MAJOR LEAGUE TAIL-ENDERS

By John Nolen

That age-old problem about the spitball is continuing to make the rounds. One of the most accused saliva specialists as of late is Milwaukee's Lew Burdette, who was heard to say to Ted Williams, "One of your 'famous' reels went out on me the other day." . . . To which fishing tackle tycoon Williams snipped, "You're probably using spit on it instead of oil." . . .

If you think Burdette's the only one being accused in the National League, keep an eye on the batters asking the ump to make Cincinnati's Bob Purkey show them the ball. . . .

Remember Mike Lee, the Giant's $80,000 bonus baby? Well, the 19-year-old bonus flinger is taking his lumps for Fresno (down on the farm) in the California State League. The latest reports have it that Lee absorbed his 18th

ROY SIEVERS
... Wynn gives him trouble

(yes, I said 18th) loss of the season after giving up nine free passes in two-plus innings.

Naturally, Fresno lost, 14-2, mirling themselves deeper into the league cellar.

Incidentally, Lee and another pitcher named Smith gave up a total of 21 bases on balls during that fateful game, thus giving the Fresno team a phrase that goes "walka bye baby," rather than "bye-bye baby," which is more commonly related to the SF Giants (Orlando Cepeda, the three wondrous Willies, etc.) . . .

Speaking of the Willies, Willie The Third (better known as McCovey) swings at every pitch like it's a golf ball . . . and sends them almost as far as the little pellets. . . .

Dick Stuart, the Pirates' out-of-the-park clouter who at one time clubbed 66 homers in one season for Lincoln in Class C ball, may not be hitting the long ball as of late, however SF head man Bill Rigney says that he's an improved hitter on account he's laying off the high, inside pitch. . . .

Back East, the impression is that the "baseball-zany" Pacific Coast is sentimentally favoring the Braves as the eventual winners of the National League pennant . . . mainly because the Bums have a .200-hitting shortstop . . . and the Giants have to use starters in relief . . . guess we'll know about September 27th. . . .

Red Schoendienst, the Braves' redheaded secondsacker who was sidelined with tuberculosis last fall, admitted last week that he is aiming for the lineup "next spring" instead of this fall.

The fine-fielding veteran who will be 38 in February, said he expects to tag along with the club the rest of the year, possibly leaving him able to step in before the season ends. . . . Most likely, if at all, in a pinch-hitting roll. . . .

Quick quotes from "Baseball Leadoff" seen every Saturday and Sunday on the Game of the Week:

Bob Allison, Washington Senators: "I picked baseball over football because I thought I'd last a bit longer in baseball. It was my best chance for a career."

Vic Power, Cleveland Indians: "The difference between the way we play baseball in Puerto Rico in the winter and the way we play it in the major leagues is that we are more serious up here."

Gil Hodges, Los Angeles Dodgers: "Frank Howard (of the Dodgers organization) is one of the outstanding young players around. They may have brought him up a little early, but he is going to be a great hitter."

Jerry Walker, Baltimore Orioles: "My biggest thrill was beating the Yankees for the first time."

Ed Bailey, Cincinnati Reds: "My biggest thrill in baseball was in 1956, when I was elected the National League's starting catcher over Roy Campanella. . . . One of the biggest assets a catcher can have is to be relaxed. He also must know the hitters."

Gene Woodling, Baltimore Orioles: "Lefty O'Doul (his manager at San Francisco) told me to try and hit every ball through the middle, when in a slump. . . . We (the Orioles) have a tremendous pitching staff. . . . I had decided to quit baseball for family reasons. I'm happy to be back and lucky to be having a good year."

Roy Sievers, Washington Senators: "Manager Cookie Lavagetto helped me when he advised that I move up on the plate, so I could hit outside pitches. . . . Early Wynn, over the years, has given me the most trouble of any American League pitcher."

Minnie Monosa, Cleveland Indians: "I play over 300 games every year. It helps me to keep in shape."

Duke Snider, Los Angeles Dodgers: "I made my managerial debut this year—and lost, 18-3. I managed my son's Little League team in California. . . . Like many other major leaguers with families, the toughest part of baseball is being away from the family so often."

Don Newcombe, Cincinnati Reds: "My arm was hurting last year. But Doc Anderson (Wayne Anderson, Cincy trainer) worked on my arm diligently, and it feels good now."

Vada Pinson, Cincinnati Reds: and change speeds give me trouble at the plate, like Burdette and Spahn of the Braves and Antonelli of the Giants. . . . Last spring, I was timed at 3.3 going from home to first."

