Just Not Making Crooks Like They Used To, Says Scotland Yard Detective

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON (UPI)—Modern criminals turn to violence because they are too lazy or lack the talent to develop any skill at their jobs, according to an old hand from Scotland Yard.

The gun, the bludgeon and the fist, he noted, have largely replaced the finesse that many old-time lawbreakers used to bring to their coshen profession.

Scotland Yard does not permit its famous investigators to give out interviews where they can be quoted by name, and this one offered his view with that understanding.

"When did you last hear of a good pickpocket?" he asked. "Before the war there were signs wherever crowds gathered warning them to beware of pickpockets. Today, it's one of the rarer crimes."

"The reasons are obvious. It takes years to develop the technique of picking a pocket and staying out of jail. Why bother when you can get the wallet or wrist-watch simply by fracturing the victim's skull?"

Another infrequent type nowadays is the bigtime confidence man.

"Before the war these fellows would spend months setting up a victim for a killing," the detective said. "They were intelligent, glib, agreeable chaps of considerable general knowledge. When they crammed for a specific job they got to know it inside out."

"They would even bring confederates over from Australia or the United States if the sucker — a maharajah or American millionaire perhaps—needed the additional persuasion they could provide. "I must admit the post-war millionaire is apt to be less gullible than wealthy men used to be, but even so it's so much easier for the underworld to simply rob him with or without violence."

"The old-time con man would consider it an affront to his professional pride if he had to descend to this level."

Some other crimes, he said, have dropped from fashion because they are outdated.

"We don't get much counterfeiting of coins any more," he said. "Simply isn't worth the effort to make shillings and half-crowns, considering the high cost of living."

ARTHUR R. MILLARD is principal of Peterson School. His is one of 21 schools in the county school system.

Merrill Roster Set At 275

MERRILL — William Kurtz, principal of Merrill Elementary School, has announced that an enrollment of 275 students is expected when school opens Wednesday, September 9. Two additional classrooms have been added to accommodate the increased enrollment expected especially during the harvest months.

One of the new classrooms will be used for music and visual and audio education. Heretofore these classes were held in the school cafeteria.

Approximately 50 students will register for the first grade — an increase of 15 children over last year. For the first time, two first grades have been established. First grade teachers will be Mrs. Irene Hill and Mrs. Margaret McNulty.

Also on the elementary teaching staff are Mrs. Lucille West, second grade; Mrs. Janis Kafton, third grade; Mrs. Don Crawford, fourth grade; Mrs. Marvin Retherath, fifth grade; Mrs. Rose Lee, sixth grade; and Don Crawford and Jerry Groeneveld, seventh grade.

Mrs. Ruth Groeneveld, high school teacher, will also teach seventh grade music.

The cafeteria will serve lunches this year at the same price, 25 cents. Mrs. Ruby Fotheringham is chief cook with Mrs. Hertha Bell as assistant cook. Mrs. Esther Bowlsby also assists with cafeteria duties.

Caretaker and maintenance man is Ernest Watts. School will close on June 3.
