Engineer To Give Talk

TULELAKE — Tamajong Ndumu, engineer from Nigeria, will be guest speaker at the Tulelake Rotary Club Wednesday, October 28.

Ndumu, who is in the United States on a program sponsored jointly by the United States and the Nigerian government, is studying highway construction and maintenance, especially at the county level. He expects to return home next January.

Ndumu is from Bamenda, Southern Cameroons, where his parents now live. His father is a retired civil servant. Ndumu won government scholarships to high school, technical college and to the University of London. When he was in technical college during the war, he worked as a volunteer constable during the night.

He graduated from the University of London in 1952 and worked for a firm of consulting structural engineers as the assistant resident engineer on the eight million dollar construction of the Bank of England Printing Works.

In 1954 he returned to Nigeria and joined the civil service as a civil engineer in the Ministry of Works and Surveys. Since then he has constructed highway bridges, highways, and ran a school for training highway foremen.

During the last year he has worked in planning programs on domestic water supply schemes and a highway development program for 1962-1972. He has traveled in France, Western Germany, Belgium, Holland and Denmark and last year he spent four months in the British Ministry of Transport, Road Research Laboratory, and with Shell Bitumen Laboratory.

Ndumu will give a brief account of his program, his country and the nature of his work, and will allot most of his appearance to the answering of questions.

Worry Okay, But Employ Discretion

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Doctors are junking the old "don't worry, take it easy" pitch in treating patients with high blood pressure.

The new slant: go ahead and worry, but don't worry about your worrying. That was the word today from Dr. Robert W. Wilkins of Boston, an authority on an ailment that afflicts some 15 million Americans.

A former president of the American Heart Association, Dr. Wilkins told interviewers: "We used to say to a patient with high blood pressure, 'take it easy and don't worry.'"

"Well, if there are two things a hypertensive congenitally can not do, it's those two things. 'By and large, there are some lazy hypertensives. But, in families of hypertensives, if traced, they are go-getters. They are enthusiastic and they worry to beat hell.'"

"They may not look it. They look placid, but this isn't deep-seated in the psyche somewhere where you have to dig it up with a pitch fork with a psychiatrist. They are tense people. I never tell my patients not to worry. Instead, I say: 'You are going to worry, just don't worry about the fact that you worry.'"

"I don't ever tell them to take it easy. The hypertensive needs to work off a lot of emotional energy in activity. And it's a common experience, particularly in the use of drugs, that patients' blood pressures will come down on exercise, and not go up."

'Court Nixes Exhibit

WASHINGTON (AP) — An exhibit by the City of Seattle was ruled out Thursday by the Federal Power Commission in a hearing on conflicting proposals for hydroelectric projects on the Pend Oreille River in Washington.

The exhibit was a geographical-geological model of a section of the Pend Oreille River valley, prepared by geological consultants for the city.

Richard S. White, attorney for Seattle, argued the model was intended to clarify testimony about the area involved in the opposing applications by the city and the Pend Oreille County Public Utility District.

J. K. Cheadle, attorney for mining interests which oppose dams in the area, said the model "is more confusing than clarifying."

He argued that what the model intends to show has been or can be introduced in the hearing record by maps or other documents.

Chinook was used verbally in the Pacific Northwest for a century. It is a combination of English, French and Indian languages.

Pharmacist Joins Staff

Lowell P. Dunn, operator of East Side Pharmacy, 808 East Main Street, announces the addition of Lorraine Hanson to the store's staff as a pharmacist.

Miss Hanson is a graduate of North Dakota State College at Fargo, in pharmacy. Her home town is Herman, Minnesota, where her father operates his own drugstore. So, in her words, "I grew up in a drugstore."

It is practically a family profession, too, as her sister is a pharmacist at Wahpeton, North Dakota.

Asked how she happened to come to Klamath Falls, she replied she had heard there was an opening for a pharmacist here through friends who live in Klamath Falls. She arrived on September 21 and was working at the East Side Pharmacy on September 23.

Paratrooper Finds Self 'Pretty Lucky'

FT. CAMPBELL, Ky. (AP) — The 19-year-old freckle-faced paratrooper looked up from his wheelchair and said "I'm pretty lucky."

Francis J. Dolaher thinks his luck arrived the day he made his ninth jump with the 101st Airborne Division.

His parachute opened only five feet instead of the usual 32, and Dolaher plunged 1,250 feet to earth, landing a mass of broken bones and internal injuries. He received last rites—twice. But he lived.

That was 80 days ago. Now Dolaher is 70 pounds below his normal 183, but expecting to walk with only a stiff ankle after another year of treatment.

