Faith Lost In Quiz Shows

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Broadcasting Magazine reports the public's confidence in TV programs — especially quiz shows — dropped sharply after Charles Van Doren confessed his appearances were rigged.

The industry publication reached this conclusion as the result of two national opinion polls. One was taken before Van Doren told his story to House investigators.

The magazine's report came Sunday as Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.) warned the industry it might be in for a rude shock when Congress reconvenes in January unless it moves fast to clean house and make "some long overdue changes in programming."

The magazine said the second poll showed that more than half of the viewing public now wanted no more quiz shows. More than half also had lowered their opinion of the TV industry after hearing Van Doren, the same poll showed.

Chief Of Indian Forces Ordered To Halt Reds

NEW DELHI (UPI) — The Indian government today ordered army commander Gen. K.S. Thimayya to halt with force any further Chinese Communist aggression at the border, cabinet sources disclosed.

The order was disclosed after an emergency midnight meeting of the inner cabinet called to study Red China's latest note in the border dispute. The Peiping note defiantly reiterated Chinese claims to Indian territory.

Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru met with Thimayya and the cabinet at the residence of strong-

Political Maverick Dies At 73

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William (Wild Bill) Langer (R-ND), a colorful political maverick both as governor and as senator, is dead at 73.

He spent 45 turbulent years in politics, the last 19 of them in the Senate.

Langer died in his sleep of heart failure Sunday at his home. He had been ailing since his wife, Lydia, died of cancer Aug. 4. He recently spent three weeks in a hospital with pneumonia.

through many a political whirlwind. In 1934 he easily won nomination for reelection as governor of North Dakota although he was under a federal indictment for conspiracy. Eventually he was acquitted.

Only last year he won reelection — without making a single campaign speech — in spite of the opposition of his own state Republican organization.

In the Senate Langer voted against the Eisenhower administration more often than with it. He opposed Eisenhower's foreign policy. Anything proposed by Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson was almost sure to bring Langer's opposition.

Langer was an orator of the old school, who emphasized his words with windmill gestures and much banging on the desk. His trademark was a cigar forever clamped in his mouth. He never lit one.

His sense of humor could be disconcerting. Once, while Sen. Homer Capehart (R-Ind) was making a Senate speech, Langer lounged in a chair in front of him. He began plucking cigars from Capehart's breast pocket.

The struggle was unequal. Capehart faltered, lost the thread of his speech and finally just sat down.

Typical of Langer's often lonely political stands was one of his last Senate votes. He and Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore) were the only senators to vote against the labor reform bill at the last session.

Another key party vote was on the confirmation of Lewis L. Strauss as secretary of commerce earlier in the year. Two Republicans voted against Strauss — Langer and Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine. Strauss's confirmation was defeated 49-48.

ly anti-Communist Home Minister G.B. Pant. The meeting, in an atmosphere of intensely worsening Sino-Indian relations, lasted nearly three hours.

Communist China Premier Chou En-lai said India's latest note on the clashes along the Sino-Indian borders showed "An attitude which is extremely harmful to the friendly relations between the two countries."

The Chou statement was broadcast by the New China news agency in Peiping and monitored in Tokyo. The Indian government released the text of the latest note to Peiping today.

A source close to the cabinet said Thimayya had outlined defenses along the border. Thimayya was instructed to take vigorous action to stop further Communist advances but not to begin any offensive.

Communist troops now occupy Longju in the wild northeast frontier agency and some areas in the Ladakh region.

The note from Peiping that precipitated the rush meeting of the cabinet came only hours after the government released the text of its own latest note to Peiping.

It warned the Chinese that India would use "all means available" to halt the Chinese creeping aggression below the traditional India-Tibet-China border.

In the note to Red China today India rejected as a "travesty of the truth" Chinese claims of Indian responsibility for the clash between Indian and Chinese troops Oct. 21 in the Ladakh region of the Indian state of Jammu and Kashmir. Nine Indians were killed in the battle.

The Indian note called the incident a "Lapse into violence and aggression" on China's part and demanded that the Reds remove their troops from Indian territory and seek to resolve frontier disputes by peaceful means.

The note said it was "a matter of special regret" that China's "ruthless attack" at Ladakh came at a time when both Russia and the United States "are striving to their utmost ability to put an end to the cold war."

(President Eisenhower is due in India for a five-day visit next month. Diplomatic sources confirmed Sunday that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev may also visit Nehru soon.)

The note to Peiping revealed for the first time that the Communists occupied parts of Ladakh as far back as 1957 but this was unknown to the Indian government until recently because the area is inhabited very sparsely and India "had no reason to anticipate any aggression from China." The Chinese have crossed the McMahon line border several times and now claim nearly 40,000 square miles of land traditionally considered Indian.
