Welfare Relief Slate Plans Received By County Group

Ground rules for a public welfare work relief program have been received by the county welfare department. The information outlines state requirements, and details operation of a pilot program.

Should a work relief program be effected in Klamath County, it would require able bodied men to work for the general assistance (welfare) money their families receive. Equally, it would enable these unemployed men to contribute their own work in exchange for welfare funds.

A transmittal letter from Miss Jeanne Jewett, state welfare administrator, said the pilot work relief program was started January 5 in Polk County under amended rules of the State Public Welfare Commission and through joint planning by the state and Polk County commissions.

State rules, as amended, define the work relief program as one in which able bodied men would work on county public works or improvements "for the period of time limited by the amount of general assistance" they receive.

They require medical examinations of these men before relief employment, and specify they may be refused general assistance funds if they refuse to work, or work unsatisfactorily.

On that basis, here are the major conditions Polk County set up:

1. The county welfare department will refer eligible men "to a designated officer or employee" who will supervise the work program.
2. The supervisor will attempt to employ men according to their ability and capacity.
3. Men will be employed at $1 an hour and may earn an amount equal to the welfare funds their families receive each week. The limit is 40 hours ($40) a week.
4. The county will provide transportation to work sites, and the welfare commission will pay for transportation.
5. The county will provide tools and equipment, and such clothing, safety equipment and special appliances as the men may need.

6. The county will provide the jobs, and keep record of the hours each man works.

7. No relatives of county, county welfare, or state welfare commission employees may participate in the work relief program.

8. The county must provide workmen's compensation coverage, or adequate private insurance coverage, for work relief employees. It also must pay on behalf of work relief employees "any deductions required to be made as an employer."

Klamath County presently has no active plans for a work relief program. It sought information regarding such a program, and this information has been distributed to all county welfare departments in the state.

More Arrests Of Cops Seen

CHICAGO (AP)—Eight Chicago policemen were under arrest Saturday as members of a burglary gang and State's Atty. Benjamin Adamowski said many more may be involved.

Adamowski said a 22-year-old master thief, whose story of looking with police protection brought about arrest of the eight, has named other patrolmen who are under investigation.

The eight policemen, all assigned to the North Side, have been charged with burglary and released on bonds of $3,000 each pending a hearing in Felony Court Monday. Loot from burglaries was found in the homes of seven of the officers, Adamowski said.

A police guard was placed at the home of one of the burglary victims after his wife reported receiving a threatening telephone call after the arrest of the eight policemen.

The story of the burglary ring shocked city officials. Mayor Richard Daley, vacationing in Florida, planned to return home Sunday to discuss the case with top police officials.

Police Commissioner Timothy O'Connor said he was "disgusted."

Ice Floe Charlie Disintegrating

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (UPI)—Ice floe Charlie Saturday was just another disintegrating iceberg in the Arctic Ocean.

It was abandoned as a drifting science station Friday. The 29 men—16 of them scientists—who used $200,000 worth of equipment to study ocean currents, ice, snow, radio waves and weather in general, all were removed.

The science station was set up last May. It was hoped that it would last for five years.

But on Jan. 7, in strong Arctic winds, ice floe Charlie began disintegrating. Today, the ice island is one-fifth its original size.

Rapid Transit Engineers Get Monorail Study Plan

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A study plan for a monorail system running from Belmont under San Francisco Bay to Oakland and Richmond was presented Saturday to the engineers of the San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transit District.

The monorail system, proposed by the Alweg System, would cover the entire route from Belmont to either Hayward or Richmond in 55 minutes at speeds up to 65 or 75 miles per hour. Alweg has built monorail systems in Cologne, Germany, and Disneyland.

"Alweg monorail transit has been developed in full detail and is capable of providing the Bay Area with a mass rapid transit system that is economical in construction and operation," said Sixten Holmquist, personal representative in the United States of Axel Wenner-Gren, Swedish industrialist and financier, Holmquist made the presentation on behalf of a Wenner-Gren affiliate, Rapid Transit Systems of California.

Holmquist said a total of $328,700,000 would pay for the subaqueous tube across the bay, subway construction between San Francisco and Oakland, stations, repair shops and yards, signalling systems and other equipment.

Twenty five million dollars of the sum would be spent on monorail cars, he said. He said the system would run on a 24-hour day basis.

"It is impossible for us at this time to recommend what zones should be established and what fare should be charged," Holmquist said, "but it is obvious from the figures developed to date that a standard fare of only 25 cents would make this a paying proposition."

He said that with a 25-cent fare the system would net $1,400,000 annually. The route will collect more than $23,600,000 in fare and concession revenue, costs, including bond redemption and operating expenses, will be an estimated $22,250,000, he said.

Holmquist proposed the construction costs would be paid by a 40-year bond issue, car costs with a 30-year bond issue.

