

State Mental Health Needs Reviewed By Section Chief

Dr. John Waterman, head of the mental health section, Oregon State Board of Health and Mrs. Klamath County Public Health Waterman were special guests at the January 7 meeting of the Klamath County Public Health Advisory Council's meeting at the original plan for study of mental health needs in the state which resulted in the appointment of a statewide advisory committee. This committee was named to work with the mental health section of the Oregon State Board of Health for research into the matter of total mental health needs in the state. Phases being studied include mental health services for adults and children, hospital care, marriage counseling and other related mental health problems.

He cautioned, however, that it is essential for each local group to lay a thorough foundation of planning before initiating new services. Local planning is the first requisite, he said, and keeping as much local control as possible is highly desirable.

The local advisory board was asked to prepare a statement of any plans for extension of services and to suggest areas in which community needs should be met other than through services now provided. When the state advisory committee has all reports at hand, it will make a report to Governor Mark Hatfield, Dr. Waterman said, to be used in preparing legislation and computing state budgets for coming legislative sessions.

At the request of Mrs. Hagan Moore, chairman of the advisory council, Mildred Lowden, psychiatric social worker for the local mental health clinic, reported on activities for 1959. There were 123 new referrals for clinic services, she said. Of these, 111 were children. Local physicians had referred a total of 31. Twenty five had been from the juvenile court, 24 were referred from the public school, and 14 were direct applications from parents. The remainder were from other sources.

No annual report of her activities has been prepared, Miss Lowden stated, adding that the time required would be at the expense of other clinic activities.

Miss Lowden asked for the board's consideration in employing additional professional personnel to carry on the present clinic services. Presently available are the part time services of Dr. Henry Dixon Jr., a qualified psychiatrist, and Charlotte David, Portland psychologist. Both are in Klamath Falls on regular days each month and appointments may be made through the public health department. Arrangements for their employment were made by Dr. S. M. Kerron, Klamath County public health officer, and they provide more consultation service than was available under the previous set-up.

TELLTALE

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — Thieves stole an awning from the front of a downtown department store but returned it, apparently because it was too hard to hide. The awning was 18 feet long and bright orange in color.

Snow Rangers Slate Meet

Kenneth Dykeman of Klamath Falls, a forester for the Klamath District of the Rogue River National Forest, has been selected to attend a special "snow ranger" training meeting January 18 through 22 at Mount Baker Ski Area in Washington.

Dykeman is snow ranger at Tomahawk Ski Bowl near Klamath Falls. A total of 49 instructors and trainees from 22 ski areas in national forests of Oregon and Washington are expected to attend.

Training will include area administration, inspection of ski lifts and rope tows, ski patrol work, avalanche control and rescue work and advanced first aid.

Said Regional Forester J. Herbert Stone, "since the safety of the skiing public is the principal concern of the forest service, safety will be stressed in all phases of winter sports administration."

"Winter sports are rapidly becoming a major recreational use of the national forests and are a portion of the multiple use theory applied to these lands."

The Aerospace Industries Association is the national trade association of the 117 major manufacturers of aircraft, aircraft engines, missiles, spacecraft, their components and accessories.

Retired General Dies In Hospital

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Retired Maj. Gen. Kenyon Ashe Joyce, who fought in the Spanish-American war as an 18-year-old private, died Monday night of leukemia at Letterman General Hospital. He was 80. President Eisenhower, then a colonel, was Joyce's chief of staff while the general commanded the 9th Army Corps at Ft. Lewis, Wash., in 1940. Gen. Joyce retired in 1943 from his last command, the Ninth Service Command, Fort Douglas, Utah. His last official duty was as head of the Allied Control Commission for Italy, 1943-44. He leaves his widow, Mary, of San Francisco.

HOW TO BE A PERFECT WIFE...

*Another Tip On How To Make Your Home Happier, Compliments Of Your Favorite Cal/Ore Electrical League Dealer.

WITHOUT OVERWORKING YOUR HUSBAND

In the average home, over 400 HOURS A YEAR are spent on the thankless drudgery of dishwashing. In many homes, much of this work is done by poor old Dad. (This is so Mom will occasionally have time to do something besides wash dishes.)

Cut it out, girls. Just get poor old Dad to put a sparkling new ELECTRIC DISHWASHER in your kitchen. He'll like the idea.

You can remind him, too, that dishes and utensils come from an electric dishwasher sterilized and almost entirely bacteria-free... scalded in water hotter than the hands can touch. The electric way is the happy and healthful way to wash dishes.