Dempsey, Ingemar Sit Down

GOTEBORG, Sweden (AP) — Ingemar Johansson, the world heavyweight champion who wants words matched with dollars, sat down Saturday night in a closed conference with Jack Dempsey and an American delegation to talk about a return bout with Floyd Patterson.

Dempsey, the famed Manassa Mauler, flew into Johansson's home town on the same plane with the champion who knocked out Patterson and lifted the New York slugger's title June 26 in Yankee Stadium.

More than 500 Swedes met the plane at Torslanda Airport. They gave more attention to Dempsey than to the Swedish champion.

Dempsey, who reigned as heavyweight king from 1919 until 1926, was appointed promotion director of the strife-torn Rosensohn Enterprises of New York earlier this week. The organization promoted the June tile bout but Johansson still is looking for his share of the proceeds, which are tied up in a tangle of litigation.

A New York grand jury is inquiring into the promotion of the June title bout.

Erv Lind Florists Win Two

PORTLAND (AP) — The Erv Lind Florists of Portland won twice Saturday night to reach the title round of the Northwest Women's Softball Tournament here.

The Florists, in running their tourney win streak to 3-0, Saturday night blanked the Bremerton Skylarks 2-0 and then came back to white-wash the Seattle Ramblers 3-0.

Their opponent in the title game will not be determined until Sunday afternoon.

In earlier Saturday, Seattle beat Hollywood Boats of Tacoma 5-1 and Bremerton then dropped the Tacoma team from the double elimination tourney 4-0.

'Dancer Snares Saratoga Classic

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP)—Sword Dancer, the copper-hued Brookmeade Stable's colt who is the leading contender for the 3-year-old championship, ran down Middle Brother and Nimmer in the final sixteenth of a mile Saturday to capture the $81,250 Travers Stakes at Saratoga Race Course.

Game Rescheduled

The game between Hal's Sport Shop and Market Basket which was rained out Thursday evening has been rescheduled for 6:45 p.m. Monday at Conger Field. The contest will decide the winner of the city playoffs, which have been running throughout the past two weeks.

Ted, Stan Not Quite Finished

NEW YORK (AP)—If Ted Williams and Stan Musial, two of the greatest hitters of our time, decide to call it quits at the end of the 1959 season, it will not be because they feel they no longer can hit big league pitching.

The two future Hall of Famers made it plain in interviews during the All-Star break in Pittsburgh they are far from washed up, as has been indicated in some quarters.

The 40 - year - old Williams, fiercely proud of his reputation as the most feared hitter in baseball for the past 16 years, refused to subscribe to the theory of slowed reflexes, lost timing and inability to cope with the new crop of fine young pitchers in the American League.

"Don't believe that hogwash," he said. "It's not the pitchers at all who are responsible for my failure to hit. And it's not my age either. It's that damn neck of mine.

"I don't like to talk about it because those newspaper wise guys will accuse me of alibiing and I've never alibied in my life. But this thing is killing me."

Handicapped by a neck condition which sidelined him the first month of the season, Ted got off to the worst start of his career and was hitting a microscopic .217 at All-Star game time.

"I've been hitting a little better in the past two weeks," he said, "but it's going to be a real battle for me to hit .300."

In 16 seasons, Ted has never hit below .317 and owns a lifetime mark of .349.

Had he given any serious consideration to hanging up his spikes?

"Well, I don't want to make any decision now," he said. "It all depends upon this neck of mine. If it comes around, I see no reason to quit. The weather should have a lot to do with it. The doctors seem to think that's all I need—warm weather. I'll let you know in October."

The 38 - year - old Musial, a modest, unassuming man devoid of any temperament, laughed at reports he was through as a top-flight hitter.

"This may sound trite," he said, "but honestly I feel better now than I have during the last three years. I can't explain my .270 batting mark, though. If I could I'd probably be hitting higher."

During the last month, Stan has raised his batting average 34 points from .236 to .270. In the same span, Williams boosted his mark from .173 to .217.

"I think I can reach .300 before the end of the season," Musial said. "In fact, I'm confident I will."

Musial related a conversation he had with Williams the night they were both honored by the Pittsburgh baseball writers for their contribution to baseball over the last two decades.

"We'll both wind up hitting .300," I assured him.

"'You're not too badly off,'" Ted said. "'You're within striking distance of .300. But I've got to hit .500 to make it.'"

Actually, Williams has to hit .365 the rest of the season to climb into the .300 circle. Last year, he batted .346 after the All-Star game to lead the American League hitters for the sixth time with a mark of .328.

"Incidentally, I wonder how old J. B. is getting along without us back at the office?"

