Rigorous Togetherness; Family Survives Test

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—The Thomas A. Powner family has just survived a rigorous test of togetherness. All five of them emerged Friday after two weeks of isolation in a 72-square-foot A-bomb shelter.

And, said Mr. and Mrs. Powner Saturday, the experience was "very beneficial."

After a day of medical and psychological tests, the parents held a news conference at Princeton University with their two boys, Scott, 5, and Tony, 3½; and girl, Hilary, 2½ months.

The family had gone into the cubicle on July 31 in the basement of a university laboratory at the request of the Federal Office of Civilian Defense.

The main purpose was to learn what physical and psychological changes are needed in civil defense plans for a standard family shelter.

Powner, 31, said the main problems during the two weeks were heat and odors. He's a contractor from Cranbury and has built several homes. Powner had several suggestions for making life more livable in a shelter. One dealt with garbage disposal.

They accumulated a four-foot pile of garbage.

Air was piped in to the concrete shelter and circulated by hand pumps which the family turned every half hour during waking hours.

Humidity was a problem with clothes taking a day and a half to dry after they were washed. The temperature averaged 83 degrees at the ceiling and 71 at the floor.

They took 38 gallons of water in with them and had 19 left over when they walked out.

The parents took along a word game and a dozen books. For the children, they had books, games, crayons, puzzles and toys.

The shelter was stocked with $130 worth of food, all of it canned or packaged. It ranged from ravioli to peanut butter.

Mrs. Powner cooked in a chafing dish over a candle. It took an hour and a half to heat a can of spaghetti.

The family didn't know it at the time but every word they spoke during the 336-hour stint was monitored and recorded on 33 miles of tape. Prof. Jack A. Vernon said the monitoring was necessary for the Powners' own safety and they could not be told of it or the test would not have been realistic.

Mrs. Powner, 31, wore shorts during the test and, like the other members of the family, went barefoot. She made one concession to gracious living—a lipstick which she took along and used "to keep up my morale."

Once a day the family did exercises, capped by a big march around the shelter accompanied by the noise of banging on tins.

Vernon said this noise was "intolerable" over the microphones. "I don't know how they stood it."

Name Change Idea Rapped

PORTLAND (AP)—Sen. Richard L. Neuberger's proposal to rename the Green Peter Dam for the late Douglas McKay drew a rap Sunday from the Oregon Young Democrats.

Instead, the group urged the dam be renamed for the late Democratic State Chairman Dave Epps.

The group contended in the resolution the Willamette Basin dam was long delayed because of the Eisenhower partnership policy, which McKay helped author as secretary of interior.

McKay, a Republican, also was a governor of Oregon. Neuberger is a Democrat.

The Young Democrats said they would not object to naming another project in the basin for McKay.

Singers Wind Up 3-Day Meeting

EUGENE (AP)—The Pacific Coast Norwegian Singers Assn. ended a three-day meeting here with the selection of Seattle as the site for its 1960 Sangerfest, and the election of three Seattle men as officers.

Texas Committee Plans For Talker

CHILDREN HURT

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)—A group of children were watching an auto race Sunday through cracks in a fence at Ozark Empire Fairgrounds when a car crashed into the fence. Six of the youngsters, scattered like bowling pins, were injured, but none were believed critically hurt. Driver Victor Valentine suffered a broken nose.
