Fires Keep Laddies Busy Sunday was a busy day for personnel of the county and suburban fire departments. Other departments were called on no action. Fire broke out in a home belonging to William F. Maxwell, 3157 Lodi Street, shortly after midnight. A wall was slightly damaged and the home received some smoke damage, suburban firemen said. They attributed the blaze to wall boards too close to a chimney. Another erupted in a home occupied by G. Shellcross, 1501 Hope Street, at 1:18 a.m. A short circuit in an electric bedroom heater was blamed. A wall was damaged a little, as was the heater and some wiring. A grass fire at the home of W. J. Hamilton of 3166 Bristol Avenue which broke out shortly before noon caused no damage. County firemen raced to Swan Lake Junction at 5:32 p.m. where an abandoned motorcycle burned completely. They were unable to find the owner.

Police Eye Check Case City police and District Attorney Arthur Beddoe are wrestling with the problem of whom to charge with what in a case involving five traveler's check forgeries over the weekend. Police tentatively have charged Clyde Kennis Bell, 29, of Salem, and Ronny George Reeves, 19, of Klamath Falls with obtaining money under false pretenses and vagrancy. The pair was jailed in lieu of bail. The men, police believe, cashed or attempted to cash the checks at various establishments in the city Saturday. They said Reeves gave this story: Reeves said he met Bell and the latter gave him the checks, explaining he couldn't cash them himself due to technicalities. Reeves said he signed Bell's name to the checks and cashed all but one. He said he didn't think he was doing wrong. He added Bell was with him all the time. Bell maintained he never saw Reeves before, that the checks were stolen from him or lost previously and that he was not with Reeves when the checks were cashed. Police, in checking with the American Express Company, which issues travelers checks, disclosed Bell had reported losing $100 worth of checks and had requested payment stopped recently. The company had sent him a $60 advance to cover the loss. During a "lineup" at the police station Monday morning, several persons identified both men and said the two were together when the checks were cashed. They were arrested separately on Main Street Sunday — Reeves first on a description given by a restaurant owner who refused to cash a check. Bell was arrested later on information supplied by Reeves. Beddoe said he would wait for results of the completed police investigation before deciding whether to drop charges against Reeves.

Stockgrowers Plan Meeting LAKEVIEW — Plans have been made by Oris Rudd, Lake County extension agent, in cooperation with the Stockgrowers Association, for a series of meetings to be held this winter dealing with the cattle industry. A tentative meeting schedule has been set up. The first would be December 17 and would feature Dr. Jim Oldfield, OSC animal nutritionist, speaking on "Wintering Rations for Beef Cattle." The second would be held January 7, with Dr. J. C. Miller, head of the Department of Animal Husbandry of OSC, speaking on "The Cattle Business of the Future." This would give Dr. Miller an opportunity to enlarge on some of the new production ideas which he told about when he was in Lakeview at the association annual meeting. The third meeting, January 21, would feature a speaker from the OSC Agricultural Economics Department to tell of "Efficient Marketing of Cattle." A tour into the Red Bluff and Yreka, California, areas would comprise the fourth meeting and would include looking into the use of pellets in the Yreka locality, a trip to some feed lots, a slaughter plant, and a visit to a retail meat outlet at Red Bluff or Redding. There would be a noon luncheon with some of the operators in that area. The group would leave Lakeview February 3, and go on to Red Bluff February 5 to visit a slaughter plant, feed lots, a retail meat center, and look into a crossbreeding program. There would also be an opportunity to stay for the Red Bluff bull sale. E. R. Jackman, former extension range management specialist at the college, now retired, would be featured speaker February 18 at the fifth meeting and would talk on "Developing a Good Forage Program for Livestock Production." Each of the meetings would be followed by an hour of discussion aimed at sharing information and ideas toward improving the beef production picture in the county. The men from the college would be present to provide any technical information which might be needed.

Students Win High Honors Seven Klamath Union High School seniors have received congratulations for outstanding performance during a National Merit Scholarship test administered to 550,000 high school students across the nation last spring. Principal Willard McKinny said today the seven are Julia Lawrence, Sandra Sessom, Donald Isensee, Robert Depew, Stephen Moon, Charles Russell and Stephen Binney. Their scores were not quite high enough to put them in line for competition for special recognition and possibly fat scholarships—the top winners' spoils, usually. But they were among 27,000 youngsters across the country who did well enough to receive letters of commendation from John M. Stalnaker, president of the scholarship corporation. He says he hopes each will attend college. The test results will follow each student to the college of his choice, and the commendation may serve to win him a scholarship, anyway. Kenneth Henry, as announced previously, was named a finalist and will be among an elite group competing later for the coveted Merit Scholarships.

TB Tests Carried Out LAKEVIEW—Results of the two-week testing program for tuberculosis carried out early this month in Lake County show that of 1,508 children taking the intradermal or patch test there were just 40 showing a positive reaction. They were referred to their physicians for further testing or chest X-ray. A positive reaction indicates that at some time these children have come in contact with tuberculosis but not necessarily that they have the disease. The program was financed by receipts from Christmas Seals and was carried out with the cooperation of doctors, nurses and other volunteer workers. The majority of the lay workers were members of Beta Sigma Phi service society. This is the first time in several years the program has been carried out in Lake County and the majority of the children had not been previously tested. The total enrollment in the schools of the county is 1,834. An average of 59,000 people were admitted to hospitals in the United States each day in 1958.
