Local Youth Arrested In Wild Chase

Following a wild chase through the Hot Springs area Thursday night, city police said they arrested Richard W. Wayburn, 20, 547 Eldorado Avenue, and charged him with reckless driving and taking and using an auto. Wayburn was lodged in the city jail. Bail for the reckless driving charge was set at $200. He was to have been arraigned in district court for the second charge Friday afternoon. Wayburn was caught driving a 1955 Cadillac hardtop car missing since November 7 from the Dick B. Miller Company warehouse, 124 Market Street, officers said. The car was found to be missing Thursday afternoon by Melvin Miller, of the Miller Company. Officers spotted it parked near 204 Auburn Street Thursday evening and kept watch on the auto. Wayburn entered the car shortly afterward, they said, and Patrolman Phil Chiope took chase. At the corner of Auburn and Alameda Avenue, Chiope turned on his red light. The Cadillac spurred away, he said. Then, said Chiope, the chase took the following turns: Wayburn sped from Esplanade Avenue to Alameda Avenue and turned right on Earle Street, lost partial control and ran over a curb into a rock garden. He then drove north on Earle to an alley, turned right at very high speed, drove east across Esplanade Avenue and into another alley and turned right on Eldorado Avenue. From Eldorado he turned on Alameda and drove east to Erie Street, again lost partial control and had to back off a curb. He continued to Pacific Terrace and Auburn Street where he was halted by a roadblock set up by Sgt. John Kennard and other officers. Kennard signed the taking and using complaint in district court Friday morning.

Court Dates Assault Trial

Two young men accused of brutally beating a companion with a stove poker and a wine bottle asked for additional time in a district court appearance Friday. A charge of assault with a dangerous weapon was filed against Charles Hood Jr., 29, and Louis Gibbons, 27, both of Chiloquin. They were accused of assaulting Cyril Bierle early on the morning of Veterans Day in the course of a party at the Luckey Lotches home near Chiloquin. Officers said Hood and Gibbons had asked Bierle for money, and Bierle replied that he had none. Moments later, when Bierle was lying on aavenport, the pair attacked, officers said. Hood allegedly held Bierle's arms while Gibbons beat him on the head and body with the stove poker. Bierle later was struck with the bottle and kicked while on the floor. Bierle escaped his attackers and ran from the home, officers said. Both defendants asked additional time to consult an attorney, and were given until 10 a.m. next Wednesday to reappear before District Judge D. E. Van Vactor.

Dispute Hits Water Levels

TULELAKE — Controversy over water levels maintained during the 1959 irrigation season by officials of the Tulelake Irrigation District (TID) in the water and adjacent marsh lands areas of the Tule Lake (sump) levels has been brought to the attention of California Governor Edmund G. Brown by factions interested in the preservation of the vast Tulelake Wildlife Refuge. The refuge is reputed to be one of the best public shooting grounds on the Pacific Flyway. The governor, at the request of those who seek a higher contained water level in the lake area, recently dispatched a telegram to Secretary of the Interior Fred Seaton in Washington as follows: "Your attention is respectfully called to a condition of low water at Tule Lake National Wildlife Refuge, which is inimical to waterfowl of the Pacific Flyway and California. I am informed by State Fish and Game representatives that water-control practices employed during 1959 by the Tule Lake Irrigation District have not complied with the rules and regulations relating to water control in the contract between the Tule Lake Irrigation District and the Bureau of Reclamation. "The state of California is seriously concerned for the welfare of waterfowl if this situation continues." Following announcement of the governor's action, Sam Anderson, Tulelake, president of the TID also wired Governor Brown on Thursday: "Shocked to learn you have taken position against a political subdivision in the state without investigation, cannot understand your suggesting a violation if rights going back over 50 years. Suggest you withdraw request until you investigate and ask interested state agencies in irrigation and conservation to report to you." Admittedly, water levels maintained by the TID in the main water area of the shooting grounds, have been from six to seven inches lower during 1959 than during the 1958 water season, a situation according to TID Manager Maurice Strantz that is an economic security against damage to fringe land areas. Water runoff from irrigated Tulelake Irrigation district farm lands goes into the sump. Water levels are manipulated by the TID through pumping practices which take water through a tunnel out of the Wild Life Refuge. The lowered levels, say Fish and Wildlife officials, deny hunters access to much of the marsh public hunting area and have been responsible for duck botulism deaths. As of November 2, level of Tule Lake (sump) was 4,034.22 feet or 62 inches below the elevation of 4,094.75 called for by the TID's contract with the Department of the Interior. Officials of the TID state that the contract, approved by the Congress of the United States is to the effect, "that the district shall administer the Tule Lake sump," now covering an approximate 13,000 acres "for the benefit of agriculture and drainage."