Tourney Entries Received

NEW YORK (AP) — A record entry of 1,709 players has been received for the 1959 National Amateur Golf tournament, and one of every nine aspirants will win a place in the championship proper at Colorado Springs, Sept. 14-19.

It marks the fourth USA Tournament this year for which a record entry was received. The previous high for the Amateur was 1,600, set in 1956.

Eleven players are exempt from qualifying. The remaining 1,698 will vie for 189 places in 34 qualifying regions Sept. 1 with a few exceptions.

At St. Paul, Salt Lake City and Spokane the 36-hole tests are scheduled Aug. 31, and at Phoenix one round will be played Aug. 31 and one Sept. 1 because of the heat.

Defending Champion Charles Coe of Oklahoma City, who also won the title in 1949, heads the list of exempt players. The others are:

Harvie Ward Jr., of San Francisco, 1955 and 1956 champion; Jack Westland of Everett, Wash., 1952; Ted Bishop of Boston, 1946; Richard Chapman of Osterville, Mass., 1940; Chick Evans, 1916 and 1920; Deane Beman of Washington, D.C., British Open Champion; Tommy Aaron of Gainesville, Ga.; Roger McManus of Cincinnati and Dick Foote of Santa Ana, Calif., 1958 semifinalists, and William A. Wright of Seattle, 1959 public links champion.

The qualifying sites, with number of entrants and qualifying places, include: Salt Lake City 10-1; Spokane 18-2; Los Angeles 81-11; San Francisco 65-7 and Portland, Ore., 34-4.

Little Leaguers Prepare For WS

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — This central Pennsylvania city spruced up Saturday for its yearly bow to boys and baseball—the Little League World Series.

The youngsters themselves — princes of the 9-to-12 age bracket —move into their dormitories at nearby Lycoming College Sunday.

The boys are members of eight regional championship teams. There is one team each from the North, South, East and West regions of the continental United States, Hawaii, Europe, Latin America and Canada.

Carmen Berates Robinson

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tough, angry little Carmen Basilio, getting ready to meet Gene Fullmer for the vacated NBA middleweight crown, turned his back squarely today on any future meeting with Sugar Ray Robinson.

'Is there a guy named Robinson?" he snorted. "If so, he doesn't exist in my future."

Basilio seethes every time he thinks of the "runaround" which Robinson gave him as he awaited a chance to recapture the title which Robinson lost and then rewon from both him and Fullmer and for which they'll tangle at San Francisco on Aug. 28.

"Robinson doesn't think of anybody but himself," Basilio grated over the phone from San Francisco. "He doesn't treat anybody nice. So why should I be nice to him? So he holds the title in a couple of states.

"Well, let him have those remnants," Basilio growled. "But he'll not get any help from me."

Both Robinson and Fullmer have posted a $5,000 forfeit with the NBA, which stripped Robinson of his title for failure to sign for a title defense, to insure that the winner will meet the number one challenger within 90 days. Spider Webb holds that spot at the moment.

Meanwhile, Basilio rules the favorite to beat Fullmer although the aggressive Gene at 28 is four years younger than the one-time New York state onion farmer.

"This probably will be one of my toughest bouts," Carmen figures. "Fullmer is rough, tough and aggressive. He's always coming, and he makes you work."

Basilio is confident of victory—as well as a big payday even without the lure of the Robinson name. Basilio and Art Aragon drew the record California gate of $236,000, topping such events as Robinson vs. Bobo Olson and even Rocky Marciano-Don Cockell. This one figures to draw even better than that one.

"Robinson had a lot of height on me," says Basilio, who won the title from Sugar Ray and lost it back in 15-round fights. "Fullmer is closer to my height, which on the surface makes it easier for me. But he's a swinger, too, just like I am, so anything can happen when somebody gets tagged on the chin. It should be real tough."

Basilio expects a "head-on war" with "both of us bombing from the bell." Actually it shapes up as exactly that kind of a bout for neither man cares much for the niceties of boxing, dispensing with the fancy work in the interests of busting the opposition on the kisser until something gives.

"Each of us naturally wants real bad to get the title back," Carmen said. "Robinson wants to hang onto what he has left, but the winner between us is going to be in the driver's seat."

Weather Too Hot For Rigney & Co.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—It was just too darn hot for the San Francisco Giants Saturday.

Manager Bill Rigney kept his National League leaders in the comfort of their air-conditioned hotel in mid-town until an hour and half before game time with the Phillies in Connie Mack Stadium.

Thus the Giants went into action without the benefit of their customary batting and fielding practice. But Rigney, dripping with perspiration in 90 - degree heat at the ball park said:

"Who needs those things in this kind of weather?"

