

Day's News

By FRANK JENKINS

Today's topics:
Miss Evelyn Rudie. Age 9. IQ 140. (Anywhere in the middle 130's is considered to be genius class.)
Home?
Hollywood—of course.

What did she do?
Well, she took a sudden notion to go and see Mrs. Eisenhower. So, sayin' nothin' to nobody, she cracked her piggybank for $125.00 and took off for Baltimore, which is only a hop, skip and a jump from the White House. She took off via American Airlines jet. (The AA explained later that anyone over 8 can fly unaccompanied by an adult if full fare is paid.)

Why the visit to the President's wife?

When located in Baltimore (her absence from home created quite a furor) she explained that "the last time I saw Mrs. Eisenhower she told me she and the President had enjoyed me SO MUCH, so I thought I'd talk with her and see if she could get me a part in a TV series."

(She once posed with Mrs. Eisenhower at the White House to promote Savings Bonds.)

A word of explanation:
Evelyn isn't just a stage-struck infant. Several years ago she made a hit as the spoiled brat star of TV's "Eloise" in "Playhouse 90." She earned $60,000 in 1957, and last year she signed a six-year talent agency contract that is expected to bring her close to a million dollars.

She chose the right profession, you see.

If you want to earn a LOT of money, and have what it takes, ENTERTAIN people. People will pay ANYTHING to be entertained.

Historical note: It always has been that way. The minstrels and the troubadours of the Middle Ages, for example. They lived high on the hog.

One more point:
Evelyn's 140 IQ told her that if she wanted to be a SMASH HIT she must GET INTO THE NEWS in a big way.
She acted accordingly.

In conclusion:

What's an IQ?

Maybe we'd better go into that.

IQ is short for "intelligence quotient." Intelligence quotient is a measure used by psychologists to express a person's intelligence. Modern intelligence tests are based on findings published in 1908 by Alfred Binet and Theodore Simon. The intelligence quotient is based on the individual's MENTAL age and his CHRONOLOGICAL age, or age in years.

The IQ is found by dividing the mental age by the chronological age and multiplying the result by 100. A boy of eight years who has the mind of a ten-year-old would have an IQ of 10 divided by 8, multiplied by 100, or 125. Persons with an IQ of 90 to 109 are classified as normal, or average.

Back in 1937, Terman and Merrill published the result of their testing of 2004 children. Their IQ's were marked as dots on a chart. A line was drawn connecting the dots. The line took the shape of a bell. The number of superior children was small and matched almost exactly the number of mentally defective children. The high, full part of the bell-shaped line fell at 100. This is the point at which a child's mental age is the same as his age in years.

It was found that almost half the children rated as normal, or average, while .03 per cent were as low as 30-39 and .03 per cent were as high as 160-169. This was believed to show that about half the members of our society are normal in intelligence, and that there are about as many persons of low intelligence as there are persons of high intelligence.

TV Sponsor Accuses CBS Network

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Columbia Broadcasting System was accused today of not moving promptly to investigate early reports of television quiz show rigging.

The accusation was made by George Abrams, a former vice president of Revlon Inc., sponsor of the now defunct shows, "$64,000 Question" and "$64,000 Challenge," in testimony before the House Legislative Oversight subcommittee.

Abrams testified under oath that two cases of alleged quiz show fixing were brought to the attention of CBS "and nothing happened."

Abrams first alluded to "a whitewash," but quickly added: "Maybe that's a severe term. They were dragging their feet."

Frank Stanton, president of CBS, as well as Robert E. Kintner, president of the National Broadcasting Co., were on call to testify later in the day.

Abrams was former vice president in charge of advertising for Revlon. He is now president of the cosmetics and toiletries division of Warner-Lambert Pharmaceutical Corp.

Abrams testified the first protest reported to CBS came in March 1958 from Arthur J. Cohn Jr., a contestant on "Challenge," that his opponent had been given a question in a warmup session that was later used on the air.

He said the second incident was the story told the next fall by the Tennessee minister, the Rev. Charles E. Jackson, that he had been coached on actual questions and answers.

