Fog Detours Air Flights Air passengers bound for Medford and other Rogue River Valley points, flying on United Air Lines, landed in Klamath Falls Saturday and Sunday after fog prevented landings in Medford, northbound and southbound flights unloaded here for bus transportation across the Green Springs.

Ten flights were made by United in addition to West Coast Airlines service.

Clouds, Fog Cover State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Crisp, cloudy, foggy weather came to Oregon today on this last day of autumn.

Forecasters said things will be much the same on Tuesday, as winter begins officially.

Temperatures were brisk early today in most areas, and ice glazed many mountain highways.

There was no substantial snowfall over the weekend, though, and none was in sight.

The Weather Bureau said a new Pacific storm front will move into Western Oregon tonight, and will bring rain showers by Tuesday morning.

Forecasters said, however, that only rain is expected in Cascade passes because the freezing level again has risen to about 7,000 feet.

The Cascade snow pack now is so light that it makes skiing practically impossible.

Of the stations reporting today, only Government Camp had any new snow, and it was only a trace.

At McKenzie Pass, there were only six inches of snow at the roadside. Santiam Pass had only five.

Lions Announce Game Program

DORRIS—Judge Les Chase of the Dorris Judicial District Court has announced the Dorris Lions Club has made arrangements with Joe Foote, proprietor of the Perfection Lockers to store any wild game confiscated by the court, and the Lions will distribute it to needy families of Butte Valley.

Warden Bob Lucas was out looking for families who may be able to use five wild geese or ducks.

The birds were confiscated by Judge Chase's court from a hunter who pleaded guilty to having an overlimit earlier this week and were turned over to the Lions Club.

Potter Named RC Chairman

TULELAKE — Don Potter, local implement dealer, was named chairman of the Tulelake Branch, American Red Cross, by members of the nominating committee, left to right, Cliff Jenkins, home service chairman; Rosemary Myers, secretary, and Charles A. Boyden.

A young man described by city police as a temperamental sort is being held in the city jail in connection with the gun-wounding of a Klamath Falls man Saturday night.

A witness took Paul Clay, 37, of 39 Main Street to the hospital shortly after 8:30 p.m. Saturday.

Klamath Valley Hospital reported the man, a tire repairman for the Schulze Tire Service, Spring and Main streets, had been shot in the left side of his abdomen just beneath the rib cage. He was said to be in fair condition Monday morning.

Police are holding Frank L. Lounsbury Jr., 21, of 831 Oak Street. He is charged with assault with a deadly weapon. Lounsbury refused to give a statement, officers said.

The witness, Ted Rogers of 224 Broad Street, said he and four other employees of the Schulze establishment bought a fifth of whiskey and drank it after 6 p.m. closing time.

Rogers said he left and returned at 8:49 p.m. Only Lounsbury and Clay were there, he said, and they were having a mild argument. Clay joshingly called Lounsbury a name. Some name-calling ensued, Clay appeared in good humor, but Lounsbury said "this ----- doesn't think I'll shoot him," Rogers added.

Both men stood up and Lounsbury produced a six-shot .22 caliber revolver, Rogers said. A struggle ensued, and the gun fired once. The bullet hit concrete, bounced and struck Rogers in the leg.

Rogers said the struggle continued and the gun fired again. Clay called to Rogers for help, then fell. Lounsbury made his way out the door, telling the witness to help the victim.

Police, notified by the hospital, immediately began a search for Lounsbury. An officer found him walking on Oak Street at Ninth, and made the arrest. No weapons were found on the suspect, police said.

The officer said he remembered having stopped the suspect previously to check for a possible traffic violation. Lounsbury told the patrolman he recently moved to Klamath Falls from California and had secured employment as a tire repairman with the Schulze company.

Rogers received only a superficial injury from the bullet which struck him accidentally, reports indicated.

DORRIS — Preliminary hearing for Donald Ray Carroll, 19, of Dorris was held in Dorris Judicial District Court before Judge Les Chase Thursday. Carroll was arrested on a complaint of burglary signed by a Dorris grocer, Lawrence Carroll, Kerwin.

Carroll is charged with burglarizing the Kerwin grocery store on Third and California streets in Dorris Saturday, December 5. The theft was discovered by Kerwin Sunday morning when he let a friend in to buy necessary groceries.

Judge Chase reset bail at $2,000. Carroll is in the Siskiyou County Jail in lieu of the bail.

