

ADMIRING a few of the more than 500 autographed photographs of motion picture stars which she has collected during her lifetime, is Mrs. Clarice Franberg, Mount Shasta. This hobby, which she began at the age of 10, caused her to come in contact with such famous silent screen actors as Rudolph Valentino and Mary Pickford.

Minnesota Lists Stars Among Chums

By J. O. McKinney
MOUNT SHASTA — A personal gift from the actress Mary Pickford is an annual occurrence for Mrs. Clarice Franberg, who numbers among her friends many Hollywood stars, mostly of the silent screen era.

Mrs. Franberg, a recent arrival from Minneapolis, has brought with her more than 500 autographed photographs of stars, ranging from Mary Pickford, Shirley Temple and Zasu Pitts to Bull Montana, William S. Hart and Rudolph Valentino.

ALTURAS — A workshop, the first of its kind in the nation to deal with the problems of the aged, was sponsored recently at the College of the Pacific, in Stockton, in cooperation with the California Congress of Parents and Teachers and the Citizens' Advisory Committee on Aging.

Mrs. Margaret Jensen, Berkeley, assistant executive secretary of the CACA, reported on a recent National Leadership Training Institute for the White House Conference on Aging, which she had attended. It stressed family relation with elderly people.

Air Victims Bodies Found

SAN RAFAEL (UPI) — The bodies of two Sonoma men missing since last November have been found in the wreckage of a light plane in the hills near Nicasio, 15 miles north of here.

They were identified as Paul Andrews, 52, and Henry Kime, about 50. They were last seen when they took off from the Sonoma Airport Nov. 9.

4-H NEWS

COMMUNITY CLUB
ETNA—The 10th monthly meeting of the Etna 4-H Community Club was called to order by President Lorena Dillman. Alan Hovenden reported on the regional demonstration and talent field day, Red Bluff, which he, Steven Dillman and Mike and Wendy Cassidy attended. Wes Sorenson gave the members points to remember when judging dairy cattle and sheep. In dairy cattle good general appearance, large mammary system and much body capacity are important. Sheep should be square in shape with fine, curly wool. They should be fattened evenly and one must feel them to judge them accurately.

ETNA—The monthly meeting of the Etna 4-H Community Club was held at the Clarence Dudley ranch, June 22. Before the meeting, members practice judging beef, sheep and hogs. For a community project the club decided to make signs to put at various crossroads in Scott Valley, giving names of lanes and ranches. The next community meeting is to be a wiener roast at the Etna Pleasure Park, with George McMullen, speaker.

Burney Men Oppose Hike

BURNEY — Burney businessmen will appear before the Shasta County Board of Supervisors, Redding, on July 20 when that board sits as a board of equalization. They will protest a recent increase of assessments on the main street properties.

The increase under protest ranges from $10 to $40 and $30 to $80 per front foot in true value. A petition of 44 signers protesting the increase was backed by the appearance of 10 Burney businessmen last Monday afternoon, during a meeting of the board.

They claimed that businesses are just beginning to recover from a heavy financial loss inflicted by a three-month strike at the Scott Lumber Company mill, three years ago, and that if any adjustment should be made, it should be downward.

Deputy Assessor Henry N. Keim said he had used recent sales to establish property values in Burney but the town's representatives contended he used figures which were misleading on the main street of the town, which is U.S. Highway 299E.

Dr. J. R. Leibee warned that any attempts to halt inflation would have to be done on a local level and that an increase in assessments would encourage inflation.

Assessor Myron R. Harrison explained the county was readjusting and equalizing assessments after completing the first accurate and complete property holdings map of the entire county. The adjustment would bring most property up to 25 per cent of assessed valuation, he said.

Property was formerly assessed at about 17 per cent of assessed valuation.

Legal Chief Raps Position On Water

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — California State Attorney General Stanley Mosk said today that the federal government's position in the 3-year-old Colorado River water suit could "have a serious impact on water rights in every state in the union."

Mosk disclosed that he has written to the president of the National Assn. of Attorney Generals, Richard Ervin of Florida, warning that the government's stand in the case might lead to federal control of most water rights.

"The United States makes two arguments which, if accepted, would very largely take control of water rights away from the states," Mosk's letter stated. A copy of the letter along with another letter was sent to Rep. Glenard P. Lipscomb (R-Calif.) in Washington.

Mosk said the government argued that waters appurtenant to the Lower Colorado Basin passed to federal control when the United States took over the area from Mexico. The second argument that could hinder states' water rights, Mosk said, was that this nation never turned over control of the Colorado to the lower basin states.

"There should be no serious federal-state problem in the water rights field. Congress in a whole series of statutes beginning with 1866 has evidenced a consistent intention to leave the water rights to state law," Mosk wrote.

"The position of the United States in Arizona vs. California is capable of seriously retarding water resources development throughout the country if it should be sustained."

"Unfortunately, the United States has no water law to replace the laws enacted by the states if state law should be destroyed or rendered inoperative," Mosk added.

He said he believes most of the state attorneys general would agree with him, and that some would want to express their opposition to the government's stand.