Nonetheless, the show stayed on the air, Abrams continued. One of the things which tended to reassure networks and sponsors, he testified, was a news survey which he said in effect cleared the shows.

Abrams described fixing of the "$64,000" shows as an act of desperation to save them from plummeting viewer ratings.

Panama Chief Raps Riots

PANAMA (AP)—President Ernesto de La Guardia Jr. Wednesday night "condemned and disapproved" violent demonstrations by Panamanian nationalists against U. S. control of the Canal Zone.

De La Guardia told the nation in a broadcast that the attacks Monday on the U. S. Embassy and on U. S. Army troops and Canal Zone police at the border of the zone "were not fair to the authorities of a country which has, with us, a vital and mutual interest in the canal."

Feeling against the United States still ran high. Demonstrators stoned the offices of the American-owned light and power company in the capital Wednesday and set fire to an automobile.

Shortly before De La Guardia went on the radio, Panama charged in a diplomatic note that the U. S. troops and police provoked the anti-U. S. violence by their rough handling of nationalists trying to parade the Panamanian flag through the Canal Zone.

"FIRST OPPORTUNITY to purchase homes will be given those who are now living in them." This statement was made by John Mantle, general manager for the Weed Branch, International Paper Company, Long Bell Division, at a press conference Tuesday. Top picture shows company-owned houses on Shasta Avenue, typical of 190 such houses released for sale by the International Paper Company. Lower picture shows a closeup of one of the employee-occupied homes. Final approval for sale of the houses has been received from California's Real Estate Board. An office of Long-Bell Division's Real Estate Department will be established in Weed under the management of George F. Ruth.

Defense Plant Tax Measure Eyed By Solon

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A Northern California state senator claims the Los Angeles Board of Supervisors and the County's Congressional delegation are not united over enactment of a defense plant "possession interest" tax.

Sen. Randolph Collier (D-Yreka) offered Wednesday to sponsor a bill permitting local governments to levy a property tax against equipment and material used in defense factories.

But Collier attached an "if" clause to his offer.

He said he would sponsor the bill providing the Los Angeles Congressional delegation joined with the supervisors in requesting the measure.

A possession interest tax bill was killed by the Senate Revenue and Taxation Committee in the 1959 Legislature.

A group of Southern Californians claimed the Senate action illustrated the need for reapportioning the upper house to give the Southland more representation.

Collier said he understood the bill died because the Los Angeles Congressional delegation "feared it would be used as an excuse to deprive Southern California of millions of dollars of defense contracts."

He said the Senate committee which killed the bill was "confronted by a choice between two evils."

"On the one hand, Los Angeles County stood to lose millions of dollars in property taxes because of failure to enact the law, plus being forced to refund millions of dollars already collected and spent."

"The other unpalatable alternative was the prospective loss of defense contracts to other areas, which might have had a disastrous impact on the economy."

Collier said it was not necessary for Frank Bonelli, chairman of the Los Angeles supervisors, to threaten the state Senate with reapportionment to get favorable consideration of the tax.

"All he has to do is convince the Los Angeles Congressional Delegation that the benefits of the proposed tax outweigh the disadvantages," Collier said.

Labor, Capital Stymied, Federal Mediators Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal mediators said today management and union officials are in an absolute deadlock on a key issue in the steel strike.

This is the industry's insistence on the right to change working conditions it considers wasteful or inefficient. David J. McDonald, United Steelworkers general president and top negotiator for his side, has served notice that it would be accepted only "over my dead body."

Central U.S. Feels Chill

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wintry weather, with heavy snow and cold northerly winds, struck much of the north central part of the country today.

Early morning temperatures headed into the teens and to near zero in some northern areas. It was below zero in some sections of the Rockies. The season's coldest weather was in store for the nation's midsection.

Cold wave warnings, with strong winds and blowing snow, were in effect from the central Rockies eastward into the Dakotas, Nebraska and parts of Kansas and Oklahoma. Heavy snow warnings were posted for Upper Michigan and northern Wisconsin.

The mid-autumn storm swept through Montana and Wyoming Wednesday and fanned across the midlands. Up to 14 inches of snow fell in the Montana Rockies and blizzards pounded parts of Wyoming and eastern Colorado.

