

Williams-Hargis Vows Exchanged In Sacramento

The Arcade Baptist Church in Sacramento, California, was the setting for the December 19 ceremony when Laquita Hope Hargis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Furman C. Hargis of Sacramento, exchanged wedding vows with Henry Carl Williams.

The bridegroom is the son of pioneer Klamath Falls residents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Williams of the Henley district.

Silvered Christmas trees and greenery tied with bright blue balls carried out the color decor chosen by the bride for the 7:30 service performed by the Rev. Lee W. Toms in the presence of 50 relatives and friends.

Traditional wedding music was played by Donna Neissner.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a gown of white satin made with full street length skirt and scoop neckline edged with flower brocades. A pearl tiara held the fingertip illusion veil and she carried a cascade of white orchids and stephanotis on a white Bible.

Sharon Kaye Hunt of Fairfield was maid of honor for her cousin. Her blue velvet street length frock was made with circular skirt and low neckline. A matching velvet headband held a short veil and she carried blue tipped white carnations tied with silver ribbon in a cascade arrangement.

Mrs. Mancuso's sheath dress was of royal blue silk worn with white satin hat and accessories and a pink carnation corsage. Mrs. McAuliffe chose a copper brocade dressmaker suit with brown accessories and copper carnation corsage.

Following the church ceremony a reception was held in the banquet hall at the fairgrounds at Anderson. Red and white carnations were the background for the four tiered square cake topped with white wedding bells. Assisting in serving the confection was Sally Plummer. Michelle Quijada poured coffee and Anita Beckett served the punch.

Wearing a beige dressmaker suit with brown accessories and accented with a strand of pearls, gift of the bridegroom, and the bridal orchid, the new Mrs. McAuliffe and her husband left for their honeymoon trip which took them to San Francisco, Los Angeles,

The bridegroom's brother, Dale Williams of Klamath Falls, was best man. Ushers were James Cheyne of Merrill and Gerry Hunt, cousin of the bride from Fairfield.

Mrs. Hargis chose a Dio blue and black patterned sheath dress with matching accessories. Mrs. Williams wore a blue sheath dress. White carnations tied with silver ribbon were corsages for both mothers.

A blue and silver theme was carried out at the reception at the home of the bride's parents following the church ceremony. Assisting were the bride's aunt, Mrs. C. L. Hunt, and Mrs. W. M. Williams, mother of the bridegroom.

After changing to a Dior blue sheath dress with satin cummerbund and Eton jacket to which the bridal orchid was pinned, the new Mrs. Williams and her husband left for a honeymoon trip to Reno. The newlyweds will reside at 3700 Morse Avenue in Sacramento where he is a senior at Sacramento State College. He is a graduate of Henley High School.

Mrs. Williams, a graduate of Southern Oregon College, is teaching in Sacramento. Out-of-town guests included Mrs. M. E. Oxley of Tulsa, Oklahoma, grandmother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. James Cheyne, Merrill; Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Williams, Klamath Falls; Dale Williams, Beatty; Mr. and Mrs. W. Villegas, Atascadero; Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Hunt and family, Mae Oxley, Fairfield; Mr. and Mrs. Doyal Thornberry and family, Woodland.

Local Couple Is Wed In Salem Church Service

The First Congregational Church in Salem was the setting for the December 26 wedding of two well-known Klamath Falls young people. Grace Louise Henry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. (Bob) Henry, and Glenn Herbert Munsell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Munsell, were married in a double ring ceremony performed at 2 p.m. by the Rev. David Rose.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She wore a street length dress of white satin with long sleeved lace bodice, a white fur hat and white satin slippers. She carried a white fur muff on which was pinned a white orchid against a red satin poinsettia outline. In keeping with tradition she wore a blue garter, and a lucky penny in her slipper and carried a lovely lace handkerchief made by Ida Monroy Odell's mother and carried by many young brides. Her pearl earrings were a gift from the bridegroom.

Mrs. Ted Roake Jr. of Salem

was matron of honor for her sister. She was gown in a frock of green taffeta with matching slippers and white fur hat. White carnations were arranged on a white fur muff which she carried. Marion Petit, Vancouver, Washington, uncle of the bridegroom, was best man. Guests were seated by Ted Roake Jr.

Mrs. Henry selected for the occasion a gown of beige lace and brown taffeta with matching accessories. Mrs. Munsell wore an old rose lace dress with beige and navy blue accessories. White carnations were corsages for both mothers.

The charming church annex scene of the wedding reception was decorated with red poinsettias and a white Christmas tree bedecked with red ornaments making a background for the all white bride's table which held a four-tiered cake topped with wedding bells and surrounded by holly. It was served by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Leo Parsons of Centralia, and her cousin, Mrs. Don Parsons of Paulsbo, Washington. Presiding at the coffee service was Mrs. Leo Hanley of Klamath Falls and pouring punch was Mrs. Anna Pollack, the bride's great aunt from Centralia. The guest book was passed by Mary Hill Garman of Salem.

Among the wedding and reception guests were the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Bilow of Montesano, Washington, and the bridegroom's grandmothers, Mrs.

Harriett Estes of Klamath Falls and Mrs. Mima Petit of Portland. Mrs. Munsell's travel ensemble was a brown suit worn with a mink hat and the bridal orchid. The newlyweds honeymooned in the Bay Area and are now at home at 334 Garfield, Apartment 3, in Ashland. The bride is a graduate of Klamath Union High School and attended Oregon State College. Her husband, also a KUHS graduate, served with the Army during the Korean War.

McAuliffe-Mancuso Vows Read In California Rites

The marriage vows of Wanda Patricia Mancuso and James J. McAuliffe were repeated in the Sacred Heart Catholic Church at Anderson, California, on January 2. Large baskets of bronze, yellow and white chrysanthemums stood on either side of the altar for the ceremony officiated by the Rev. Walter Albrecht.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Santo Mancuso of Anderson. The bridegroom is the son of pioneer residents of Fort Klamath, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. McAuliffe, who also make their home in Anderson during the winter months.

Approximately 250 guests were present when Santo Mancuso escorted his daughter to the altar. She wore a lovely gown of white Chantilly lace over taffeta made with fitted bodice featuring long sleeves and Sabrina neckline etched in sequins and pearls. A cascade of white ruffles in the back of the skirt fell into a chapel train. A tiara of imported French orange blossoms held in place a shoulder veil of illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis and white roses arranged around a white orchid and a pearl rosary, a gift of the bridegroom's parents.

Barbara Wicklander of Cottonwood, maid of honor, wore a turquoise blue brocaded satin ballerina length frock with a circlet headband of white fur. She carried an old fashioned nosegay.

Bridesmaids Sally Plummer and Nancy Pinkston, both of Anderson, wore dresses of copper brocaded satin with headbands of white fur and carried white fur muffs.

Susan McAuliffe, sister of the bridegroom, was junior bridesmaid. Her floor length gown was of turquoise taffeta trimmed in white fur to match her headband and muff.

Joseph Mancuso, brother of the bride, was the ring bearer.

Patrick McAuliffe, brother of the bridegroom from Cottonwood and Fort Klamath, was best man. Ushers were two other brothers, Paul and Joe McAuliffe, Paul Walther, E. J. Giovanetti of Woodland, and Ambrose McAuliffe, cousin of the
