NEW YORK (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson says he sees new hope for an end to the arms race with the Soviet Union.

"Once a revolutionary regime leaves behind its adolescent fanaticism," Stevenson writes in the quarterly magazine, Foreign Affairs, "risk and cost become powerful considerations. I believe they exercise genuine influence in Moscow today and that we should do what we can to encourage the trend."

The former Illinois governor and two-time Democratic nominee for the presidency has said he is not a candidate for the 1960 nomination. But Foreign Affairs says Thursday's 7,500-word article is his most comprehensive discussion of foreign affairs since his 1956 campaign.

"I am much encouraged by evidence from many quarters that the Russians are genuinely worried about the political and technical dangers and the cost to the USSR of continuing the arms race indefinitely," he wrote.

He said it appears that "controlled disarmament" was back at the top of the world's agenda "where it belongs." But, he added, the West must maintain a balance of military power with the Communists—for its own safety and to strengthen its hand during disarmament talks.

Stevenson also suggested that the Free World pool its resources for a 200-billion-dollar investment program for underdeveloped nations.

He said the program would last 40 years and "we shall have to coordinate all aspects of the effort with other nations—not only investment but opportunities for trade, international liquidity and so forth, the developed nations must all cooperate."

"To me," he added, "the two most dangerous realities we now face are the multiplication of nuclear weapons and the disparity in living standards between the rich nations and the poor."

He said the Eisenhower administration has lost the initiative to the Soviets by giving priority unnecessarily to budgetary considerations.

9 Convicted Of Conspiracy To Defraud

DENVER (AP)—A U.S. District Court jury Thursday convicted nine men associated with the International Union of Mine, Mill & Smelter Workers (and) of conspiring to defraud the government.

Judge Alfred A. Arraj allowed the defendants to remain free on $5,000 bond each pending defense motions.

Telford Taylor, chief defense lawyer, said he will ask that the verdict be set aside. Failing that, he said, he will appeal the case to the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals here. Judge Arraj set Jan. 18 as the deadline for any defense motions.

The convicted men each face a possible maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine. They went on trial here Oct. 26 on charges of conspiring to file false non-Communist affidavits with the National Labor Relations Board in order that the union could make use of the agency's services in labor matters.

The convicted men are Maurice Travis of Richmond, Calif., Irving Dichter of Denver, Raymond Dennis of Cleveland, James Durkin of Chicago, Chase Powers of Spokane, Wash., Albert Skinner of Salt Lake City, Jesse Van Camp of Danville, Ill., Charles H. Wilson of Columbia, Tenn., and Harold Sanderson of Denver.
