

New Housing Bill Muddled; May Be Sent To Ike Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate takes up today a new $1,050,000,000 housing bill to replace one which President Eisenhower vetoed.

There was a possibility the measure might go to the White House late in the day. If the Senate acts in time, the House may take it up at once under a rules suspension procedure requiring a two-thirds vote.

The bill is trimmed down below the $1,375,000,000 total in the measure Eisenhower vetoed last month. But it still retains all the major programs of the earlier version in a reduced form.

The veto was upheld in the Senate last Wednesday on a 53-40 vote, 9 short of the two-thirds needed to override. The Senate Banking Committee then whipped out the substitute bill Thursday.

Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala.), floor manager for the measure, predicted it would be approved promptly. He conceded the bill had been shaped with the idea that the House could take it without change.

No official word has come from the administration, however, that President Eisenhower is willing to accept the new measure.

He has expressed objection to some of its features. Republican senators may seek to offer floor amendments to try to get it closer to his recommendations.

Sen. Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind.), senior Republican on the Housing subcommittee, said he believed the President would sign the bill. If he does not, Capehart said, there will be enough votes to override a second veto.

The bill contains authorizations for several government-backed housing programs and also several provisions designed to aid the private home building industry.

Skin Diver Shark Victim

PANAMA CITY, Fla. (AP)—Ripped, bloodstained swim trunks and teeth-marked mask and flippers were the only traces today of a skin diving Army lieutenant.

Navy divers said Lt. James C. Neal of Ft. Rucker, Ala., apparently fell victim to sharks while on a pleasure cruise in the Gulf of Mexico.

The Naval Mine Defense Laboratory in Panama City reported its divers had recovered Neal's flippers, mask and lead weights, and pieces of his undershirt and bathing trunks.

Gary Seymour, 21, of Panama City, who was skin diving in the area when Neal disappeared Saturday, said he tried to find the Army officer. Seymour said two sharks attacked him near a rock formation and that he barely escaped.

Posse's Bullets Kill Convict

JESUP, Ga. (AP)—Bullets fired by a posse killed Charles Chester, 26, escaped Negro convict and bandit Sunday.

The posse chased Chester down Saturday after he escaped from a deputy who had arrested him for driving without a license.

Sheriff John C. Reddish said Chester escaped from state prison at Reidsville while serving a 20-year sentence for armed robbery.

Brawl Mars Wed Rites

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—George and Tania Trojanowski's wedding went off as scheduled Saturday.

A party followed, as scheduled, and then the police arrived, un-scheduled.

One of the uninvited guests, according to police, was hit with a bottle by the groom. Another guest, trying to quiet the two, was stabbed in the arm with a fork.

The bride and groom, along with the peacemaker and the bottle-bopping victim, were taken to police headquarters. First aid was administered. Breach of peace charges were lodged.

George and Tania spent the night at the jail in separate cells.

NY Man, 98, Enjoys Ride

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—What made Pasquale Trimboli make his first trip away from New York in half a century by airplane?

"Because I'm a crazy man — crazy," said the 98-year-old retired home builder with a grin as he embraced his surprised daughter Sunday at the Norfolk airport.

Mrs. S. W. Williams of Portsmouth, couldn't explain the sudden change in her parent's travel tastes.

"My father would hardly go anywhere in a car," she said. "He doesn't like to go even to stay overnight."

Trimboli and his wife, 96, made the plane trip to see their daughter and three grandchildren. They will spend a week in Portsmouth, then return to their Cedarhurst, L. I., home by plane.

After that? "Certainly more travel," said Trimboli.

Solons Write Notes Home About Fall Adjournment

WASHINGTON (AP)—This is the season congressmen start writing the folks back home wistful notes about adjournment.

The plaint of the going-home blues creeps into their chatty weekly newsletters.

"As the temperature and humidity rise, so do the pressures that build up around the more controversial bills which come before the House and Senate in the closing month of a session," Rep. Fred Marshall (D-Minn.) wrote his constituents this week.

It's impossible to predict an adjournment date, Marshall said.

Judge Calls Lawyers Back

SEATTLE (AP)—A federal judge called lawyers back to argue further Saturday in a dispute involving the International Typographical Union and newspapers in the Tri-City area.

The ITU has asked for a summary judgment in a $2,412,000 suit brought four years ago by Scott Publishing Co. of Kennewick, Wash. Defendants are ITU's subsidiary Unitup and the Columbia Basin News of Pasco.

In announcing this week's program of odds and ends legislation, House Majority Leader John McCormack (D-Mass.) offered little hope for a quick goodbye.

Rep. Donald J. Irwin, a young freshman Democrat from Connecticut, told his readers that "these past weeks in Washington have been difficult ones—ones that have been trying yet fascinating, fast-paced yet enlightening."

Irwin, like practically every other congressman who writes home, mentioned the labor control legislation in the House last week. "Seldom has such controversy raged with such fury," he said.

"The House in labor," Rep. Frank Coffin (D-Maine) labeled his lead item back home.

One congressman said he got more than 1,000 letters and telegrams on the subject; and another said he got 100 a day.
