USMC Seeks Solons' Aid In Lifting Manpower Limit

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Marine Corps is hoping again for congressional support to lift the 175,000 manpower ceiling imposed by the administration. Next year's budget is understood to provide once again for 175,000 Marines.

Gen. Lewis C. Hudson, assistant chief of staff, told newsmen in outlining the corps' present ability and future hopes. Its wishful thinking calls for at least 235,000 men to keep its divisions fully manned and equipped.

Congress several times has provided sufficient funds to increase the Marine Corps to 200,000 men, but the administration has impounded the extra money and held the corps to the 175,000-man ceiling it had recommended.

Gen. Hudson and other Marine staff officers at the briefing declined to take issue with budget decisions, but they outlined plans which called for more manpower even as they told of the corps' present strength.

At Camp Lejeune, N.C., the 2nd Division has at all times a battalion force of about 1,800 men on a 15-minute alert for movement anywhere in the Atlantic or European area.

With three aircraft carriers adapted to leatherneck needs, three additional battalions can be launched simultaneously by helicopter over or around enemy defenses and fight with atomic or conventional firepower.

By 1962, when the corps gets the first of its specially designed and equipped assault carriers and landing ships capable of launching both helicopters and surface landing craft, the Marines will be able to put up to 10,000 men ashore.

Mindful of the destructive power of atomic weapons, the Marines are counting on the ability to approach an enemy area by fast carriers and then to fly inland at more than 100 miles per hour in transport helicopters protected by their own personnel fighters and attack bombers.

The corps has now three divisions and three air wings, but under the current manpower limitations it has eliminated two battalions from each division, is manning the remainder of the combat units at 90 per cent strength and has reduced the numbers of men and planes in its air wings.

Infant Girl Gains Weight

UTICA, N. Y. (AP)—An 8-week-old girl, her life saved when surgeons simultaneously massaged her heart and breathed air into her lungs, was gaining weight today in a hospital.

The infant, Catherine Franco, underwent the double crisis two weeks ago. Since then, she has gained 6 ounces and now weighs 9 pounds, 9 ounces.

Officials at St. Elizabeth's Hospital told the story: Catherine was brought to the hospital Oct. 13 from Griffiss Air Force Base in nearby Rome. She was suffering from a respiratory infection and an obstruction in her breathing.

A surgeon decided to cut open her throat and insert a tube for breathing. But fearing that she might stop breathing during this operation, he inserted a tube into the windpipe through the mouth before making an incision.

She stopped breathing. The surgeon immediately began blowing air through the tube into her lungs.

Then her heart stopped. Another surgeon, attending a patient in a nearby room, was summoned. He cut open Catherine's chest and massaged her heart. In 20 seconds, it resumed normal beating.

Ten minutes later she began to breathe normally. Catherine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Franco of Herkimer, N. Y. Franco was flown home from Army duty in Korea when his daughter became ill.

Ship Captain Pleads Guilty

SEATTLE (AP)—Capt. Philip F. Curran, skipper of the freighter Lipari which grounded on a Washington coastal beach last month, pleaded guilty Tuesday to negligence and lost his master's papers for six months.

The Lipari beached at Grayland Oct. 23 while making for Grays Harbor after a trip to Japan. A salvage tug pulled the 422-ton freighter free Oct. 31 from her perch eight miles south of the Grays Harbor entrance.

Coast Guard hearing examiner James M. Donahue lifted Curran's license for a year but suspended six months of the time. The 61-year-old skipper, who has held master's papers since 1921, will be on probation for 12 months after returning to work.

The charge against Curran said he "did wrongfully and negligently navigate the SS Lipari in such a manner and fashion as to suffer the vessel to strand."

Lucille Waters, president, called the meeting to order. Members are in need of all kinds of coupons to be used for obtaining articles for the Tamassee School sponsored by the DAR.

It was also decided to sell candy for the Daughters of the American Revolution and to hold the annual Christmas party for CAR members on December 14, place to be announced later.

During the social hour, Mrs. Bert C. Thomas spoke briefly on Governor Z. F. Moody of Oregon who signed from 1882 to 1886. Refreshments were served by the hostess.
