Oldest Indian Has Picture On Calendar

CHILOQUIN — A picture of Amanda Cowen, oldest living Klamath Indian, was chosen as the cover for the community birthday calendar for 1960. Mrs. Cowen, whose birth date is unknown but who is listed as 104 years old on the Indian census, posed earlier this year in a Klamath buckskin gown. Her decorated tulle basket hat and the gown have been owned for many years by Mrs. Henry Wolff.

The calendar, sponsored by the Women's Society of Christian Service, has been published for the past four years and each year more copies are sold. It contains printed information about each day's birthdays, anniversaries, group meetings, basketball schedule, and public interest items such as the opening and closing of school. Approximately 1,100 listings are included.

Mrs. Paul Herron, group president, reported that 14 women worked on the project this year. Mrs. Gerald Wolff was general chairman.

The calendars should arrive from the publishers the first part of December and will be distributed before the end of the year.

Comedy Planned By High School

CHILOQUIN — The high school age dramatics club of Mt. Carmel Catholic Church has invited the Methodist Youth Fellowship of the Chilquin-Fort Klamath Methodist churches to participate in the production of a three act farce-comedy which will be coached by the Rev. Patrick Lunham.

The play will be "She Forgot to Remember," by Charles George, published by Longman, Green and Company.

The following young people have been selected to be in the cast: Tom Northup, Agatha DiUlio, Leona Hunnemuller, Wayne Briceo, Lyle Hall, Alissa Hill, Joe Kirk, Donna Kircher, Norma Souers, Ronnie Hoggarth, Judy McMillan, Judy Stanley, Janet Hall, and Donna Brown.

Several other students will help with the advertising, props, prompting, and scenery but not all names have been announced as yet. The first rehearsal was held late last week.

SLEEPLESS PIGEONS
BRISTOL, England (UPI)—Policeman Joseph Gilbert, 26, Monday asked local officials to remove the new street lamp outside his house because it kept his 65 pigeons from getting their proper sleep.

Turkey Meal Scheduled

CHILOQUIN — A turkey dinner will be served family style by the Women's Society of Christian Service at the Masonic Hall Saturday, October 24, from 5:30 to 8 p.m. as a climax to the all day bazaar which will be held at the same location. Mrs. Paul Herron, group president, announced that Mrs. Walter Zimmerman is general chairman of the entire project.

At the bazaar, which will open at 10:30 a.m., there will be a fancy work table, cooked food sale, candy sale, a country store, and a fish pond. A novelty section will be put on by the Casa de Manana, a new organization of church women.

Funds received from the annual project will go toward the WSCS annual budget which includes payments to missionary work, conference claims, parsonage upkeep, parsonage phone, church pledges and miscellaneous items.

GRANGE NEWS

MIDLAND
Two new members were voted into Midland Grange at a long meeting October 7 attended by 35 members.

They were Mr. and Mrs. James Grigsby. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pyle received the obligation of the order by Master James Flowers.

Opening drill was conducted by the officers—all present except Raymond Andrieu, who is enrolled for the fall term at Oregon State College.

Eleanor Sukraw, home economics chairman, reported on activities of her committee and announced a Halloween party for children of the community October 31 at 7:30 p.m. at Midland Grange Hall. She also announced a public breakfast November 15 at the hall. Grange men will do the cooking and everyone is invited to come and taste "the best hotcakes ever cooked."

The last home economics meeting was conducted at the home of Nellie Motschenbacher. Eighteen members attended.

Floyd Hoover reported on activities of the Legislative Committee, and Kathryn Smith, Relief Committee chairman, told the attendance several members are ill with colds.

Freeda Flowers, publicity chairman, asked for news items to be turned in to her as soon as possible for inclusion in the Pomona Newsletter.

Kathryn Smith, juvenile committee chairman, reported several youngsters are interested in starting a juvenile grange.

Members voted to apply $104, held in the unit's special fund, against the building debt. They also decided to subscribe to a new insurance plan on the hall. Earl Sheridan, grange insurance salesman, explained the policy.

Lecturer Mayme Cammock presented the literary program. Nellie Motschenbacher recited President Eisenhower's "Prayer for the Day." "Something in Our Attic," a recitation, was presented by Grace Stork.

The attendance played games and sang a Halloween song. Jean Sayles and James Flowers won the birthday drawing.

Officers performed the closing drill. Refreshments were served by Thelma Houck and Nellie Motschenbacher.

Next meeting will be conducted October 21 beginning at 8 p.m. with the lecturer's program. A representative from the Oregon Journal will present a special award to David Saks for outstanding work on his paper route. He is a member of Midland Grange.

A business session will follow. The meeting is open to the public.

Integration Vote Due

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Houston school officials, faced with a two-year-old court order to desegregate with "all deliberate speed," will launch an intensified campaign this week for signatures required to call a desegregation election.

School Supt. John McFarland said Friday the Houston City Council of Parent-Teachers Associations has given its support to the drive. "I feel confident we will have 50,000 signatures by Jan. 1," he said.

State law requires approval by voters before a public school district may be integrated or face the loss of state funds.
