Immunity Saves Lad From Police

By RONALD H. NESSEN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An automobile driven by the son of Ireland's ambassador struck and killed a pedestrian Wednesday night but the youth invoked his diplomatic immunity and police set him free.

David Hearne, 21, who was arrested last month for socking a policeman, first was booked on a homicide charge following the accident and then released to Ambassador John Joseph Hearne.

Young Hearne has been in repeated jams with police. But on each occasion he has escaped punishment by invoking his diplomatic immunity.

A police lieutenant in the accident investigation unit said all charges originally lodged against young Hearne were "red lined," or wiped off the books, when he invoked his diplomatic immunity.

The ambassador, who came to the police station to pick up David, assured District of Columbia Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald that his son would appear at an inquest Friday although he is not legally required to show up.

Police said the car driven by young Hearne struck Mrs. Jossie Hamlin, a 54-year-old Negro, about 6 p.m. e.s.t. as she was crossing an intersection in the northern part of the city.

Police Pvt. Earl M. Rinick said Hearne told him that while he was making certain that he missed another pedestrian who passed in front of his car, Mrs. Hamlin suddenly appeared a few yards beyond and was struck.

Rinick said the victim was struck by the right front fender of the car and knocked 41 feet. She was pronounced dead on arrival at Providence Hospital.

After Hearne's fight last month with a policeman outside a local night spot, a precinct clerk said the youth had been "quite a frequent visitor" to the station during the past three or four years.

"He is really insulted if we call him a foreigner," the clerk said. "He claims he's as American as anybody until he's threatened with a lock-up. Then he's no longer American but an Irishman entitled to diplomatic immunity."