Defending Champ Faces 'Toughies'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defending Champion Anne Quast runs into anything but a pushover when the National Women's Amateur Championship opens at Congressional Country Club on Monday.

Miss Quast, who won the title last year at Darien, Conn., meets Marge Burns of Greensboro, N.C., in one of 64 first-round matches on the 6,457-yard par 74 course. Miss Burns is among the South's leading players.

Tournament pairings also pitted Elizabeth Price of Tilford, England, the reigning British Ladies' title holder, against Sandra Clifford of Mexico, the Mexican champion who recently won the German Amateur crown.

Golf Classic Entries Lagging However Big Field Expected

Although the number of entries received at the present time is only a trickle, a flood is expected at the first of the week for the Oregon Golfers Association Medal play tournament slated for Reames Golf and Country Club, beginning Friday, August 28 and running through Sunday, August 30.

"Even though the earlier prediction was numbered at nearly 100 entries," noted Clark Good Reames golf pro, "we are now expecting a field of about 75."

The tourney, which is open to all golfers of the 29 OGA member clubs, plus the five Washington counties bordering the Columbia River and the Red Bluff-Redding area, is the second major tournament to be held in Klamath Falls during the past two months. Reames hosted the Oregon Professional Golfers tourney earlier this summer.

Saturday morning Good received an entry for next weekend's tourney from Bob Bronson, last year's defending champion. Bronson copped the Junior-Senior division and earned the tourney title by posting the lowest score of all entrants.

Also among the expected entrants, who will be competing over 54 holes for a large number of merchandise prizes in each of the three divisions in the three-day classic, are Dick Yost, 1951-52 champion, George Barrington, 1953 winner, Kermit Smith, 1954 titlist, Bob Prall, king in both 1955 and 1956 and Dick Stearns, 1957 winner.

Bill Gregory and Dick Marks from the local club are also on the list of the expected entrants. Gregory, who joined Reames last spring, shot a 73 to earn medalist honors in the club tourney held recently and walked off with the Kingsley Field title earlier this summer. Marks, one of the Reames veterans and better known links aces in the Basin, nabbed the club crown in 1957 and is the director of this year's classic.

Top Aces Doubles Winners

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP)—The two top-ranked teams—the United States' Alex Olmedo and Earl Buchholz and Australia's Neale Fraser and Roy Emerson—Saturday won their way into the finals of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association Doubles Tennis Tournament.

They'll meet Sunday for the title in what could be a preview of the Davis Cup challenge round next week. All are members of the teams that will clash for the top international tennis prize.

Buchholz, of St. Louis, and Olmedo, the young Peruvian master who now plays out of Los Angeles, disposed of Australia's No. 2 team, Rodney Laver and Robert Mark, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4 before about 4,500 Longwood Cricket Club fans.

Fraser and Emerson dropped the No. 2 U.S. team, Barry MacKay, Dayton, Ohio, and Ens. Mike Franks, Los Angeles, 6-2, 11-9, 6-4.

Portland Beaten In World Series

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., (AP)—Rock Island, Ill., started the long way back through the losers' bracket of the Connie Mack World Series Saturday as it defeated Portland, Ore., 4-2.

Only two of the six runs in the game were earned as the losers were charged with four errors and the victors made two mistakes.

Portland	020 000 0—2	6	4
Rock Island	020 200 x—4	4	2

Lawrence and Stansos; Roelens and Kennedy.

Gretna, Va., was eliminated in the second loser's bracket game of the day by Fort Wayne, Ind., 10-1.

1959 May Be Year For Pros

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Commissioner Bert Bell says the National Football League will have arrived competitively when each team wins at least four games in a season.

This could be the year.

Even the have nots appear to have something if reports from training camps are not tinted by rose-colored glasses.

The little word, "if" is the key to the fondest hopes of NFL clubs.

If the Baltimore Colts can lick the over-confidence that sometimes permeates a defending champion, and if quarterback Johnny Unitas has another great year — unhampered by injury—the Colts could repeat in the western division as well as league champion.

If New York musters depth at offensive guard, defensive halfback and defensive end, the eastern division champion Giants could withstand the perennial challenge of the Cleveland Browns and the threat of what appears the best Pittsburgh Steelers' team in history.

Breaking the league down by division:

Baltimore rates the favorite role in the West. Los Angeles and the Chicago Bears, tied for second last year, again appear the Colt's main rivals. Detroit and San Francisco should be improved but not enough to menace the top three. Green Bay almost has to better its 1-10-1 record of 1958.