Stolen Safe Recovered

Three Tulelake Irrigation District workers found a safe stolen October 28 from the Klamath Falls Eagles Lodge, 635 Walnut Avenue, while on canal maintenance duty near Merrill Tuesday, police said. The safe, its door missing, was empty of about $1,300 cash. It still contained, however, 63 checks worth $693.50 and a five-cent coin. It was found underwater in the as yet undrained canal a half mile east of Lava Beds Road just south-east of Merrill by Charles Brightmen, Wilford Brewster and John Guthrie, all of the Merrill area. The door was also recovered from the canal. Burglars, in a daring robbery early in the morning, made off with 45 lbs of liquor and the 250-pound safe. To gain entry, they cut a small square from a heavy mesh screen in a door facing an alley behind the lodge. Then they reached in and cut or wrenched free a padlock.

"Attention: Bearded Ones and the rest of the hairless hoppers who live for the beats of the bongos—Friday, November 13, at the local cafe espresso, one of the craziest sessions since the beginning of the beat generation will be laid out before the bloated, blood-shot eyes of our clan. "Some cool collections of melody-filled medleys will be provided by the 'Flames,' a local group recently converted to the playing of good beat music for a few shillings. "Of course, a fee will be charged for admittance under the curtain, which will amount to 50 cents per and 75 cents a team. Refreshments will be served by Pep Peppers, a real swinging group of female zombies from the local slave caves of KU Time trials for all crazy, rhythm-feeling beatniks will be 7:30 and termination around 10:30. "Any kind of clothes no longer used by sane persons of the other world will be appropriate and accepted graciously by all. If any of you have a craving to drag a beatnik from another clan, you'll have to snag a hunk of paper from one of the cats tagged 'Dean.' "Don't forget — Throw on your best rags and you and yours may receive what all cool cats can use." The preceding transcript, which was composed by Ann Anderson and Ed Matmiller, was read to students in first period Thursday. To all you cats who aren't so hep, this means KU is having a Beatnik Dance tonight from 7:30 until 10:30 in the cafeteria. A prize will be given to the most appropriate couple. The masculine sex of KU have grown beards for the occasion, and it looks like this will be a ball! Report cards conferred KU students Thursday, ending the first nine weeks' work which concluded last Friday. Report cards are issued to the students during first period, where the teacher records the student's first period grade. Then the student takes his card along with him to each of his classes, where the same procedure is followed. A new system of citizenship grading is in effect at KU this term. No citizenship grade will be given below a 3. Therefore, a 1 is considered average and above and a 3 failing. Grading will not exceed these two points.

Two Animals Die In Malin

Two animal deaths in the Malin area were reported to state police Thursday. One involved a calf shot by a hunter; the other was a deer struck by a car. Randall Pope said a beef calf weighing between 250 and 300 pounds had been shot on his ranch between Merrill and Malin Wednesday. The calf definitely was killed by a shotgun blast, Pope said. He said he had given hunters permission to use his property, but that none had asked permission that day. Marshall Powell, Route 1, Bonanza, told officers he struck a deer on the Malin-Bonanza cutoff near Harpole Dam. The deer was killed in the accident late Thursday, but Powell was uninjured and his car was not damaged seriously.