EXPENSIVE PROMISE

LEICESTER, England (UPI)—A promise is a promise, Mr. and Mrs. James Sherratt told the judge, but he fined them $11.20.

The couple said they told his mother they'd be on the dot for supper, then they discovered they were on the wrong train, so they pulled the emergency cord at the right town and jumped out.

The judge ruled it was no emergency.

NEEDS WIFE PROTECTION

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)—D. C. Masters, an electrical contractor, asked Judge Harold Craik to keep his ex-wife, Girtoror, from insulting his girl friends and going to his office and giving orders to his employees.

"This man needs protection," Masters' attorney said. The judge agreed, and scheduled a hearing.

Boom Lowered On Pioneers

WESTPORT, Wash. (AP)—The Coast Guard lowered the boom Friday on a group of adventurers bound for the Galapagos Islands in a 30-year-old converted refrigerator ship.

Make your vessel seaworthy or face arrest, was the gist of a statement delivered to Don Harrsch, leader of the expedition, by three Coast Guard officers. The ultimatum came from Rear Adm. Allen Winbeck, commander of the 13th Coast Guard District.

"We're not worried," said Harrsch. "There is nothing of any consequence wrong with this boat."

He referred to the 100-foot vessel Alert, which had to be escorted into this port by the Coast Guard early Friday when water seaped through the hull and into the engine room.

The three officers were to inspect the ship.

"If they inspect my vessel and come up with a list of repairs they feel should be made, I won't take the Alert out of the harbor," Harrsch said. "They're the law as far as I'm concerned."

Once a vessel has asked for and received Coast Guard assistance, it is subject to safety measures dictated by the Coast Guard, an officer explained.

The Alert and her 19 passengers were headed for San Pedro, Calif., Friday to pick up 13 more persons. The adventurers hope to establish a self-supporting colony on San Cristobal Island on the equator 5,000 miles away.

PVT. WYLIE D. RHODES, 17, will sail this month for duty aboard a floating battalion with the First Division, Fifth Marines. The young serviceman completed basic training at Camp Pendleton in November and was at home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. George, Route 3, for Christmas. He attended both KUHS and Sacred Heart Academy before he enlisted in the Marine Corps.

Wilson Tells Why He Left

EUGENE, Ore. (AP)—Dr. O. Meredith Wilson, back at his desk to wind up his job as University of Oregon president, told a news conference Friday why he chose to leave.

Wilson, newly named president of the University of Minnesota, said he felt he could better contribute to education at the bigger University of Minnesota than at Oregon.

This, he said, was the advice of his advisers in the academic world.

Generally speaking, Wilson said, a university president has a limited period of effectiveness, although he believed he still could serve effectively several more years at Oregon.

Wilson said he may take some associates from Oregon to Minnesota with him. He said in a position such as university president there is a need for "intimate help." He said those he might take would be "to satisfy that need." He did not single out any individuals.

Dr. John R. Richards, state higher education system chancellor, said, "The Board of Higher Education and I consider Dr. Wilson's loss to Oregon to be a most serious one. The University of Oregon under Dr. Wilson's leadership has risen as rapidly as any university in the United States."

Wilson said both he and his family have been happy in Eugene and he said they also expected to like Minneapolis.

Reds Remove Former Aide

MOSCOW (UPI)—Nikolai Belyaev, who was criticized by Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev for the poor 1959 grain harvest, has been removed from his post as Communist party secretary in Kazakhstan, the Soviet press indicated Saturday.

Belyaev was among deputies of the Supreme Soviet who received various awards for services and achievements during the just-concluded parliament session.

But a Tass announcement Friday night and a story in the government newspaper Izvestia Saturday omitted his usual identification as party secretary of the grain-growing republic in Central Asia.

Belyaev was listed among four men awarded medals for "labor prowess" for the production of meat and other agricultural products.

The other three men awarded the coveted "labor valor" medal were identified as party secretaries of Latvia, Kirghiz and Estonia.

A member of the ruling party presidium, Belyaev was sent to Kazakhstan in 1957 to handle the agricultural situation, including Khrushchev's virgin land program.

Khrushchev had sharply criticized Belyaev at last month's central committee meeting for being partly to blame for the poor harvest in the Kazakhstan breadbasket.

TICKET COLLECTOR

NEW YORK (UPI)—New York has a new "King of the scoundrels." Chief Magistrate John Murtagh Friday said the dubious title goes to William B. Thompson, 31, an unemployed cook who was identified as the possessor of 173 traffic tickets dating back to 1955. Thompson was held in $10,000 bail for a hearing.

APPOINTS DALY

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower Friday appointed John Dalrymple, radio TV news correspondent and analyst, to be a member of the Water Pollution Control Advisory Board in the Public Health Service. Daly, vice president of the American Broadcasting Co., was named to a term expiring June 30, 1962.