Mosk said that if the association had no objections he would like to tell all the attorneys general about the government's stand on the case.

'Saucer' Club Ends Meeting

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Two thousand flying saucer believers returned to their homes and earth today following the first annual convention of the Amalgamated Flying Saucers Club of America (AFSCA).

Most of the final session of the two-day convention turned to the more practical business of running the earth, but the speakers said they were receiving their advice on how this should be done from "space people."

The recent sighting of unidentified lighted objects over the Pacific by veteran airlines pilots did not come as surprise to the convention delegates, they claimed.

"We had been told by the space people that they would make themselves known on earth during our convention," said AFSCA director Gabriel Green of Los Angeles. "They have expressed interest in our work and said they would do this to draw attention to our gathering. They did not say in advance just how or when they would demonstrate their existence."

George King, chairman of the Aetherius Society of London, related to the delegates a transmission he said he received from space people described as "Mars, Section Six." He said the transmission lasted 25 minutes and contained advice on how earthlings should change their ways of life.

He said the space people told him the earth was capable of producing everything needed to make life ideal but that it would be necessary to do away with the various money systems. He said that with no money system and under an economy of plenty for everyone wars would cease to be even thought of and atomic weapons would fall by the wayside.

The 14-day march tabbed "Operation Hi-Lo" will be undertaken by members of the crack 1st Reconnaissance Battalion of the 1st Marine Division from Camp Pendleton, Calif., as a toughening up and training mission.

Setting out at night to spare themselves from the blazing sun, the group will leave bivouac here at 9 p.m. and start the march from a point 10 miles south of the Death Valley National Monument.

They will encounter 130-degree heat at 232 feet below sea level and then wend their way up rugged mountains to the 14,496-foot peak of Mt. Whitney, where temperatures will be about 30 degrees. They will march during days after passing Death Valley.

Air drops of supplies will be made daily to the Marines during their march from the lowest to the highest points in the continental United States. The Marine Corps said that as far as was known the march was the first of its kind by an organized group.

Autopsy Set In Mystery

RENO (UPI) — An autopsy was scheduled for today to determine what caused the death of Mrs. Dorothy Grossman, 41, a wealthy Bakersfield woman whose nearly nude body was found near Lake Tahoe.

The body, clad only in panties and brassiere, was found Saturday in brush one mile west of Highway 50 at Kingsburg Grade.

The body showed no visible marks of violence, but the tattered remains of her playsuit was scattered within a 40-foot area of the body. She was last seen Thursday, when she left her husband at a Bijou motel to go shopping.

Authorities indicated Sunday that another person, probably a man, was with Mrs. Grossman when she died. Douglas County Deputy Sheriff Bob Pospichal said he found footprints near the body and the victim's car nearby.

"I'm sure there was someone else with her," Pospichal said. "And it looks as though there might have been a struggle."

ACCRA, Ghana (UPI) — The government announced Thursday that it had decided to grant de facto recognition to the Algerian government in exile. The action was expected to result in France's severing diplomatic relations with this young African state.

Work Slated To Lift Locomotives

NAPA, Calif. (UPI) — Southern Pacific and Navy authorities planned to put a giant crane and divers into action today in an attempt to raise three diesel locomotives which plunged into the Napa River six miles south of here.

The locomotives, each of which weigh 185 tons, and a caboose burtled off the open end of a swing bridge Sunday, grazing a small power cruiser passing beneath the bridge. The five-man train crew and the occupants of the boat escaped serious injury, although two members of the crew were treated for minor injuries.

Bridge tender Gabe Clark, 36, Napa, said the train roared by his control booth just after he had opened the span to let the cruiser through. The first locomotive hit the bridge's pivotal center, then plummeted into 35 feet of water, taking the other diesel sections with it. Only the caboose remained above water, standing on end from the bridge head.

Four members of the crew leaped to safety from the cab of the lead locomotive before it left the rails. The fifth crewman, J. H. Traugber, 47, Sacramento, climbed to safety from the caboose.

The occupants of the boat, R. D. Pittsley, and his wife, Hazel, both 38, Napa, were shaken by the accident but uninjured. Pittsley said the impact drove the boat under water bow first, but it immediately popped back to the surface.

Traugber and the fireman, Birthel Farmer, 56, Tracy, Calif., were treated for neck, back and head injuries. The other crewmen, engineer C. H. Panelli, Oakland, conductor M. N. McCoy, Roseville, and brakeman R. E. Adams, also of Roseville, all escaped injury.

Donald Miller, assistant superintendent of SP's western division gave no immediate explanation for the accident.

"All we know is that the train failed to stop," he said.

Marines Off On Long Trek

BARSTOW, Calif. (UPI) — Two hundred and fifty Marines armed with 20,000 salt tablets set out tonight on a 175-mile hike which will take them from the terrific heat of Death Valley to snow-capped Mt. Whitney.

The 14-day march tabbed "Operation Hi-Lo" will be undertaken by members of the crack 1st Reconnaissance Battalion of the 1st Marine Division from Camp Pendleton, Calif., as a toughening up and training mission.

