LURE RED AGENTS BONN, Germany (UPI)—The West German government Tuesday night offered to waive prosecution of East German espionage agents who defect to the West. Interior Minister Gerhard Schroeder, speaking on a national television network, promised "we will do what we can to make use of the possibility of not prosecuting in such cases."

House Judiciary Group Starts Civil Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Judiciary Committee started work Thursday on a civil rights bill, the fate of which will play a large part in determining how long Congress stays in session this year.

Action on civil rights is one of the key items in the Democratic leadership's legislative program, which critics say has been dragging despite the party's heavy majorities in Congress.

Chairman Emanuel Celler (D-NY) predicted the committee would approve a bill not later than next week. If he succeeds in that goal despite strong Southern opposition within the committee, it would open the way to lengthy battles in both the House and the Senate.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas reportedly appealed directly to Celler to get a civil rights bill passed by the House as soon as possible.

This pointed to a strategy like the one used in 1957 to enact the first new civil rights law in more than 80 years. The House passed a measure then and Senate leaders used it to bypass the Senate committee where Southerners had blocked action.

In the Senate legislation to strengthen civil rights laws remains tied up in a judiciary subcommittee which has succeeded in holding only one meeting out of four tries since concluding hearings May 28. Another effort is scheduled Friday.

Johnson and other Democratic leaders in Congress have been under heavy fire from a party wing led by National Chairman

Paul M. Butler. Butler said Sunday Democratic presidential chances in 1960 were endangered by what he called the lack of a progressive record from the Democratic-controlled Congress.

Even with the best of luck for proponents of new civil rights legislation, the chances of enactment this year seemed to hinge on Congress' willingness to have a long session, perhaps into September.

The bill the House committee considers today, behind closed doors is an amalgam of proposals by the Eisenhower administration and by Celler and other northern Democrats.

Celler is pushing a provision which the House included in its 1957 bill, but which the Senate rejected. It would extend to all civil rights the present law's machinery for enforcement of voting rights by court injunction.

The rest of the bill consists largely of administration proposals such as federal prosecution in racial bombing incidents, a commission to push enforcement of anti-discrimination policies in federal employment, and help to school districts wanting to integrate their schools.

The least controversial feature is a two-year extension of the life of the Civil Rights Commission, now scheduled to end in November.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas reportedly appealed directly to Celler to get a civil rights bill passed by the House as soon as possible.

This pointed to a strategy like the one used in 1957 to enact the first new civil rights law in more than 80 years. The House passed a measure then and Senate leaders used it to bypass the Senate committee where Southerners had blocked action.

In the Senate legislation to strengthen civil rights laws remains tied up in a judiciary subcommittee which has succeeded in holding only one meeting out of four tries since concluding hearings May 28. Another effort is scheduled Friday.

Johnson and other Democratic leaders in Congress have been under heavy fire from a party wing led by National Chairman

Paul M. Butler. Butler said Sunday Democratic presidential chances in 1960 were endangered by what he called the lack of a progressive record from the Democratic-controlled Congress.

Even with the best of luck for proponents of new civil rights legislation, the chances of enactment this year seemed to hinge on Congress' willingness to have a long session, perhaps into September.

The bill the House committee considers today, behind closed doors is an amalgam of proposals by the Eisenhower administration and by Celler and other northern Democrats.

Celler is pushing a provision which the House included in its 1957 bill, but which the Senate rejected. It would extend to all civil rights the present law's machinery for enforcement of voting rights by court injunction.

The rest of the bill consists largely of administration proposals such as federal prosecution in racial bombing incidents, a commission to push enforcement of anti-discrimination policies in federal employment, and help to school districts wanting to integrate their schools.