The government obtained the injunction in federal court in Pittsburgh two weeks ago on grounds the strike is menacing the nation's health and safety.

Eloise Flies To Washington In Hopes Of Getting Show

WASHINGTON (AP) — Evelyn — or was it Eloise — took off from Hollywood Wednesday and headed for the White House to get Mamie Eisenhower to promote a new television series for her.

Nobody told her to do it, 9-year-old child actress Evelyn Rudie insisted after making a jet airliner trip across country on her own. It wasn't a publicity stunt, she claimed, just a way she thought she might get back to working again on TV. Two years ago she portrayed an impish brat named Eloise.

Of course, she didn't make it to the White House, where she had once posed with Mrs. Eisenhower to promote U.S. Savings Bonds.

"When I saw Mrs. Eisenhower in Washington last year, she told me that she and her grandchildren and the President enjoyed my acting so much," Evelyn explained. "So I decided to talk with her and see if she couldn't help me get a part in a film or TV series."

The idea had become a sort of game at home, said her mother, Mrs. Emory Bernauer. Finally, she said, she told Evelyn jestingly if she wanted to see Mrs. Eisenhower to go ahead. "Pack your bag, buy your ticket, and go."

"I never dreamed she would take me seriously," Mrs. Bernauer said in Hollywood. But Evelyn disappeared at dawn and she called police.

Evelyn apparently bought her ticket with $125 from four piggy banks, called her own cab, and took off.

Employee Home Purchase Plan Formulated By Weed Company

By LUCILE GAYNOR

WEED—Letters from the International Paper Company, Long-Bell Division Weed Branch, announcing the plan to enable employees to buy company houses here were received Wednesday by some 330 Weed employees now living in the company-owned houses, or in their own houses on company property.

John Mantle, general manager, Weed Branch, announced the sale plan of the 190 houses and lots, and 160 lots with the privately owned houses on them at a press conference held in his offices here Tuesday afternoon.

"First opportunity to purchase homes will be given those who are now living in them," Mantle said. He expressed confidence that "private ownership of homes will benefit our community and those who live here."

An office of the Long-Bell Division Real Estate Department under the management of George F. Ruth will be established in Weed. The local office will handle transactions for the purchase of houses and lots. H. C. York, Weed Branch office manager, will serve as the resident manager, Ruth said.

THE SALE PLAN offered to the Weed house rental employees is a down payment of 10 per cent of the purchase price on a 20-year plan at 5 per cent interest rate. Lots with private homes will be offered under the same rate but on a 10-year plan. Ruth said the average cost of houses in the three subdivisions for sale runs less than $4,000. Present renters will be given a reasonable time to accept the company offer, he said.

Before the homes and property could be available for purchase the entire property had to be mapped and platted — thus subdividing into lots and blocks. Oscar Piemme, engineer of Yreka, supervised the undertaking. On approval of the County Planning Commission the plans were submitted to the California Real Estate Board who gave final approval in August. Operations for the subdivision have been underway since early 1958.

Water, fire, sewage, power and other problems had to be ironed out before the property could be sold. Mantle announced a new Weed Water Company had been formed for the water situation. The water company will be under the management of Mantle as president; Henry G. Reents, vice president; H. C. York, secretary-treasurer. A bulk flat rate will be charged for the water he said.

The Shasta Fire Protection District will provide fire protection, having recently taken the company subdivisions into the fire district. This also benefited the department with the tax valuation increase.

GOOD PUBLIC sewage disposal

Installation of a complete sprinkler system inside every California school was advocated by Battalion Chief John G. Degenkolf of Los Angeles. Degenkolf cited statistics showing that no child had ever been killed in a fire in a school equipped with such a system.

He added that the Chicago school disaster in which 95 died last year could have been avoided if a complete sprinkler system had been in order.

The public hearing by an Assembly subcommittee on fire protection was held at the State Department of Public Health in Berkeley.

Degenkolf told the four members of the subcommittee that Los Angeles is installing complete systems in 39 junior and senior high schools, at a total cost of only $380,000, less than $10,000 per school.

Berkeley Fire Chief Chester W. Moller urged changes in state law to make complete sprinkler systems mandatory in schools through out California.

