

Dentist Discovers PAINLESS PARKER

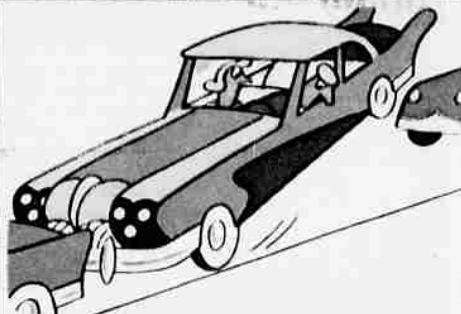

by O. SOGLOW

This dentist bought an over-sized '59 car. When he drove it to the downtown garage, the attendant said: "Sorry, Doc, I'll have to charge you double for filling up extra space."

"Humbug!" said Doc and took his family to see a small foreign car. But no matter how they struggled, they just wouldn't fit. "Too much togetherness," said Doc.

So Doc tried to park his big car on the city streets. But spaces that big were scarcer than hen's teeth. Each time he drove around the block, he used up big gulps of gas.

Everywhere he couldn't park, he'd see a Rambler slip in with ease. Said Doc: "Rambler is the painless parker for me. Small car parkability, big car room . . . why don't I try one?"

So he did. And discovered Personalized Comfort: sectional sofa front seats that glide back and forth individually. "What does an air conditioned Rambler cost?" asked Doc.

"Less," said the salesman, "than the car you own without air conditioning!" Doc bought a Rambler with All-Season air conditioning. Why don't you?
