

Grinding Car-Truck Crash Kills Four In Lane County

EUGENE (AP) — For the second time in less than three weeks, a grinding car-truck crash has killed four persons in Oregon's Lane County.

A huge truck-trailer rig collided with—and then overturned onto—a car on a snow-covered mountain highway Monday. The four persons in the car were killed.

The four were on a trip when their journey ended in death in the Cascade Mountains 50 miles southeast of here. All were in their 50s or 60s.

In the earlier accident, four University of Washington students perished Dec. 29 in the collision of their car with a truck five miles north of here. They had been en route to California for the Rose Bowl game.

State police said the dead in the Monday accident were Dudley T. Boyd, 57, Eugene; his wife, 52; Littleton Lasater, 62, Cottage Grove; and his wife, 58.

The driver of the truck, Clyde Thomas, 33, Fresno, Calif., said he saw the car head into his lane in a driving snowstorm.

Thomas said he blinked his lights to alert the driver of the car, then put on his brakes.

State police said the car and the truck collided, the truck then overturning onto the auto. The car was crushed beneath the 72,000 pounds of the truck and its produce cargo.

Neither Thomas nor his relief driver, Bob Lichti, 28, Fresno, was hurt. The truck was owned by Cal-Can Trucking Co. of Fresno.

"The car was so twisted and smashed the bodies couldn't be moved until the car was towed to Oakridge and cut up," a state policeman said.

With the truck lying across the road, traffic on Highway 58 was stopped completely for nearly four hours. Cars were backed up more than a mile in each direction.

Later, a wrecker moved the truck enough so that one-way travel could be resumed.

The two couples were en route to Reno when the accident occurred. It was Oregon's worst traffic accident of the new year, and pushed the state's highway toll to 10 so far in 1960, in the Associated Press tabulation.

Turn Signals Put On Ship

NEW YORK (AP) — When the freighter Golden Eagle is going to make a turn, even a landlubber will know which way.

The Golden Eagle has king-size turn signals, like the ones on cars—only these are visible for up to three miles.

The Military Sea Transportation Service said Tuesday the arrow-shaped lights had been installed as an experiment in finding ways to prevent ship collisions. Lloyd's of London estimates there is an average of 45 such collisions a week.

Rear Adm. J. C. Dempsey, commander of MST's Atlantic area, explained that many collisions result from confusion, rather than the lack of visibility. Whistle signals sometimes get drowned out by engine noise or other sounds.

The Golden Eagle is believed to be the first American ship equipped with the signals. Dutch ships have had them for some time.

"Alsaska" is the Russian version of an Eskimo word for the Alaskan Peninsula.

E. A. VOTAW recently became trainmaster of Klamath Falls Southern Pacific terminal. He replaced C. E. Alward who was transferred to Sparks, Nevada.

Foreign Policy Approach Of Mexico Is 'Traditional'

MEXICO CITY (AP) — New concepts in inter-American relations and between the Americas and the rest of the world may develop from the visit of Mexico's president to South America, starting Thursday.

Adolfo Lopez Mateos, 49, just completing his first year in office, will be the first Mexican president to visit the southern continent while in office. In his tour of six countries he will be armed with a traditional Mexican approach to foreign policy.

Basically it embraces the principles of nonintervention in the affairs of other nations, respect for one another's sovereignty and mutual cooperation in the preservation of peace. These are certain to be the key points of Lopez Mateos' talks with his fellow presidents in Venezuela, Brazil, Argentina, Chile, Peru and Bolivia.

The possibility of increasing the Latin-American nations there are spiritual and economic resources, active and latent, which can be harnessed for the common good. The search for ways to exploit them is the goal of his unprecedented tour.

Driver To Test Air Instruments

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A racing driver will flash around a track at up to 170 miles per hour to test instruments to be used by space pilots.

Jay Chamberlain will make the runs for the Northrup Corp. Thursday at Riverside Raceway in his Lotus Experimental 15.

Instruments will tell a flight surgeon at a console the racer's heart condition, body temperature, respiration, muscular activity and emotional state.

Similar information is expected some day to be radioed to the ground from astronauts in space vehicles.

The year 1960 will be the Chinese "Year of the Rat."

Recent Crises, especially in the Caribbean and Central America, and invasions and threats of invasion, make them a timely topic. As a Latin-American country with an exceptional record in recent times for political stability and economic sanity, Mexico senses the leading role it may play.

But Mexico's geographical position has made it generally remote and unfamiliar to the southern continent. Trade has flowed mainly between Mexico and the United States.

Lack of physical communication, among other things, has kept commercial ties between Mexico and South America at a minimum. Lopez Mateos and his government are convinced that among
