Park Falls Dry Date Set

YOSEMITE (UPI) - Yosemite Falls, the nation's highest, is expected to go dry by Aug. 1, the earliest date on record. The falls, which at the peak shoot out nearly 100 feet from the top of the cliff and drop a total of 2,425 feet, is down to nearly a trickle. Light snowfall during the winter and exceptionally fast thawing in the spring were blamed. "I wouldn't give them more than a week or so," said the associate park naturalist, Douglas H. Hubbard. He added that four other park waterfalls, Vernal, Nevada, Bridalveil and Illouette, also were unusually low, but not expected to dry up completely. Yosemite Falls normally stops flowing between the middle of August and first of October causing some complaints from park visitors who come to view the world famous tourist attraction during this period. Horace Greeley was "disgruntled" at the lack of water falling when he was here during an August in the late 1850s.

Many conservation district directors presented requests for state funds for aid in establishing conservation practices throughout the state.

Fire Razes Ranch Home

NEW PINE CREEK - The old Earl Hinde ranch home along with outbuildings, was destroyed by fire late Friday afternoon. The home is now owned by Glenn Smith. The conflagration was apparently ignited by a harvester at work in a field southwest of the ranch buildings. Smith's son, Allen, who had begun to harvest Friday morning, was the first to see the fire. He attempted to put it out with a fire extinguisher, but found the flame burning too rapidly for him to control. Sherry Thompson, Modoc County road foreman, working at the mouth of Pine Creek Canyon, spotted the fire and turned in an alarm. At the same time, a neighbor, Mrs. Gladys Porter, saw the fire and also turned in an alarm. More than a hundred persons responded to the New Pine Creek fire siren as ominous black clouds of smoke rolled up, visible for miles in the valley. By the time the fire trucks arrived, the blaze, whipped by a southeasterly wind, had raced toward the ranch buildings. Grass around them was blazing hotly, making it impossible to get close enough to the buildings to save them. The fire department was able to keep the fire from spreading to a hay barn and large shed on the property. For a time, fields and ranches to the north and east of the Smith ranch were threatened by the fire. Smith said he had insurance on the uninhabited house, but none on the other buildings which were destroyed. He estimated his loss at between $12,000 and $15,000.

Finance Aid Approved By Governor

SACRAMENTO (UPI) - Gov. Edmund G. Brown Tuesday signed a bill by Sen. Paul L. Byrne (R-Chico) which provides for state financial aid to areas where there is a sudden influx of population caused by construction of a large water project. The measure will permit the state to give financial assistance to counties or cities to help construct sewage and lighting facilities, hospitals and to provide police and fire protection. Other bills dealing with water which Brown signed included: Creation of water agencies or districts in Sutter County, San Mateo, Amador, Plumas, Lassen, Modoc, Sierra, El Dorado, Santa Clara, Siskiyou and Nevada counties. The governor also signed a bill creating a Yuba-Bear River Basin Authority and another measure appropriating $250,000 for the Department of Water Resources to investigate the water needs for various crops and different types of soil. Other bills approved by Brown related to sale of property by the Sonoma County Flood Control and Water Conservation District, increasing membership of the California Water Commission from seven to nine, and providing that costs of solution to seepage and erosion problems caused by a water project must be borne by the project.

Juice Of Bugs Not Rainfall

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) - The weatherman was right when he said the mysterious moisture which has been falling on Charles Coval's backyard wasn't rain. It was bug juice. The phenomenon was explained by scientists Tuesday after Coval, meteorologist, engineers, newsmen and everybody else admitted they were puzzled. Dr. Rudolph Preisendorfer, research physicist at the University of California, La Jolla, led the unofficial scientific expedition to Coval's backyard after reading about the mysterious sprinkles in newspapers. He climbed a tree and found the rain-making insects. Preisendorfer identified them as leafhoppers, commonly called sharpshooters, and scientifically known as homopyera cicadellidae homalodidae. They excrete a spray of fluid, which the scientist said is sometimes politely called "honey dew," especially when they are disturbed. The leafhoppers had been keeping wet an area 30-foot square. Coval, a missile plant engineer who has had more visitors than usual since the rain was discovered Sunday, said he was mighty glad the scientists had solved the mystery.

Woman Dies In Accident

GILROY (UPI) - One woman was killed and another seriously injured Tuesday when their pickup truck collided with another truck on Pacheco Pass, 22 miles south of here. Mrs. Elizabeth Schell, 64, died at Wheeler Hospital shortly after the accident. Her passenger, Mrs. Ruth Askew, 69, Lawton, was reported in critical condition. Highway patrolmen said the accident occurred when Mrs. Schell collided with an oncoming truck after attempting to pass a truck and trailer. Her pickup smashed into the truck broadside when she apparently lost control after swerving onto the left shoulder of the road. The other driver, Hugh Evans Jr., 27, Woodland, was not injured.

New Bay Span To Be Pondered

SACRAMENTO (UPI) - An additional crossing of San Francisco Bay will be studied under a bill signed by Gov. Edmund G. Brown. The bill appropriates a balance in the Southern Crossing engineering fund and an additional $150,000 from Bay Bridge revenues for the surveys. The law specifies that the crossing must be between Alameda County and San Francisco or San Mateo counties. It also forbids a parallel bridge in the immediate vicinity of the present Bay Bridge.

SCOUT NEWS

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR SPEAKS DUNSMUIR - The Girl Scout program was discussed at a meeting at the Mount Shasta Elementary School last week by Jean Caughlin, Chico, executive director of the Sierra Cascade Council. District representatives from four southern Siskiyou communities of Weed, Mount Shasta, McCloud and Dunsmuir attended. "All professional workers within the council will be field workers," Mrs. Caughlin explained, "and through them the local leaders will receive training in Girl Scout leadership." Specialists in camping and troop programming are being considered by the council, she further stated, and assured those present that each district and each neighborhood area will receive the same assistance regardless of size, wealth or distance from council headquarters. Council organization and management is through local leader committees. These directive committees consist of camping, employed personnel, finance, program, public relations, training and troop organization. The girls pay dues, provide their own uniforms and pay personal expenses. Local leaders do also. Program supplies, troop supplies and service projects are financed through troop funds, cookie sales and other money raising projects. The council and national administration, program, camping and training are financed through federated and neighborhood drives, Mrs. Caughlin said. The second in a series of orientation meetings will be held at the Mount Shasta Elementary School on August 6 at 7:30 p.m. Mrs. Caughlin will conduct similar sessions throughout the eight county council.
