Mary Luce, Richard Hull Exchange Wedding Vows

Mary Katherine Luce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brown, and Richard William Hull, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hull of Tacoma, exchanged wedding vows on November 28 in a 4 o'clock ceremony read by the Rev. Robert C. Groves. A color scheme of blue and white was set by white chrysanthemums and stock arranged with blue sprayed foliage in tall beauty baskets tied with large blue bows. Lighted tapers in floor candelabra stood on each side.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown was made of white slipper satin fashioned with fitted bodice and long full skirt extending into a chapel train. The round neckline, short sleeves and skirt hemline were finished with scalloping. A tiara of seed pearls and sequins held in place the fingertip veil of illusion. She wore long white nylon gloves and carried a white orchid arranged in stephanotis florets and white ribbon streamers. A pearl necklace was a gift of the bridegroom. The bridal gown and those worn by the attendants were made by the bride's mother.

Mrs. Paul Harris was matron of honor for her sister. She wore a street length frock of light blue taffeta finished with scallop trim and carried a bouquet of dark blue carnations. Mrs. David Carnahan and Patricia Shreeve, cousin of the bride, were bridesmaids. Their dresses, fashioned like the matron of honor's, were of dark blue taffeta. They carried light blue carnations. The two bridesmaids also lighted the candles prior to the ceremony.

The bridegroom's brother, Barrie Hull, served as best man. Ushers were David Carnahan and Hugh Wesley Mitchell, brother of the bride.

Mrs. George McIntyre was the organist.

For the occasion, Mrs. Brown selected a dress of silver taffeta worn with pink accessories. Mrs. Hull chose a dress of rose beige lace and matching accessories. Both mothers had corsages of pink roses.

A blue and white decor was carried out at the reception which immediately followed the ceremony in the church parlors. The bride's table, covered with a lace cloth, was centered with a three tiered wedding cake topped with a bride and groom. Small packages of bridegroom's cake and rice, both tied with blue ribbon, were passed to the guests. The wedding cake was served by Mrs. Carl Peterson and Mrs. Barbara Gossett. Mrs. H. C. Shreeve and Mrs. Barbara Hull presided at the coffee table and Mrs. George Shreeve and Mrs. C. J. McFarlin at the punch bowl. The guest book was passed by Mrs. M. F. Shreeve and gifts were received by Mrs. Homer Caldwell. Assisting were Pamela Shreeve and Margo Shreeve.

Following the reception the bride changed to a travel dress of rust color worn with white hat and black accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. The newlyweds flew to San Francisco for their honeymoon.

The new Mrs. Hull is a graduate of Klamath Union High School and Central Washington College. She is a member of the elementary teaching staff in Tacoma. Her husband, also a graduate of Central Washington College, teaches in the high school at Sumner, Washington, where they will reside.

Tourists Honest, But Forgetful

ORMAND BEACH, Fla. — They leave their children and pets behind but they're honest and naturally Merrill Ellnor loves them. Ellnor means tourists—and tourists mean his living.

He operates 650 villas housing as many as 3,200 guests a night. Since he opened in 1949, he has cashed 120,000 checks and only $316.12 of these proved worthless. "Right of hand," says Helen Lovell, the operation's chief housekeeper, "I can't think of anything that hasn't been left behind at one time or another."

An out-of-state couple traveling with their five children checked out one afternoon and, as usual, two maids were sent to prepare the villa for the next occupants. The maids found a 5-year-old lad on the living room floor reading comic books. "Hasn't your family gone?" he was asked. He waved his hand and said without looking up, "Oh they're around."

His parents returned in an hour to get him. Another family left their pet pooch tied to a bed post for three hours—and they said when they came back it might have been longer if one of their children hadn't suddenly noticed the absence.

Miss Lovell says many guests inadvertently carry off items but the majority is returned. She says such a case is typical: "Dear Mr. Ellnor. Enclosed find trying pan. . . ."

The pan of heavy cast iron had been carefully wrapped and sent first class mail—the postage far more than the pan was worth. She says that it may be odd and contrary to the usual story about hotels but "the popular theory that travelers will carry off anything that's not nailed down just doesn't hold true here."

THE ENGAGEMENT of Patricia Marie Coulter to James W. Forbes of Kilgore, Texas, has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred R. Coulter, 3547 Crest Street. The bride-elect is a graduate of Klamath Union High School. Her fiancé is stationed with the Air Force at Kingsley Field. June 10 has been chosen as the date for their wedding. — Photo by Ferebee

Gals May Get Chance To See The Antarctic

WASHINGTON — The Navy is studying the feasibility of sending women to the Antarctic during the daylight months.

Until recently, the Navy has skirted the issue, but now it has requests from two women scientists and about 20 women journalists to visit the frozen continent.

"If they go," says a Navy spokesman, "we will probably have to build separate quarters for them." He explained that just to wall off an area for two or three women in the present facilities would require the bunk space of 30 men. The visits by women would be limited to the months of October and November, the months when the McMurdo Sound air strips permit easy access by air.

"After about December 1," the spokesman continued, "the air strips become filled with potholes and most traveling then is done by icebreaker. There are no facilities aboard the ships for women."

During the long winter nights the Antarctic is cut off from the world by darkness and storms. Even if the Navy permits women to go, they will not be the first of their sex in the area. Russian women scientists and journalists have already been there.

The first American women in the area were two Pan American Airways hostesses who landed at McMurdo Sound on October 13, 1957, on a charter flight which carried Seabees to the base.

PLAY TRYOUTS SET

MOUNT SHASTA — Mrs. Rilla Peterson, president of the Mount Shasta Little Theater group. The Star-makers, has announced that there will be tryouts for parts in coming plays Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday evenings December 14, 15 and 16.

The screening program will be carried out in the City Park Armory, beginning at 8 p.m.

The Star-makers were sponsored by the Mount Shasta Soroptimist Club during the organization. The group is now operating under sponsorship of the Mount Shasta Recreational District. Several veteran theater people reside in the area.

PTA NEWS

PTA COUNTY COUNCIL
Parents and teachers of the Orson A. Stearns School organized as a PTA unit the evening of December 3 and are now members of the Oregon Congress and the National Congress of Parents and Teachers. This is the second PTA unit organized in Klamath County this year. Mrs. Burnice Christy, president, acted as organizing officer, assisted by Mrs. Eldred Hanson, past state board member.

Elected officers of the new unit are Mrs. Darlene Woodward, president; Mrs. Ann Frei, first vice president; Mrs. Burnice Christy, second vice president; Mrs. Velma Evans, secretary; and Mrs. Marilyn Deput, treasurer. Principal of the new school is Max Marvin. There are 76 charter members.

Mrs. Virginia McGaughey, a member of the new PTA has been appointed council savings stamp chairman.

There are now 14 Parent Teacher Association units in Klamath County, each one a member of the Oregon Congress and National Congress of Parents and Teachers. Following are the schools in membership: Altamont, Chiloquin, Conger, Fairview, Fremont, Gilchrist, Keno, Mills-Ponderosa, Pelican, Riverside, Roosevelt, Shasta, Sprague River and Stearns.

All PTA members are invited and urged to attend Klamath County PTA Council meetings. Call TU 4-7153 for details.

Her husband, also a graduate of Central Washington College, teaches in the high school at Sumner, Washington, where they will reside.

HAZ-BINS
Mrs. Hugh Hawthorne entertained the Haz-bins at her home. High score in pinocle went to Stella Persell, second to Hugh Hawthorne and low to Mary Wells. Louise Davis was given the guest prize.

The Christmas party will be on Monday evening, December 14, at the home of Betty Ketsdever.