Setting out at night to spare themselves from the blazing sun, the group will leave bivouac here at 9 p.m. and start the march from a point 10 miles south of the Death Valley National Monument.

Cattle Prices Show Increase

PORTLAND (AP) — The Oregon State College extension service reported Friday there was a general upward movement in cattle prices at the North Portland stockyards this week.

It said the biggest increase was in fed cattle, with prices advancing 30 cents on choice steers. Fed heifers jumped 25 to 50 cents. Cows were strong to 50 cents higher.

Although fat spring lambs dropped 50 cents, the report said feeder sheep finished steady to 50 cents higher. Hog prices were 50 cents higher than last week's closing figure.

UNDERWATER MOUNTAINS
LONDON (UPI) — Soviet scientists on the marine exploration ship "Mikhail Lomonosov" have discovered several mountains under the Atlantic, Radio Moscow reported Friday. The ship explored the waters between Iceland and Greenland and then moved south to the latitude of Rio de Janeiro, the broadcast said. One of the mountain peaks rose 9,843 feet from the ocean floor, it was reported.

Coast Governors Agree To Launch Power Study

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The three Pacific Coast governors have agreed to launch a joint study of a proposed three-state power hookup.

Govs. Edmund G. Brown of California, Mark Hatfield of Oregon and Albert D. Rosellini of Washington, meeting here, adopted a three-point policy guide for working toward the proposed Bonneville power intertie.

Under the draft, the three states agree to work together on a continuing study, but each reserves the right to make independent studies and evaluations.

The second point assigns top importance to separate legal studies, on such matters as the method of achieving the hookup—whether by federal law or interstate compact.

Point three invites Montana and Idaho to join in the conferences, since they would be affected by any final agreement.

Ralph M. Brody, Brown's water adviser, told reporters after the meeting that the three governors agree surplus power is available from the Bonneville Power Administration.

They agree, too, that all could benefit from the proposed intertie—the Northwest through sale of surplus power, California because of its expanding need for power.

He said Brown allayed fears expressed by the Northwest in previous inter-tie discussions with assurances that California would not claim status as a preferred customer under federal law and seek to deprive the Northwest of power to meet its own needs. This probably would be written into any final agreement.

"It's their power," Brody said. He set the end of the year as the target date for a preliminary report on the inter-tie proposal by the BPA and state delegates.

The study will cover such things as how much power is available, the cost and routes for the transmission lines. One proposal is to tie the Bonneville power into California's Central Valley project at Shasta Dam.

The governors didn't discuss details, Brody said. "That would have been premature," he added. Brown did state his preference, however, for a common carrier transmission line, probably publicly owned, which would serve both public and private agencies.

The Interior Department has held up action on a Pacific Gas and Electric Co. request to import surplus Bonneville power pending a study of the common carrier proposal.

Brown appointed Brody to represent him in the continuing BPA studies. Rosellini named Earl Ope, Washington director of conservation and development, and Hatfield picked Jonel Hill, Oregon public utilities commissioner.

Poet Thief Lands In Jail

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Iain Anthony Hemensley, self-styled gentleman burglar who reaped a fantastic haul working in daylight, knew all along he'd eventually wind up where he is today—in jail.

But the dapper visitor from Southern Rhodesia—credited with making off with between $50,000 and $100,000 in loot in six months—says his fling at crime "was fascinating while it lasted."

Hemensley, in the United States on a visitor's visa, told police he committed at least 50 burglaries during his stay, striking at the homes of the rich while they were away. Actresses Zsa Zsa Gabor and Rosemary Lane are listed among his victims. "I got away with it for a long time," he said, "because of a Japanese philosophy which I applied to crime. You take the obvious and reverse it, and then do the obvious and it remains unobvious."

One of the obvious things about Hemensley's routine—outside the fact he worked in daylight—was the way he went to work. He drove to and from his jobs in a flashy white convertible. Trouble is, the car was stolen and a patrolman, Don Ferguson, spotted Hemensley driving it Sunday. That's how he landed in jail.

At the home of one of his victims, Hemensley wrote a verse in lipstick on a mirror before leaving. It read: "It is with regret your goods I begot, but for over a week I ain't won a bet."

"I should be imprisoned just for writing a thing like that," he said.

Bridge Measure Signed By Brown

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown has signed a bill which authorizes construction to double the capacity of the San Mateo-Hayward Bridge.

The bill provides that the construction work can be financed either by revenue bonds secured by San Mateo-Hayward and Dumbarton Bridge tolls or by use of surplus funds of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge.

If the San Francisco-Oakland revenues are used, they will be replenished from tolls collected on the two southern bay crossings. The bill signed this weekend takes effect immediately.

Survivors include three daughters, Mrs. Joseph Vieira, Mrs. R. M. (Bus) Cavin and Mrs. Gina Trinca, all of Hill; three sons, Ted, Grenada, Courtland, Ashland and Cecil Rose, Arcata; 13 grandchildren and several great-grandchildren.