In the East, most experts predict a three-day dog fight among New York, Cleveland and Pittsburgh. The Washington Redskins are a dark horse with the improved Philadelphia Eagles and Chicago Cardinals sure to be tougher competition than a year ago.

Coach Weeb Ewbank at Baltimore plans to go with the same team which won the crown last year with a thrilling 23-17 victory over New York in the league's first sudden-death playoff.

Los Angeles appears to have great personnel. Coach Sid Gillman can field a dozen offensive and defensive halfbacks, while Billy Wade is the starting quarterback backed up by sophomore Frank Ryan. Only a game behind the Colts in 1958, this team could win it all.

Coach George Halas is trying to juice up his Chicago Bears' offense. The 62-year-old Halas realizes his team is going to have to jell early with four of its first six games against Baltimore and Los Angeles.

San Francisco, fourth last year with a 6-6 record, has a top drawer offense, but must shore up a defense which allowed opposing backs 5.4 yards per carry and opposing teams 27 points a game. Coach Red Hickey drafted half a dozen 260-pound linemen and a few more slightly lighter in hopes of buttressing the defense.

Detroit fell from champion to also-ran in 1958. Coach George Wilson, however, believes his Lions can bounce back.

Corvallis Defeats GP Nine

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP)—Randall's Chuck Wagon of Salem successfully opened defense of its state softball title Saturday.

As the Oregon Men's Softball Tournament got under way, Randall's defeated Springfield's Bombers 3-1. With the score tied 1-1, a two-run Salem rally won it in the sixth.

In another day game, Falkenstein's of Eugene rapped 12 hits and easily beat the Hubbard Garage 9-3.

Springfield	000 010 0—1	3	7
Salem	100 002 x—3	6	3

B. Johnson, Robinson (5) and J. Johnson; Craft and Young.

Hubbard	001 002 0—3	3	5
Eugene	100 044 x—9	12	0

Berkey and Palmer; Willoughby and Moore.

The first night game also was lopsided. Mount Angel Co-Op turned most of its 13 hits into runs and hammered Albany's Dever-Conner team 11-1.

Mt. Angel	102 341 0—11	13	1
Albany	000 010 0— 1	4	3

C. Byer, Schmaltz (5) and Turin; Case, Holman (4) and McClosky, Parrett (5).

The host Corvallis team clipped Grants Pass 7-3 in the second and final night game of the opening round.

The key hit was a two-run triple by pitcher Hal Wehmeier in the second inning that vaulted Corvallis into the lead it never lost.

Corvallis	020 401 0—7	8	1
Grants Pass	000 101 1—3	6	4

Good Golfing With Good

By Clark Good, Reames Golf Pro

It looks as though the OGA medal play to be staged at Reames next weekend will fall on its face unless the mail is filled with a lot of entries between now and then. To date there has been one entry from out of town and one club member sign up for play. This is one of the big tournaments scheduled each year in the state but it has not received the backing normally accorded it.

Personally, I believe that there are too many tournaments staged in the state and it's impossible for each one of them to draw the necessary players to make the tournament a success. The Oregon Golf Association and the Professional Golfers Association are the two organizations that are designed for the betterment of golf. However, I believe that they'd better take stock of the situation and put a limit on the number of tournaments held each year. Tournaments are the backbone of golf but why kill a good thing.

In our own club championship play there was action aplenty as players were going into semifinal matches. Jim Roth scored a mild upset as he defeated Bill Gregory 1 up on the 19th hole. This was the fourth match that Roth has won by the margin of 1 up victories. Roth will now meet the winner of the Moon Mullis-Bob Harahill match that will be played today.

In first flight action Jim Noel advanced into the semifinals with a victory over Frank Tucker. He will meet Ray Beeber who defeated Jim Ray in a marathon matched on the 23rd hole. Jim Johnson moved into the semifinals with a victory over Martin Swanson, he meets Carl Woods who defeated Bob Strickland.

Stan Soran and Ed Robinson will be meeting for the second flight title. Third flight results are incomplete at this time due to postponed matches.

In fourth flight action Jack Fleck moved into the finals by defeating Nick Carter. His opponent will be Dave Card who advanced with a victory over Loren Palmerton.

Fifth flight finals will be between Ivan Kandra and Bill Hagelstein Jr.

Most of the matches in the ladies tournament were postponed due to inclement weather.

Reames will miss having an entry in the annual pro-junior event which is scheduled for August 31 at Royal Oaks Country Club in Vancouver, Washington, due to the conflict with the OGA Medal.

You are invited to join the gallery next weekend for one of the top amateur tournaments in the state.
