DIARY OF A GIRL SCOUT AT CAMP

Editor's Note — This is the second report sent in by Fay Brannon, senior Girl Scout, who with Kay Ralston was selected to represent Klamath County at the recently held Girl Scout Roundup at Colorado Springs.

Thursday — Today we took pictures of the Indian Village from the hill overlooking it. Then we went back to the tent and fixed a broken tent pole.

Suit Names Legal Chief

These suits were filed in the county clerk's office: J. C. Lemire seeks from Harley J. Hart payment of $1,250 which he maintains is due for structural concrete delivered to Hart between January 1, 1958 and last December 20. Named as co-defendants in the suit, through a mechanic's lien, are Arthur and Dorene Beddoe and Melvin and Edna May McCollum, owners of the property on which Hart was building.

Copco has filed a condemnation suit against First National Bank of Oregon, trustee for Magdalene Schonchin, on whose property the utility wants to erect a mile-long power line. The company had offered $440 for its right-of-way. Glass Mountain Masonry Supplies Inc. maintains that McCollum Lumber Company owes $1,218 for building materials delivered between April 10 and June 12.

Edward Everett Odle Jr. seeks from the State Industrial Accident Commission permanent disability claims amounting to 90 per cent loss of function of one arm, 75 per cent loss of the other arm and 75 per cent loss of the right leg. He maintains he received 25 per cent compensation for one arm and 10 per cent from the other after an accident while employed as a roofer for Jay Weber July 22, 1958, but that no further claims were granted after a rehearing of his case.

4-H NEWS

4-H SUMMER CAMP
Sixty nine Klamath County 4-H Club members left on Sunday for a week of summer camp at Crescent Lake, Francis A. Skinner, county extension agent said.

Activities at camp include crafts, outdoor camping, wildlife study, recreation, nature study, fishing and swimming.

The staff includes Ruth Gustavson, Mrs. Roy Drace, Barbara Moore, Eleanor Alberts, Mrs. Robert Croft, J. D. Vertrees, Jessalee Mallalieu, Oregon State College recreation specialist, and a representative from the State Game Commission.

Counselors are Bradley Sexton, Larry Petersen, Willard Felt, Snuffy Drace, Steve Schmeck, Linda Hall, Marilyn Mack, Nancy Warren, Alma Palmer and Linda Heyden. Cooks are Mrs. Jarvis and Mrs. Ray Billings.

Four-H Club members attending camp are John Barriek, Jeffery Cheyne, Don Hummel, Steven Skinner, Roger Jacob, Corbyn Pomeroy, Eugene Newnham, Bill Breithaupt, Teddy Dearborn, Allen Hobson, Rocky Liskey, Robert Newnham, Gary Orem, Jerry Rogers, Charles Ford, John Gentry and Steven Gooding.

HAY BARN DESTROYED
NEW PINE CREEK — It is thought that a small boy playing with matches started a fire about 5:30 last Monday afternoon at the Herbison Boys' Ranch two miles north of here. The blaze destroyed a hay barn and shed, about 1,000 bales of hay, corral fences and some small pigs. There was no insurance on the hay or the shed. Loss is estimated at approximately $5,000. The Herbisons seem to have hit a streak of bad luck. Last week a daughter, Mary, was thrown from a horse and had two vertebrae in her back broken.

After lunch we visited the Air Force Academy and Garden of Gods, by bus. The academy was first. It is composed of 1,700 acres and includes five valleys. It is very spread out, but the housing units resemble the ones at Kingsley Base. The buildings are very modern. The officers' club is nice. There are swimming pools, a golf course and a lot of places for recreation. While there we couldn't leave the buses.

We then went to the Garden of Gods. It is a very beautiful place. As we entered a guide got on the bus to tell us about places of interest. We were allowed 30 minutes to look around and get pictures. Much more time was needed to see such a beautiful place.

From there we went to the Flying W. Ranch for a chuckwagon supper. While there we watched cowboys do tricks and they sang songs for us. Later we started back to camp, tired, but happy, after the afternoon tour.

Friday — I got up at 6 a.m. to have time to write letters and start fires for breakfast. It was really windy this morning. After everyone did their cleaning we went to the trading post and traded some more swaps. We then watched some demonstrations.

These included girls making corn husk dolls, others doing stenciling, some making candles and various other interesting projects.

After this we went to the art exhibit building to see the entries in the photo contest. They were very good.

At the troop campfire tonight, Angel, the fire warden who is teaching school in Germany, told us quite a bit about Germany and how Girl Scouting is different there from our country.

Saturday — We got up early. Some girls went on a nature walk, but our patrol performed an office assistance service for an hour.

And so concluded most of our memorable and enjoyable trip to the Girl Scout Roundup in Colorado Springs.

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA TRIP
CHILOQUIN—Five girls of the Shawanina Horizon Club and one Camp Fire girl spent last week on a camping trip to Northern California. The trip was undertaken so Judy Stanley could complete one of the requirements for a torchbearer craft in camping. The girls visited Big Springs, where the Sacramento River begins, went to the ski area on Mt. Shasta and rode the chairlift to over 9,200 feet, and toured Mt. Lassen National Park. They also watched trout at the national women's swimming and diving championship meet at Redding. Another highlight was the trip through Shasta Dam. The remainder of the time was spent swimming.

Making the trip were Judy Stanley, Barbara Nicholson, Karen Jenkins, Donna Robinson, Cherry and Micki Wolf, and the leader, Mrs. Gerald Wolf.

CAMP MAKUALLA
MERRILL—A group of Merrill Boy Scouts have returned to Merrill following a week of camping activities held at Camp Makualla at Crescent Lake. Accompanying the troop was Scoutmaster Don Crawford assisted by Clifford Blymyer. Transportation to and from camp was provided by Charles Cunningham, Bob Woods, Bill Poe, Mrs. Don West, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Moore and Mr. and Mrs. John Stolt. Boys attending the week long camping session were Charles Cahnan, Larry Conner, Robert Cunningham, Eric Haskins, Dale Kurtz, Larry Kurtz, Bob Moore, Jim Moore, Jim Bob Merrilees, Bill Poe, Dave West, Dwight Winther, Douglas Woods, Richard Stolt and Mark Winther.