Moller also told of three schools in Berkeley that are considered "fire hazards" that should be made safe or closed. He said 10 schools were in such condition in 1949.

The Panamanian counter-protest was delivered by Foreign Minister Miguel J. Moreno Jr. to U. S. Ambassador Julian F. Harrington while new anti-American violence erupted in Panama City.

Mobs smashed windows in the Chase Manhattan Bank building and the U.S.-owned power and light company before being dispersed by National Guardsmen.

Panamanian National Guardsmen also patrolled the borders with the Canal Zone where U. S. Army troops stood guard behind newly erected barbed wire barricades to block any new invasion attempt by nationalistic elements from Panama.

will continue to be operated by the company which already has a good disposal plant installed. A study will be made regarding any charge for the sewage service, Mantle stated.

Plans are for electricity to be available from the California Oregon Power Company and is now awaiting approval of the Federal Power Commission.

A total of 1,136 telephones are in operation here through the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company and that service will continue.

The entire area is included in the Police Protection District.

All roads in the subdivision have been dedicated into the county road system, Mantle said, with the exception of a few short and narrow streets and alleyways.

Mantle stated the company had taken the lowest price submitted by three appraisers in effort to make it as easy as possible for the employees to buy.

Vacant lots and outlying company owned property will also be offered for sale. Not all company owned houses are included in the sale, as 67 are in the plant site area, Mantle said. Present renters will be allowed to remain in those.

Norman S. Walker, insurance engineer, stated the insurance problem will become a private matter with the new property ownership and that the present company responsibility would end at the point of sale. No insurance office will be set up here, according to him.

THE COMPANY officials said further that information regarding building restrictions are recorded and may be inspected at the office of the Siskiyou County recorder at the courthouse in Yreka. Information about zoning regulations may be obtained from the Siskiyou County Planning Commission, also at the Yreka Courthouse.

Latest development in Weed by the International Paper Company is the construction of the new near million dollar planing mill, which will not be in operation until the first of the year. The original September operation date was delayed due to the machinist strike in Seattle.

Doubling of the capacity of the plywood plant here was the first new development of the Weed Branch by I.P.C. since the Long-Bell merger November 18, 1956. Enlargement of the main offices here will be another development for the near future.

With the sale of company houses here, Mantle agreed with James Mallory, chamber of commerce president, that "this is a step in the direction of incorporation of the town of Weed." Mallory praised the company for the many benefits extended the community in the past by the company's cooperation with the local police, fire, recreation and sanitary districts.

Mallory expressed the belief that the sale of houses will no doubt promote better relationship and that the home owners will take more pride in maintenance.

The subdivision area placed for sale comprises approximately 30 per cent of the town of Weed and affects approximately 1,300 people.

OSLO, Norway (AP)—The Nobel Peace Prize was awarded today to Philip Noel-Baker, a scholarly British statesman who has worked for years toward peace and disarmament.

The cash award of $42,850 comes as a belated birthday present to Noel-Baker, 70 last Sunday.

A Labor party member of Britain's House of Commons for three decades, he received the news calmly in London.

"I heard a rumor that I was in line for this reward," he said, "but I didn't believe it."

The prize committee—a five-man group of Norway's Parliament—chose him because of his work for peace and disarmament throughout his career. He is a prolific writer of articles on disarmament.

Noel-Baker's career has kept him in the international limelight much of the time since the Paris peace conference of 1919.

A PORTION of the new planing mill, latest development in Weed by the International Paper Company, is shown in this photograph of the shipping department. The mill, housing a modern planing mill grader, storage for finished lumber and improved shipping facilities, was originally scheduled to open September 1. A machinists' strike in Seattle forced a change of date to the first of the new year. Additional company plans for improvement include enlargement of the main offices at Weed in the near future.

SAFETY PROGRAMS, newly inaugurated by the California Highway Patrol, have been presented at schools throughout the state recently. Here two state highway officers illustrate to students at Montague Elementary School that a car can't really stop on a dime. The car traveled 42 feet, 8 inches after brakes were applied, demonstrating visually that caution must be used in crossing streets.
