Russ Propaganda Machine Undergoing Big Overhaul

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

The Communist Party is re-organizing its entire vast propaganda machine in preparation for a new surge forward by the world Communist movement. One aim is to tell Communists and their sympathizers that whatever the warmth or chill of the international atmosphere, the struggle for communism's world supremacy must continue unabated.

The Soviet press has published a 10,000-word resolution of the Communist Central Committee calling for revision of propaganda machinery.

Kennedy Advised By Kin To Stay Out Of Wisconsin

BOSTON (AP) — Indications that Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) may sidestep the April 6 Wisconsin primary boosted today the candidacy of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Kennedy had been figured as an almost sure contestant in Wisconsin. Otherwise his challenge to all the other Democratic presidential hopefuls to meet him in state primaries seemed likely to collapse.

But Robert Kennedy told a news conference in Manchester, N.H., Wednesday he thinks his brother should stay out of the Wisconsin battling.

Robert Kennedy, who is plugging his brother's unopposed candidacy in the March 8 New Hampshire primary, said he thinks Wisconsin is Humphrey's backyard.

"It would be an unfair test," he said.

This selectivity seemed to cancel out the effect of Kennedy's challenge to Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.), Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) and others to meet him in primaries for a showdown on the popularity of individual candidates.

Robert Kennedy's announcement seemed to signal a cardinal weakness in the theory that his brother can win the presidential nomination by demonstrating in primaries that he is the choice of grassroots Democrats.

Symington and Johnson are staying out of primaries on the grounds that these voting tests represent only fragmentary sentiment and do not materially influence the choice of the presidential nominee.

If Kennedy follows his brother's advice to stay out of Wisconsin, Humphrey would seem to be assured of a convention run for the nomination. With Minnesota, Wisconsin, South Dakota and stray delegates elsewhere, he would likely go into the Los Angeles convention in July with more than 100 votes.

Humphrey has been what some politicians call a transitional candidate. It was generally recognized that if he could not beat Kennedy in Wisconsin he would retire from the presidential field and get busy on the job of getting re-elected to the Senate in Minnesota.

But if Kennedy does not choose to run in Wisconsin—and the candidate himself could override his brother's judgment—then Humphrey's name is likely to go before the national convention.

This could become something of a windfall to Adlai E. Stevenson, however, that if Kennedy does not go into the Wisconsin contest that Humphrey will not inherit all of the state's votes.

Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) not run. But if only one is on the ballot, he said his name also will be there.

Air Pollution-Cancer Link Cited By Medical Prober

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A massive 10-year study of people in New Zealand has yielded plain evidence that polluted air is a cause of lung cancer, a medical researcher reported today.

A quarter of a million persons who moved from smoggy, industrial England into the unpolluted atmosphere of New Zealand provided the evidence.

These newcomers were compared with native-born New Zealanders.

The researcher, Dr. David F. Eastcott, thus had for comparison two virtually identical populations—the same constitutional or hereditary makeup, the same way of life, the same eating and smoking habits.

Lung cancer was 30 per cent higher among the newcomers generally than among New Zealand's 2.3 million native-born whites, Dr. Eastcott said. But among Britons who went to New Zealand relatively late in life — after living in smoggy England for 30 years or more — the prevalence of lung cancer was 75 per cent above that for New Zealanders of the same age.

Then Dr. Eastcott compared a group who had moved from England to New Zealand 25 to 30 years ago and compared it with a similar age group of native born New Zealanders.

Even though this group of immigrants had breathed polluted air for varying periods early in life, and then pure air for many years, their lung cancer hazard was 20 to 30 per cent greater than in native-born New Zealanders of the same age, the researcher reported.

Dr. Eastcott talked to a news conference as a preliminary to a symposium which starts Saturday at the University of California Medical School.

The study was made in two five-year periods while Dr. Eastcott was connected with New Zealand's public health department. He now is a general practitioner. He is here as a visiting researcher at patriotism.

Water Fails To Hurt Fuse

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP)—Officials say water hitting with a force of almost 2,000 miles an hour failed to damage a fuse for a missile warhead.

They sent the fuse down a 7-mile test track at the Air Force Missile Development Center Wednesday to see what would happen under those circumstances.

What they sought to learn was whether a missile carrying such a fuse toward a distant target could get through heavy rain storms without being damaged.

They said the test was a "complete success."

The fuse was mounted on a rocket sled which was fired down the track at 1,900 miles an hour. At the sides of the track, nozzles shot water at the fuse to simulate heavy rain a missile might soar through on its way to an enemy.

High speed cameras along the track recorded the effect of the water.

Officials said the speed was a new record for heavy rocket sleds on a dual track.
