Stocks WALL STREET NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market closed with a slight edge to the upside today after profit taking clipped early gains. Volume for the day was estimated at 2,800,000 shares compared with 2,700,000 Thursday. Gains of fractions to a point among key stocks outnumbered losers in the same range but the margin of winners was trimmed as the session wore on. The market was below its best of the day. An assortment of "science" stocks and selected issues held gains running from 1 to 3 points but these gains were not represented in the popular market averages. Universal Match was up about 3/8. Gains of 2 or better were made by Texas Instruments, General Tire and Bell & Howell (New). Most motor stocks edged to the downside. The top three steelmakers were fractionally higher. Rails remained nicely ahead with Santa Fe, and Chesapeake & Ohio up about a point each.

Sentencing Postponed Sentencing of John William Carswell, 22-year-old Kingsley Field airman convicted of illegal possession of narcotics, was postponed today until Tuesday morning. Defense attorneys Richard Beesley and P. K. Puckett planned to offer before sentencing testimony "in mitigation of the sentence." A required witness was not available, however, so Circuit Judge David R. Vandenberg postponed additional testimony and sentencing at defense request. Beesley said it was anticipated that Carswell himself would take the witness stand. The defendant did not testify in his own behalf in the two-day trial earlier this week. Carswell was arrested by state and city police October 1 with material in his possession which a jury determined was marijuana.

Traffic Hearings For Youths End The first hearings before a juvenile traffic referee were completed this week. Mrs. Maxine Smith, traffic counselor-referee, said one of four cases was continued until further order of the court. Three others were placed on 60-day drivers' license suspensions. The referee system was instituted this year under new state laws. Another precedent will be set soon because one of the three suspensions has been appealed to Juvenile Judge Charles H. Foster. That step, too, is a condition of the new law.

Y.M.C.A. Directors Board Sets Goals For Decade

The Board of Directors of the Klamath County Y.M.C.A. went on record as to the direction they wish the association to move in the next ten to twenty years. The motion, passed unanimously and reported to the annual meeting of the membership for approval, reads as follows: "The Y.M.C.A. seeks to serve all ages, but will give special emphasis in its services to youth of teen-age and young adults." Therefore in an attempt to get an answer to the question, what does the Y have to offer teenagers: it is well during this week of celebrating worldwide YMCA week to comment on some of the present services to teenagers. The Y teeners program for eighth grades last winter is to be continued by popular demand. This new phase of the program for both boys and girls from Fremont and Altamont Schools provides a Y-sponsored social affair once a month from now through April. The Y.M.C.A. Board of Directors officially acted to set aside the regular policy of making a service charge for the use of headquarter facilities. Limited space of the present Y headquarters limits this invitation to Altamont and Fremont Junior High eighth graders. There will be a representative meeting of both Fremont and Altamont students January 26 to approve plans for 1960. The objectives that were worked out by last year's council for this affair were as follows: 1. Getting better acquainted. 2. Learning social know how. 3. Learning how to take more responsibility. 4. Parent participation. 5. All who attend to participate. From 200 to 350 will be expected. Another phase of this emphasis of Y program for teen-agers is the leadership training experience boys as well as girls are having as assistant instructors in the physical activities class conducted at the Y headquarter during the week for younger boys and girls. A junior leaders corp is in the process of development.

Probation Given Youth

A Klamath Falls youth convicted of using a car without consent was placed on three years probation Thursday on condition he move to his grandparents home in Illinois. Sentence was passed on Richard W. Wayburn, 20, convicted by a circuit court jury of taking a car from the Dick B. Miller Company warehouse for a joy ride in the Hot Springs section November 12. He was arrested after a spirited chase by police. Attorney Richard Smith, representing Wayburn by court appointment, read in court a letter from Wayburn's grandfather who invited the youth to join his engineering firm in East St. Louis, Illinois. The grandfather said he would give Wayburn an opportunity to attend college. Wayburn's parents said they would provide bus fare and two weeks' expense money. Judge David R. Vandenberg, in the course of a lengthy lecture, told Wayburn "family difficulties are no excuse for getting into trouble." He advised the youth to make the best of his opportunities in Illinois.

Summer Home Shambled By Teen Drinking Party

By NORM CARDOZA A big teen-age drinking party resulted in near destruction to a summer home on Denny Creek early in December, police disclosed today. They made the disclosure following the arrest of Lyle Dean McFarland, 18, Klamath Falls, who pleaded guilty to a charge of malicious defacing of a building and its contents in District Court Thursday. McFarland will be sentenced Monday morning. Similar action may be brought against two other minors. Two juveniles also admitted taking part in the vandalism, officers said. Numerous other juveniles have admitted trespassing. About 25 to 30 youngsters were involved, officers believe. All are from Klamath Falls. The party was planned, originally, as a going-away gesture in honor of a youth who is in the armed services. Some youngsters testified that only a few persons had been invited and that they planned a quiet barbecue. Statements from various youngsters questioned produced this story: Several youths had gathered at the summer cabin of Hubert and Dave Totton, 20 miles northwest of Klamath Falls, and two and one half miles off Lake of the Woods Highway. Facilities there are used by the YMCA for its day camp program each summer. Two brothers arrived who had not been invited. One youth took a shot at them with a shotgun to scare them off and beat on their car with a club. Numerous fights broke out, all between the "ins" and the "outs"—those who had not been invited or who had not brought liquor. One youth was hit by a car. Some youngsters who thought the party was going to be a sedate barbecue saw what was going on and fled. Anywhere from four to 14 cases of beer and several bottles of whiskey were at hand. One youth became so intoxicated he "passed out" on his feet. Another youth fell off the cabin roof and lay on the ground "quite a while" before moving. The party grew progressively wilder. The shotgun apparently came into frequent use. A big can had been placed in the room. It had been hit by at least one charge of shot. Officers found a spot on the roof damaged by a shotgun blast. Furniture and beer cans began to fly through windows and around the room. When Dave Totton discovered the damage December 18, he called the sheriff's department. Deputies, in taking stock of contents, at first thought numerous items were stolen. They were later found outside the building buried in snow. An inventory of damage showed a big picture window was broken and its casing torn out. A davenport, screen door and mattress had been thrown out and torn up. Windows in three doors in one room were broken out and the doors otherwise damaged. Four large windows in the main room were broken. Two doors and a window in a smaller room were mutilated. An oil stove had been overturned and damaged. An iron bed was found outside where it was pushed out a window, along with a water tank. An iron stove, two cupboards, two tables and a bench were found heaped in a corner badly broken up. Two privies had been tipped and a door knocked out of a nearby building. The front door had been torn off the main building and officers found a pile of half-burned paper around an overturned stove. They wonder why the building didn't burn. Damage is estimated at $2,000. A break in the case came early this month. An informant gave city Patrolman Floyd Pierce certain information. Pierce notified the sheriff's office. Deputy Del Summers asked assistance from Ray Howard, city juvenile officer. They quickly rounded up numerous suspects, and had completed most of the investigation by Thursday. The officers said a report would be turned over to county juvenile officers who will decide how to deal with others involved in the case.

Before accepting the superintendency, Howe spent a year and a half as secondary supervisor for the Oregon Department of Education, and before that was principal of Henley High School. Among changes that have taken place in the district during his tenure were addition of classrooms to handle 2,000 pupils and construction of several new school buildings.
