

Bag Nets Owl; Alfred Nets Wife Trouble

BALTIMORE (AP) — A few years ago a couple of country owls dropped into the city.

To visit city owls? Perhaps. Or maybe to scratch up new excitement you can't find hanging around a barn all night and day.

Anyway, Alfred and his wife folded their wings and settled down in a tree near a storage tank of the Baltimore Gas and Electric Co.

Nice setup. The utility people let them have the run of the tank.

In return, Mr. and Mrs. Owl swooped down and kept the grounds clear of mice and other rodents.

But even a good setup can get boring.

So a few days ago Alfred decided to go AWOL. No good-bye peck to the Mrs. No leave-of-absence, with the gas and electric people, either.

With a brisk flap of wings and dark eyes wide open, Alfred set out to see what else an owl could do in a city of nearly a million humans.

He wheeled over South Baltimore and landed on a roof on Marshall Street.

"Ah, free as a bird," he thought, and he didn't give a hoot.

Here he could bask in the warm sun and glory in his newly won security.

Alfred dozed off into a reverie. Trouble was, he didn't reckon with Edward Gleason.

An owl catcher from way back, Gleason inched along the roof silently. Quick as a wink he bagged Alfred in a pillow case.

Alfred shrieked and scrawled but to no avail.

Of course Gleason didn't know about Alfred's commendable service with the gas and electric company, and that he was just an AWOL owl.

So Gleason took his lively bundle to the police station.

Horror! Alfred was booked like any vagrant owl and sentenced to the City Zoo.

By this time, word leaked to the newspapers.

Next thing, a utility official called Zoo Director Arthur Watson and informed him one of the company's owls was missing.

In no time, Alfred's sentence was commuted and he was brought back to the utility company's grounds.

Mrs. Owl gave him that old I-don't-know-whether-to-kiss-him-or-kill-him look. But she took him back.

And the gas and electric people have restored him to duty, so Alfred has sworn from now on he'll stick to his rattling.

Best known human effigy on top a U.S. building is the 37-foot statue of William Penn atop Philadelphia's City Hall.

AN OVERFLOW CROWD of sturdy pioneers jam-packed this backboard for the trip to Moore Park and a wiener roast Thursday. Springs greening, it headed a whopping load, but dozens had to make the trip from the Kiwanis Park staging area by more conventional methods.

South Would Filibuster Any Civil Rights Short-Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—Southern Senators hinted Saturday that any short-cut move to force a broad civil rights bill up for action in the Senate will run smack into a filibuster.

Plans to carry the fight to the Senate were made by civil rights advocates after futile efforts Friday to jar a bill loose from the Senate Judiciary Committee at a five-hour meeting.

Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.), a committee member, declined to give any direct reply when asked how he and other Dixie foes of civil rights measures intended to counter this strategy.

But he told reporters that "I'm confident some of my colleagues might have something to say about that, and that might inspire me to express my views."

Both Sens. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.), Senate Republican leader, and Thomas C. Hennings Jr. (D-Mo.) said they would try to get a civil rights bill before the Senate by offering it as an amendment to some other measure called up for action.

"We are accomplishing exactly nothing," Dirksen told newsmen after Friday's committee session. Hennings also said civil rights legislation was "hopelessly stalemated" in the committee.

ALL FRYERS MUST BE LABELED

New "Label Law" Benefits You

Now all the guess-work's gone when you buy chicken. A new Oregon State Law requires all fryers, broilers, and roaster-fryers (packaged or unpackaged) sold or displayed in Oregon to carry a printed label indicating where the chicken was grown. This makes it a simple matter now to identify real freshness. The label, "This Fryer Grown in Oregon" is your guarantee of the finest, freshest fryers grown. Oregon-Grown fryers are "miles fresher" when you buy 'em—"Days Fresher" when you eat 'em. For crisp, juicy, finger-licking goodness insist on top-quality Oregon-Grown fryers.

Look for this label on every fryer you buy
