Whirly Dance Jails Stripper

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—"What are they bothering me for," asked blonde striptease dancer Terry Kay as police led her to jail, cladding in a full-length white leather coat.

The coat, said police, was all she wore Sunday when she strolled into a downtown bar and ordered a beer.

The trouble developed, they said, when suddenly she stood up and did a bullfighter's whirl with the coat.

Sobbing, she was booked for a drunkenness investigation.

Asked her age, she replied, "about 90."

AMONG OLDEST

Playing cards are among the oldest printed matter on earth. By 1400, more than a half century before the Gutenberg Bible was printed, block printed playing cards were in use all over Europe.

Friction matches first were produced at Springfield, Mass., in 1924.

Lie Admitted By Newsman; Official Bribe Was Hoax

NEW YORK (AP)—Newsman Eugene Gleason had admitted to the district attorney's office that he lied when he claimed a high city official tried to bribe him to stop investigating the city's slum clearance program.

Gleason, a reporter for the New York World-Telegram and Sun, told Chief Asst. Dist. Atty. Alfred J. Scotti Monday that he lied twice about the "bribe"—first in 1936 to his fellow reporter, Fred J. Cook, and again Sunday night on a television program.

Cook, also a World-Telegram and Sun newsman, said on WNTA-TV's discussion program "Open End" that Gleason had told him a high city official offered them $75 to $100 a week each to halt their research on the slum clearance program. Gleason said he still in the city administration.

Along with other newspaper men, Cook and Gleason were discussing their recent article, "The Shame of New York," which appeared in a special issue of the Nation, a weekly magazine. Cook said he brought up the incident because city officials had charged he and Gleason were irresponsible in their charges of mishandling Title I projects.

Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan called Cook and Gleason to his office Monday. They showed up with an attorney and another staff member of their newspaper. After the others left, Gleason remained with Scotti and Asst. Dist. Atty. Francis X. Clark.

Hogan said Gleason at first stuck to his story and named a city official. After four hours of questioning, Gleason signed a six-

ANKARA, Turkey (UPI)—When the Eisenhower airplane comes to rest on the high Anatolian Plain near the spot where Genghis Khan entered Turkey centuries earlier, the American President will find a situation not apt to be duplicated elsewhere on his long trip.

Here at Turkey's capital city of Ankara, he will find a friend of the Western powers that does not need to have its spine stiffened against Communism. Instead it needs assurance that the spine of the U.S.A. has not softened.

ARTHUR L. (POP) REED, 86-year-old traveler, has returned from several months' vacation in Lexington, Kentucky, where he visited cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Smythe. "Pop" was born in New Brunswick, Canada, in 1873 and in 1930 came to Klamath Falls from Portland to open the Men's Hand Laundry. He and Mrs. Reed operated a small cafe on East Main Street for a time until their retirement several years ago. Mrs. Reed died last March and "Pop" continues to make his residence at 200 East Main. He says he intends to spend the rest of his days right here.

Seed Growers Slate Meet

The Oregon Seed Growers League meets this year at Corvallis, November 30-December 2. The Seed League has an active potato seed committee. Interest of seed potato growers in progress of green house test plots drew Seed League meetings to the Oregon State College campus where the potato green houses are located according to County Agent Walt Jendrzewski.

The State Seed Testing Laboratory where purity and germination tests are made of much of Oregon's grain, legume, and forage and turf grass seed are also located on the Oregon State College campus.

Oregon Seed League meetings are open to all interested growers.

A current matter in the potato committee concerns modification of certification rules to facilitate bulk movement of seed potatoes.

Yule Group Head Named

Appointment of Ted Durment, 1940 Del Moro Street, as chairman of the Salvation Army Christmas Committee was announced today by G. M. Grant, chairman of the Salvation Army Advisory Board.

Durment will head the annual Salvation Army Christmas appeal, in which funds will be sought to provide Christmas baskets for needy families, sunshine baskets for patients in local hospitals, and inmates in the local jails, toys and clothing for children.

Last year the army provided such assistance to over 90 local families and 122 patients in the hospitals and prisoners in the local jails.

The new chairman has been active in the Salvation Army through the advisory board, serving on the finance committee for the last two years. He is also a member of the executive committee of the Board.

The Christmas appeal will open on Monday, December 7. The traditional Christmas Kettles will be placed on the streets of Klamath Falls at this time, with uniformed salvationists and volunteers taking turns at ringing the bells.

Directness is an outstanding Turkish characteristic. Walking down Ataturk Boulevard with a Turkish journalist, this reporter asked the reason for a large wooden pylon being constructed at an intersection.

"That's a tank," the Turk replied. "It is to welcome the Eisenhower party. It will be draped with American and Turkish flags."

Then he added, smiling: "There'll probably be a banner saying 'Welcome Ike! Where's the money?'"