Judge Levies Jail Sentence

George Henry McCline, 24, Seattle, was sentenced to three years in the state penitentiary Monday on a larceny charge.

McCline had pleaded guilty to stealing a lady's watch from a Klamath Avenue loan office October 8.

Circuit Judge David R. Vandenberg also moved up the trial date of Richard W. Wayburn, 20, accused of taking and using a motor vehicle without the owner's consent.

His trial, scheduled for January 28, was moved up to December 28 at the request of Wayburn's court-appointed attorney, Richard Smith.

Scheduled for trial Tuesday is the case of Walter Painter, 25, Coos Bay, charged with larceny in the theft of sleeping bags, a radio, and other equipment from Robert Hartley, his former employer.

MAURY CLARK — Maury Clark has been named president of the Klamath Basin Chapter, Oregon Pilots Association. He succeeds Harold (Bud) Cloake, whose successful year in advancement of flying and community aviation was applauded with a standing vote of thanks at the second annual dinner, December 19, in the Airport Cafe at Kingsley Field. Places were marked for 81 guests.

H. O. Juckeland will serve as vice president and Charlie Mack as secretary. Mack is bookkeeper for the Ned Putnam Logging Company.

Clark pledged continuing support in the effort of local Pilots to obtain a West Coast Airlines route between Klamath Falls and Reno and in establishment of obtaining a weather station at the field.

During 1959 the Pilots promoted or participated in projects which include the placing of adequate highway direction signs to Kingsley Field by the Oregon State Highway Commission; large attendance at charter ceremonies for the Medford Pilots Chapter; air tours; annual Aviation Week chairmanned by Juckeland; flights by Les Liston and Ned Putnam in the interest of the new terminal building nearing completion; naming of Miss Aviation and invitational tours of Oregon for Air Week advertising; air service between Klamath Falls and Reno; establishment of a weather station, service in KASRU and other aviation fields.

Harold Jones, airport manager, was commended with others who have played an important part in flying activities.

Name of the new restaurant in the terminal building was announced as Satellite. The lounge will be the Space Room.

A social hour preceded the turkey dinner.

Sandra Ruconich entertained with a number of piano numbers.

Vehicles Collide Cars driven by Mary Edwards Molino, 36, Palo Alto, California, and Donald Keith Zifka, 27, 1508 Sargent Street, collided at Riverside Drive and Main Street early Sunday, state police said.

Officers said the Molino car went out of control and spun into a ditch. Zifka said he could not avoid striking the car. No injuries were reported.

Child Cruelty Complaints Filed Against Ranchhand

Formal complaints on two counts of child cruelty were prepared today against William Olen Gairson, a Bonanza ranchhand arrested Saturday after officers investigated brutal cases of baby beating.

The district attorney's office prepared a complaint in each beating case—one, the beating of 11-month-old Gary Lee Bursik, who died from an apparent fall Thursday; the other was the beating of Billie Joe Breeding, 3, which was discovered Friday.

The district attorney's office said Gairson, 40, would be arraigned this afternoon.

Both Gairson and the babies' mother, Mrs. Ethel Myrtle Bursik, 20, were named in complaints charging lewd cohabitation, the district attorney's office said. Those complaints also were to be filed today in district court.

The dual complaints against Gairson allege that both babies were struck by his hands, beaten with a strap, and kicked.

The 3-year-old, after spending Friday night in the county juvenile home, was taken to a hospital for X-ray examinations to determine if bones were broken. The results were negative.

The child was left in Hillside Hospital to facilitate his recovery. He had been beaten or burned over almost all of his body. His legs were black and blue, his chest and back bore long bruise marks, and he bore two open, raw burn wounds on his buttocks.

The 11-month-old baby died Thursday. Gairson was quoted as saying he had playfully tossed the child into the air, and dropped it to the floor.

The child cruelty complaints were prepared under a statute regarding cruelty to a child by one not the child's parent. Each charge carries a maximum sentence of $1,000 and a year in jail.

The children were Mrs. Bursik's. Officers said she and Gairson began living together shortly before they moved here two months ago. Gairson was employed as a cattle feeder on a ranch near Bonanza.

Station Robbed Discriminating thieves raided two cigarette machines in a gas station last night, but stole only unfiltered brands.

State police said burglars entered the Richfield service station at Alameda and Shasta Way by breaking into a rear door. They stole one table-model cigarette dispenser, and took change and cigarettes from another.

The loss was estimated at $16 in change and 125 packages of cigarettes. All filter brands were left in the machine but burglars left behind.