Dolaher says "God was with me. I guess. Up till then, I'd just been average lucky."

After his fall "it took me a while to get used to the idea" of being alive. "But as long as I was alive, I decided to stay alive."

What caused the near-tragedy? In Dolaher's words: "I don't know if I blacked out or what. First thing I remember is: I looked up and saw my parachute lines were twisted. I tried to shake them out but before I could do anything I hit the ground."

Dolaher, a private, wants to finish a three-year enlistment that began in June of 1958 with the 101st. His home is Charlestown, Mass.

And although he's resigned to no more jumping, he sighed: "I'd never even been in a plane before I joined up. But I got so I liked jumping. I'd like to have made a few more jumps."

The November meeting of Klamath Union High School Parents and Patrons will be an open house at the high school cafeteria on November 2, starting at 8 p.m., according to Mrs. Jim Wells, program director.

Mrs. Bert Schmidt will be in charge of refreshments and Mrs. Jim Olson in charge of hospitality. Entertainment will be a program presented by the Klamath Union High School choir. Student officers and club officers will be introduced.

Parents and friends will be invited to follow the students' schedule so they will have a better understanding of how their youngsters spend their school hours.

Friends as well as members are urged to attend, according to R. Frank Tucker, Parents and Patrons president.

Landscape Course Set

The Oregon Federation of State Garden Clubs in cooperation with the State College Extension Division is setting up a Short Course Landscape Design School, to be held the first week of May 1960 at Corvallis.

The school will be composed of four courses, each including reading assignments and 11 hours of lectures over a two-day period by qualified instructors of landscape design. A two-hour examination will be given on the third day.

Students for Course I will be housed in the college dormitories at a nominal charge. Accommodations will necessarily be limited, so preference will be given the early registrants.

Books on the required and recommended reading lists will be announced about February 1.

The course is not limited to garden club members. It is open to landscape architects, nurserymen, city planners, members of park departments, public outdoor recreation committees, and to all who are interested in beautifying surroundings.

Prof. Donald J. Martel, head of the Landscape Design Division, Oregon State College, is coordinator of the school program. Mrs. Vern Brader, Chemult, is State Garden Club president, and ex-officio member of the committee for organizing the school; Mrs. Hugh O'Connor, Klamath Falls, local chairman; Mrs. J. B. Coons, Corvallis, arrangements chairman; Mrs. Vernon Eilers, Aurora, publicity chairman; and Mrs. W. F. Stellmacher, Albany, hostess chairman.

Further details will be released at a later date.

Old Age Benefit Payments Up 25 Per Cent In County

As of February 1959, old-age, survivors, and disability insurance monthly benefits were being paid in Klamath County at the rate of $2,156,000 a year, according to Wilber Womer, manager of the Klamath Falls social security office.

"This is an increase of about 25 per cent over last year," Womer said.

He stressed that while the benefits are intended primarily for the beneficiary's economic security, the payment of social security benefits at the rate of over two million dollars a year in Klamath County helps business in the community generally because most of the money is spent immediately on food, clothing, and other necessities. "In February social security benefits were being paid nationally at a rate of nearly 10 billion dollars annually."

"Payments to a retired worker average $71.60 a month nationally in February, and to a retired couple $119.40 a month," Womer said. The average for a widow with two young children was $165. The maximum payment for a family is $254.

There were several reasons for the increase in beneficiaries over last year. The long-term growth of the aged population and of the proportion of the aged population eligible for benefits are important factors in the continuing increase in the number of beneficiaries. Other reasons for the increase of beneficiaries are found in the provisions of the 1958 Amendments to the Social Security Act which now make it possible for the wife, dependent husband, and children of a disabled-worker beneficiary to receive monthly payments. These amendments also provide for benefits to aged dependent parents of a deceased worker even though other survivors are entitled to payments.

Increases in average benefit payments reflect the seven per cent raise in benefit amounts which became effective with the checks for January 1959. Average disability benefit payments also reflect the elimination of the so-called "offset" provision in the old law. Disability benefits under social security are now payable in full even though benefits are also payable under state workmen's compensation or under some other federal government program.

The following list shows number and amount of each type of benefit being paid in Klamath County as of February 28, 1959.

Beneficiary Group: Retired Worker; Number of Beneficiaries, 1636; Payments Per Month, $122,726.

Beneficiary Group: Disabled Worker; Number of Beneficiaries, 47; Payments Per Month, $4,294.

Children; Number of Beneficiaries, 67; Payments Per Month, $4,175.
