

MR. AND MRS. ARTHUR WILLIAM LAPSLEY

Lapsley-McDonald Vows Read At Klamath Temple

The Klamath Temple, decorated in a holiday motif with large baskets of white pompon chrysanthemums and red poinsettias, was the setting for the December 26 wedding of Karen Margaret McDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George McDonald, and Arthur William Lapsley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Lapsley, all of this city.

Red satin bows marked the pews along the aisle when George McDonald escorted his daughter to the altar for the 8 o'clock ceremony performed by the Rev. Harry M. Strachan in the presence of approximately 200 guests. She was given in marriage by her mother and father.

Prior to the entrance of the wedding party tall tapers in candelabra were lighted by the ushers, James McDonald, the bride's brother, and Don Renie.

Traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. James Sandberg, Frank Ballard sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Leading the wedding party were cousins of the bride, Janie Marie McDonald as flower girl wore a red and white frock and carried a basket of red and white petals. Her brother, Bobby, ring bearer, carried the rings on a white satin heart shaped pillow made by the bride's mother.

The bride wore a lovely floor length gown of lace and tulle with long pointed sleeves and Sabrina neckline, trimmed with sequins and pearls. Lace medallions were placed at intervals on the front of the skirt. A crown of seed pearls held the fingertip veil and she carried a cascade of red roses and white carnations. For tradition she wore a blue garter and a lucky penny, in her slipper, given to her by her grandmother, Mrs. Bertha McDonald.

Janet Grow was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Susan Lapsley, sister of the bridegroom, and Charmie Bieln, of Portland. They were dressed alike in red satin brocade sheath frocks with red net overskirts and white headbands made by the bride's mother. They carried cascades of white carnations.

Mrs. McDonald chose for the occasion a sheath of pastel pink satin brocade with matching hat and patent accessories. Mrs. Lapsley wore an ensemble of powder blue wool crepe. Both mothers had corsages of white carnations and gardenias.

Christmas greens and a brightly lighted tree decorated the church annex for the reception which followed the ceremony. Sprigs of holly circled the three tiered wedding cake which was served by Mrs. Norval Stoneburg and Mrs. Palmer Gunderson. Mrs. Rodney Shaw presided at the coffee table and Sandra Morrison poured punch. The guest book was passed by Carol Friedrich and gifts were received by Patricia Lund and Marcia Powell, all cousins of the bride. Another cousin, Joanne Gilmore, and Mrs. Lonnie Schorn were in charge of the gift table.

For the honeymoon trip along the Oregon Coast the new Mrs. Lapsley wore black patent accessories with a red velvet ensemble accented with the corsage taken from her bridal bouquet. She

Yreka Job's Install Officers

YREKA—Impressive ceremonies marked the installation of new officers of Bethel No. 69, International Order of Job's Daughters, at the Masonic Temple in Yreka Monday evening, December 21, with Daralyn Ellis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ellis, seated as the honored queen.

Others installed were Gloria Manning, senior princess; Barbara Belts, junior princess; Arlene Behnke, guide; Carole Archambault, marshal; Mariyn B. own, recorder. Harriet Clough, chaplain; Sheryl Ellis, librarian; Caroline Meamber, musician; Tana Shelton, treasurer; Patty Stewart, fifth messenger; Teresa Wigley, fourth messenger; Faye Coatney, third messenger; Jadine Rohrer, senior custodian; Linda Brawman, junior custodian; Sharon Bray, inner guard; Caroline Kouts, outer guard.

After the officers marched through a bower of pine boughs, each placed a flower on a cross.

Installing officers for the evening were Sandra Arnberg, guide; Julie Dickson, marshal; Judy Moore, chaplain; Leah Morford, musician; Wilma Parker, recorder; Janet Simmons and Judy Avery, custodians; Sandy Fiock and Nancy Whitman, hostesses; and Wilma Parker, soloist.

The newly honored queen was presented with the honored queen's pin, by Sheryl Morford, past honored queen, who in turn was presented the past honored queen's pin. During this presentation, Wilma Parker sang, "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You."

The gavel was presented to the newly honored queen by her father, John Ellis. After the newly installed queen had taken her obligation, Wilma Parker sang, "A Pretty Girl is Like a Melody."

Mrs. Effie Butler then installed the guardian council, with Mrs. Kathryn Morford as guardian, and Ralph James as associate guardian. Others seated were Mrs. Velva Trivelpiece, guardian secretary; Mrs. Alice Hosford, guardian treasurer; Mrs. Helen Shelton, custodian of paraphernalia; Mrs. Edna Skinner, promoter of sociability; Mrs. Ella Manning, promoter of hospitality; Mrs. Margaret Biasoli, director of music; and Mrs. Audrey Kutzy, promoter of junior activities.

Families Holiday In Palm Springs

For the past several years the Warren Poole and George Wardell families have spent a part of the holiday season in Palm Springs. Again this year the two families left the day after Christmas, the Pooles by air, and the Wardells in their car, meeting in the popular California vacation spot.

In Palm Springs they visited with Warren Poole's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Poole, who spend their winters there.

Quotarians Hear Portland Woman

Mrs. Nova Young of Portland was guest speaker at the first meeting of the year of Quota Club of Klamath County on Tuesday, January 5, at the Willard Hotel.

Mrs. Natalia Reichenberg introduced Mrs. Young, who as a registered nurse is well qualified for her present position as nurse consultant to the women's committee of civil defense in Oregon. She outlined the different phases of the program in which women can and should become interested and trained. Mrs. Dottie Poole presided over a brief business meeting before adjournment.

Couple Wed In Reno Rites

ETNA—Colleen Hanson and Robert McCallister, Oro Fino, exchanged wedding vows at the Baptist Church Tuesday, December 29, in Reno. The Rev. Blake M. Franklin officiated at the simple ceremony.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Theresa Sargent of Quartz Valley, wore for her wedding a heather blue wool dress with a blue satin cummerbund and a matching wool hat. Her corsage was a single pink rose to match the pink roses ornamenting the back of her black gloves.

The bridegroom, son of Mrs. Amanda McCallister of Oro Fino, is employed on the Friden Ranch near Greenview.

The couple went to Carson City on their honeymoon.
