

U.S. Schedules New Look At Synthetic Sex Hormone

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government is about to take a "new look" at the widespread use of a synthetic female sex hormone to fatten up cattle and poultry, it was learned today.

The hormone drug, diethylstilbestrol or more commonly called "stilbestrol," is known to cause cancer of the breast in man when taken in large doses. Food and Drug Commissioner George P. Larrick said.

of health, education of welfare, will announce the new study of the scientific and legal aspects involved in its use in animal feeding at a news conference Thursday.

Fleming kicked off the recent cranberry controversy by announcing that some of the crop had been contaminated by weed-killer that has caused cancer in rats.

The FDA stopped issuing any new permits for use of stilbestrol after the last session of Congress passed the so-called Delaney Amendment which bans food additives found to induce cancer.

However, the law makes no provision for rescinding permits of those with prior sanction to use stilbestrol.

Larrick said there was no cause for alarm. He said he was still eating meat and chicken, and "feeding it to my children and grandchildren."

The FDA chief said there still was much "conflicting evidence" on the effects of stilbestrol. He said FDA planned to "marshal the world's literature" on the subject and the agency's experts have started a new investigation "to find out where we stand."

He reported that about 30 percent of the livestock raised today are fed stilbestrol.

Larrick said that recent scientific tests have turned up minute quantities of stilbestrol residue in the skin and liver of the chicken. He said no such residue has been found in meat tissue. Cattle-men, usually stop using stilbestrol up to 48 hours before slaughter.

Youth Injured In 'Gun Battle'

PERCY, Calif. (AP)—Ray and Gary Carver were practicing the fast draw Tuesday night in the kitchen of their home.

Trouble was, Gary explained later, he was using Ray's double-action .22 pistol instead of his own single-action gun.

Ray, 29, thought the last draw had been pulled, and turned away. Gary, 17, drew once more and pulled the trigger, not expecting the gun to fire. It did.

Ray was taken to Mendocino County hospital at Ukiah where doctors said he was in critical condition.
