

A UNIVERSITY of California student, studying in this country on a one-year Rotary Fellowship Scholarship, Christopher A. Ball, left, spoke at a recent luncheon meeting of the Tulelake Rotary Club in the Sportsman's Hotel. A resident of Bude Cornwall, England, Ball is majoring in business administration and economics. He was sponsored and introduced to Rotarians by W. G. Hagelstein, banking expert.

British Book Distributors Rap Influx Of U.S. 'Filth'

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's paper-backed book distributors claimed today that a torrent of cheap, lurid and near-obscene literature from the United States is about to inundate the shores of this island Kingdom.

They said the way has been opened for the dumping of "this sort of filth" by the recent lifting of import restrictions on low-priced American fiction.

According to executives in the book trade many millions of copies of American surplus books are being routed here and one newspaper warned its readers to beware of these "cut-priced sex novels, blood-chilling adventure magazines and near-horror comics."

It said that some of the titles on their way here include: "I Love to Love," "The Last Virgin," "Sex on Tap," "Convention Girl," "The Case of the Red-Haired Girl," "The Jealous Politician and His Two-Timing Mistress."

One large firm, Paper Back Distributors, Ltd., even announced it was refusing all offers to handle "cheap American publications of an undesirable type" to help allay what it said was public apprehension.

But a one-man survey by this correspondent of the naughty west end of London showed that the distributors are locking the barn doors too late. The British are producing their own cheap literature and in nastiness and bad taste it can compete with anything ever turned out across the Atlantic.

For example: "Forced to do a Maniac's Bidding," "I was a Love Slave," "Hot Days and Hotter Nights," "Semiours of a Good Time Girl."

In addition there are many so-called continental book shops (the word "continental" means in Britain what "Parisian" used to mean in the U.S.) which peddle the kind of books that would get all concerned a prison term in some U.S. cities.

These are sold openly, generally inside shops whose windows are filled with books about deviation or with nude magazines featuring hyper-mammary models.

Studded all over the west end are sidewalk magazine racks with exactly the kind of book, published in Britain, that is supposed to be a moral danger when it arrives from the United States.

An employee of one of the "continental" shops chuckled when he heard about the campaign against American books.

"Maybe they're trying to protect home industries," he said.

London 'Ladies' Use Peashooters To Attract Men

LONDON (UPI) — London's prostitutes are using peashooters to attract customers, probation officer Mary Hamilton said Thursday night.

"They use them to get their clients by blowing them from windows," Miss Hamilton said in a radio interview.

The probation officer said the newly-enacted laws had forced prostitutes off the streets and into the use of such novel methods.

INSURANCE WORRIES

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — C. L. Montgomery has insurance worries. He insured his auto supply store against burglary after it was twice robbed. The insurance company tried to cancel the policy when a third break-in occurred. Montgomery said the store was burglarized for the fourth time Thursday.

DOUBLE HOBBY
CANTON, Ohio (UPI) — Chess is a two-way hobby for 35-year-old Charles W. Corbett, president of the local chess club. Besides playing regularly for 30 years, he makes chess boards, spending up to 200 hours on each one.
