

Tug Away! George Evans

The players form a long line facing IT, who stands in the middle of the field. He calls, "Tom, Tom, Tug-away! If you don't come out, I'll pull you away!"

Some of the players then dash for the other side of the field, while IT tries to tag them. All those tagged have to stay with IT and help him. He continues to call out the rest of the players and when only a few are left in the original line, the game gets really exciting. Those who get across are safe. Play till all have tried. This is an old favorite.

Let's Make a Glider! Frances W. Keene

FOLD IN HALF

PAPER CLIP

Paper Gliders

What you need: Stiff paper about 9 x 12 inches, a stapler or paper clips.

What to do: Fold the paper as shown in the illustration. When making the folds, try to do them exactly. Crease the folds with your thumb until they are sharp. To sail them, aim them up into the air, not down at the floor. You can make these gliders loop the loop and spin simply by bending the ailerons up or down.

An Indian Drum

Make two holes, one on each side of one end of an oatmeal box. Thread the ends of a piece of string about two feet long through these holes and tie them on the inside. Now paste the cover on tight and color with paints or crayons.

For drum sticks use twigs and pad the ends with cotton and a piece of cloth held on with a rubber band.

A Funny Trick

Can you cut a hole in a piece of paper 2 inches by 3½ inches so that you can put your head through it? Here's how to do it.

Fold paper in half lengthwise. Starting at folded edge, cut slits about one-quarter inch apart. Then from other side, cut slits between the first ones. Don't cut all the way across. Now cut across these slits between the Xs shown in the drawing and unfold paper into a strip which you can put over your head.

This funny H begins a horse—

A wooden horse who has, of course,

Some wooden rockers on his feet

And on his back, a wooden seat.

NO ONE KNOWS MY HAIR IS GRAY!

because I use

CANUTE WATER

I can hardly believe my eyes as I comb this pure, colorless, crystal clear liquid into my hair. Amazingly, and at once, my gray hair begins to color and look young again—just like my own, original natural shade. It's simply thrilling!

I know my lovely new color does not wash off—and is guaranteed against sun-fading. Takes permanent waving, too. Canute Water is not prepared for beauty shop application. It is designed for easy home use only. A simple retouch about once a month keeps my hair young looking—always.

No skin test required because Canute Water is harmless. Not a single injury in more than 45 years. Only a few cents per application. For men, too. At all drug stores.