Turkey regards the situations in Berlin and southeast Asia as merely diversionary from the Communist point of view, he believes that the unswerving aim of the Reds is to control the Middle East with its underfed and emotionally overcharged millions, and that this is the basic situation from which the West must never take its eye.

If it does, they say, the world will be engulfed in chaos and Communism will appear as the solution.

Whatever the problems of its internal economy, the nation is a solid unit in historic and unyielding opposition to Russia and in its partnership with the West.

Summit Date Fading Away, Say Officials

LONDON (AP)—Diplomatic circles in London believe the date for the East-West summit conference is getting farther and farther away. But officials in Paris and Bonn say the meeting with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev still is likely before June.

Diplomatic observers here cite the full schedule of engagements for the world's chief political leaders. They see signs that Communist China is trying to put the brakes on negotiations between the Soviet Union and the West.

There is speculation that the summit won't be reached until 1961, when a new American president will be in the White House.

But West German press chief Felix von Eckardt told newsmen Monday the prevailing opinion in Bonn is that the meeting will be held in April.

American and French diplomatic sources in Paris say the most logical date appears to fall somewhere between the last week in April and the end of May.

They agree that it can't be set before then. Khrushchev will visit France for two weeks beginning March 15. French President Charles de Gaulle will be in Britain April 3-8. Following that, Western discussion of the Khrushchev visit plus time required for technical arrangements could take up another two weeks.

There also is a possibility that De Gaulle will visit America sometime in May, thus pushing a summit date back some more.

There is a feeling here that Khrushchev might lose any desire for a meeting if it fails to materialize by mid-June. Several leading British newspapers point out that by then the U.S. presidential election would not be far off, and Khrushchev possibly would prefer to talk with the new president rather than outgoing President Eisenhower.

These papers maintain there is little to support Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's continuing display of confidence that an early summit can be held. They say his hopes received a rude setback when Khrushchev failed publicly to oppose De Gaulle's call for a slower approach to top-level negotiations, and when he agreed to visit France in March rather than in February.

Belief is also growing that Khrushchev already has lost much of his interest in an East-West conference, due to pressure from Communist China's Mao Tse-tung. According to this theory, Red China wants to prevent a summit meeting because it would not participate.

unwilling role in the escape of five dangerous felons from an Ashe County prison gang.

She was alone Monday morning with her sick, 6-year-old daughter at their home about 15 road-miles north of Jefferson in the rugged Blue Ridge Mountain country. The daughter was watching a children's television show.

"I had seen the convict truck go down the road. I never do rest until it's gone," said the 32-year-old mother of four daughters.

The truck carried 12 prisoners and three guards to the day's work assignment, a spot in the remote Cranberry Creek section. While en route, some of the prisoners cut a hole through the top of the wire cage.

When the vehicle stopped, five prisoners scrambled through the hole and onto guard William F. Handy as he dismounted. Handy was knocked down and disarmed. One prisoner shot work foreman Fields Absher, 33, near the heart.

Guard Judd Jones exchanged fire with the felons, but one of them held a gun muzzle against Handy's head and ordered Jones to drop his weapons.

"I didn't want to. God knows I didn't want to," Jones said. "But Handy was begging me. He was screaming."

"They'll kill me. They mean it."

The seven prisoners who did not participate in the escape pleaded with the felons not to kill Handy, as Jones had surrendered.

The escapees donned the guards' caps and uniforms and ordered Jones and Handy into the truck cage. The other seven prisoners loaded the mortally wounded Absher, a grandfather, into the cage also.

"I saw the prison truck come back and it stopped out front," said Mrs. Sheets. "One man got out and came to our door. He had on guard clothes and I figured he was all right."

Mrs. Sheets opened the door and the man, with aimed pistol, demanded the keys to her 1959 automobile. The five piled into the red-and-white car and fled.

Jones, Handy and the seven other prisoners rushed Absher to a hospital.

"He died before we got there," Jones said. "I don't believe he ever said a word."

The State Highway Patrol, assisted by city, county and federal officers, set up roadblocks in the northwestern section of North Carolina, trying to keep the heavily armed felons within the mountains where escape routes are few. Officers in neighboring Virginia and Tennessee also were on the lookout.

The five escapees and their sentences:

George Brown, 29, Wilkes County, 22-26 years for attempted criminal assault, breaking and entering and highway robbery; James Waller, 35, Gibsonville, 3-5 years for auto theft; Tommy Styles, 27, Asheville, 18-25 years for robbery and larceny; John Allen Henry, 23, Miami, Fla., 10 years for armed robbery; Junior Burgess, 33, Hickory, 25-30 years as an accessory to murder.

Brown, Waller, Henry and Burgess also were serving additional terms for previous escapes.