OPEN DAILY 7:00 P. M.
SHASTA TU-2 DRIVE-IN 3535
ENDS TONIGHT!
LET'S ROCK!
JULIUS LA ROSA - TOP ROCK STARS
Feature: 8:05 & 11:23
LIFE BEGINS AT 17
DOROTHY JOHNSON MARK DAMON
Shown at 10:10 Only
Plus! Fight Pics at 9:30

SATURDAY
Big 4 Unit Show
(See Ad This Page)
Starts SUNDAY!
3 DAYS ONLY!
WINNER OF 7 ACADEMY AWARDS!
WILLIAM HOLDEN ALEC GUINNESS JACK HAWKINS

There's more than one way to stop the enemy!
THE BRIDGE ON THE RIVER KWAI
CINEMASCOPE TECHNICOLOR

ESQUIRE
PHONE TU-4-4567
DOORS OPEN TONITE AT 6:45
Continuous Shows Sat. & Sun. From 12:45
NOW PLAYING!
Feature Tonite At 7:16 — 9:40
Feature Time Saturday and Sunday
12:55 - 3:09 - 5:23 - 7:37 - 9:50

The Wealth and Power of the evil Rambeaus... their Hates... their Lusts!
ROCK HUDSON
JEAN SIMMONS
DOROTHY MCGUIRE
CLAUDE RAINS
The story of a woman's secret hunger!
THIS EARTH IS MINE!
THE CRY THAT ROCKED THE VALLEY OF THE SUN...
CINEMASCOPE TECHNICOLOR

SHASTA TU-2 DRIVE-IN 3535 THIS SATURDAY!
4 UNIT SHOW
SEE IT
Open Daily 7:00 P. M. Show Starts at 8:05
THE LEFT HANDED GUN
PAUL NEWMAN LITA MILAN
ALL FOR LAUGHS!
Operation MAD BALL
JACK LEMMON ERNIE KOVACS KATHRYN GRANT MICKY ROONEY
FLOOD TIDE
HARRIET HADLER-BORCHERS
REGULAR PRICES!
PLUS AT RINGSIDE! JOHN WAYNE-WILLIAM HOLDEN Stars of THE HORSE SOLDIERS
NEW WORLD CHAMPION! JOHANSSON WINS!
FEATURE TIMES
"Flood Tide" at 8:05 & 1:50
"Operation Mad Ball" at 10:05
"Left Handed Gun" at 12:00
"Fights" at 9:45 Only

TOWER TODAY!
PHONE TU-4-8484
Doors Open 6:30
DOUBLE TROUBLE!
When they put their gun-throwing talents together... they were a match for hired killers or mobs!
Alan LADD
Van HEFLIN
Jean ARTHUR
"SHANE"
Color by TECHNICOLOR
with JACK PALANCE · EDGAR BUCHANAN
Companion Feature — "Girls of Pleasure Island"

ROCK 'N ROLL DANCE
featuring
"DREAM LOVER" BOBBY DARIN
and his ORCHESTRA
AUDITORIUM MON., JULY 13

Big Discount MOHAWK CARPET $10.95
The carpet factory over-produced on a special order for a famous hotel chain, and we have a limited supply of this beautiful green, deep-pile, plush, all wool carpet. If offered on the regular market it would sell for 15.95 a yard or more. It's yours for only...
Open Till 8 P.M.
BUSH FURNITURE COMPANY
Your Exclusive Mohawk Carpet Dealer
Next to Willard Hotel - 221 Main Phone TU 4-5987

Herald and News
Klamath Falls, Oregon
Serving Southern Oregon and Northern California
Published daily except Saturday by Southern Oregon Publishing Company
Main at Eplanade
Phone TU-4-8111
FRANK JENKINS, Editor
BILL JENKINS, Managing Editor
FLOYD WYNNIE, City Editor
Entered as second class matter at the post office at Klamath Falls, Oregon, on August 20, 1906, under act of Congress, March 3, 1879. Second-class postage paid at Klamath Falls, Oregon, and at additional mailing offices.
SUBSCRIPTION RATES
Carriers
1 Month $ 1.30
6 Months $ 9.00
1 Year $18.00
Mail — In Advance
1 Month $ 1.30
6 Months $ 8.50
1 Year $15.00
Carrier and Dealers
Week days, copy — 5c
Sundays, copy — 10c
UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL ASSOCIATED PRESS
AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATION
Subscribers not receiving delivery of their Herald and News, please phone TU-4-8111 before 7 P.M. After 7 P.M. phone Maurice Miller, Circulation Manager at TU-4-4782