

And There Was Light . . .

On Oct. 21, 1879, Thomas A. Edison perfected the first successful incandescent light bulb. This month marks the 80th anniversary of that historic and far-reaching event.

Edison Tower, topped by giant 5,200-watt bulb, was erected at Menlo Park, N.J., in 1938.

World's first electric incandescent lamp, developed after some 1,200 unsuccessful tries.

Edison's constant vigil in 1879. At last, one light was made that burned over 1,500 hours.

Thomas Alva Edison, "The Wizard of Menlo Park," near the end of his career. He died in 1931 at the age of 84. Today, millions of people in many industries owe their jobs to him.

Rockefeller Visits Chicago; Picks Up A Little Ground

CHICAGO (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York wound up a Chicago visit today

Police Probe Tar's Death

SPOKANE (AP) — What happened before a young sailor staggered bleeding onto a lover's lane, tried to speak and fell dead?

Police were trying to untangle the puzzle Monday as they investigated the shooting death of Gary Moretz, 18.

Moretz apparently was shot in the back and chest about a half hour before he staggered mortally wounded to a car parked in Liberty Park before dawn Sunday. A couple in the car told police the youth tried to talk before he died. Moretz had been at a drive-in restaurant earlier with former classmates. He told one he planned to go home.

Officers could find no apparent motive for the slaying. The youth's wallet was untouched.

Moretz, known to friends as a "quiet, easy-going guy who never looked for trouble," earned a football letter at suburban Central Valley High School last year before enlisting in the Navy. He was home on leave.

after establishing a beachhead from which he could battle Vice President Richard M. Nixon for Midwestern support for the Republican presidential nomination. Rockefeller made no sweeping inroads during a two-day stay here on the strong support Nixon commands in the Midwest.

But the New York governor gained a little ground in meetings with newspaper executives and Republican leaders. Several conceded that, while they were not sold on Rockefeller, they were impressed by him and would not rush into any final decision on a presidential candidate.

Rockefeller met Tuesday night with several prominent Midwestern businessmen at the exclusive Chicago Club. The list of guests was kept secret but it reportedly included some of the top contributors to GOP campaigns.

The Rockefeller forces hope this foot in the door will expand into a full-fledged Rockefeller for president boom in the Midwest.

The Chicago visit was the first of a series Rockefeller plans into politically-strategic areas throughout the country.

He will visit California, Oregon, New England and probably Wisconsin next month. His approach probably will be the same it was in Chicago—speeches on top national issues before large groups and emphasis on personality and charm in meetings with small ones.

While the Nixon-Rockefeller contest grows increasingly more prominent on the national political scene, Rockefeller insists "I am not now a candidate."

But Chicago treated him as a candidate.

The New York governor provided ample ground for this view. He told a meeting of the Inland Daily Press Assn. Tuesday that he plans to speak in various parts of the country on such topics as foreign affairs, national defense, the nation's economy, farm policy and education.

He met here with a group of Wisconsin Republicans interested in seeing him run for the party nomination and made tentative plans to appear next month in that state, site of a strategic presidential primary next year.

The Farthing Not Worth . . . A Farthing

LONDON (UPI) — The British farthing isn't worth . . . well, it isn't even worth a farthing.

Queen Elizabeth's royal mint issued a report that sneered at the little coin of the realm as a "sporadic irritant" and one that wasn't worth the bronze it was minted in.

J. H. James, the Queen's secretary of the treasury, also hinted the farthing may not be long for a world in which it can buy absolutely nothing.

A farthing is worth one-fourth of a British penny, and a British penny is worth about the same as an American cent. Before World War II a farthing could purchase up to two matches. Now it cannot even buy a toothpick.

"Farthings may have finished their useful life," the treasury secretary said.

The 203,500,000 farthings jangling uselessly in British pockets may meet their doomsday along with Britain's entire, mixed-up coinage system.

James said once again Britain is humming with plans to sweep away the pound, shilling and pence system that complicates adding machines and taxi meters, annoys bookkeepers and frightens tourists.

He said the British Assn. for the Advancement of Science and the Assn. of British Chambers of Commerce were studying the possibility of adopting the decimal coinage system.

James noted that "nearly every important nation" in the world has followed the American example of using the decimal system of coinage. Canada and India went over to the decimal system and South Africa is toying with the idea.

Mental Patient Dies In Hospital

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — In 1893, while Grover Cleveland was president, Miss Emma McDaniel, then 32, was admitted to a mental institution.

Last week she died there after 66 years without receiving a single visitor or letter.

Records show she was committed for "simple melancholia." Staff doctors in 1941 described Miss McDaniel as a "very nice, quiet, agreeable old lady."

First free public library in America was founded at Dublin, New Hampshire, in 1822.

BOTH, OF COURSE!

Actually, both pictures are of Dr. Noles' 13-year old daughter who has worn contact lenses 16 hours a day for the past two years. And . . . she wears dark green tinted contact lenses for swimming and skiing.
