

County Favors Rec Proposal

Members of the county court approved individually Friday a city request that authority and money be provided for full use of Klamath Auditorium, the old armory on Main Street.

Proposals were presented by George Price, Klamath Falls recreation director, who said the city's Parks and Recreation Department planned use of the auditorium on a six-day basis by groups ranging from teen-agers to old folks.

Price asked for another $1,000 from the county's present $1,500 appropriation for auditorium use. A like amount was asked of the city council. The money, Price said, would be needed as insurance against a proposed budget for full-time auditorium use for a trial period of one year.

The county court provided a reaction identical with the city council. It approved the program, but had no specific authority to authorize a budget increase. That matter, the court said, must come before the County Budget Board prior to formation of the budget for the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

Price offered a tentative budget of $14,000 income balanced against $14,000 expenses for the trial year.

He envisioned the auditorium as a civic center for use as a gymnasium, a dance hall, and a meeting place. It could be used after school hours, by teen-agers and athletic teams, and as a meeting place for the newly-formed Golden Age Club of persons over 50 during afternoons. The Girl Scouts are interested in a larger meeting place, he said, and Camp Fire Girls, the City Recreation Department, and other groups need a civic center.

"We like to feel that this is a community center," he said. "We plan to invite every citizen in the community to participate."

Such usage was seen by other court visitors as an opportunity to increase city-suburban relations, combat juvenile delinquency, and serve the county as a whole.

"It may very well be that spending (this money) would be an actual economy for the county," said City Manager G. S. Vergeer. "It could reduce juvenile court work and expenses of law enforcement agencies. It might not cost the county one cent."

Others appearing before the court were Gary Dawes, chairman of the Little League in the Suburban Area, and park and recreation board members Dick Hicks and Mrs. Dena Backes.

Returns Home

BONANZA—Sarah Michael, 76, has returned to the home of a son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Michael, from Klamath Valley Hospital where she spent some time following a fall that critically injured a disc in her back.

Mrs. Michaels has been news correspondent from Dairy for the Herald and News.

Kenneth Lee Wells, obtaining property under false pretenses, warrant from Medford, hold for Medford police.

Simon Riddle, drunk, $25 or five days.

Sheldon J. Harrison, 2012 Main Street, was accidentally shot in the leg Thursday evening, police said. The wound was not serious.

Harrison told officers he was attempting to slaughter a pair of domestic geese at the home of a friend, Jim Hakanson, 1139 Ward Street.

Hakanson chased the geese to him and Harrison picked up his .22 rifle from a stump. It discharged when he did so, and the bullet nicked his right leg just beneath the knee.

Harrison, 20, was treated for the wound and powder burns at Klamath Valley Hospital. He was released.

Science Fair Dates Set

McCLOUD — The fourth annual Siskiyou County Science Fair will be held March 24-26 at Weed, prior to the Central Valley Fair in Chico April 18-23 in order that winners of Siskiyou County awards may enter competition at Chico.

Students and faculty members of the College of the Siskiyous are sponsoring this year's science fair. Chairman of the program committee will be Harry W. Beck, administrative assistant; chairman of the publicity committee will be James D. Collins, journalism instructor; chairman of the judging committee, Jack Crigui, chemistry and biology instructor; general consultants Ken Young and Robert Dais of the county superintendent of schools office.

Trophies and medals will be awarded to the four best exhibits on each grade level, 7-12; boy and girl in biological science; boy and girl in physical science. Appropriate ribbons will be awarded for second and third place winners.

Grand awards in the senior division are to be a plaque and medal to each winner; $50 cash and expense paid trip to Chico, first grand award; $25 cash, second grand award and $15 cash, third grand award.

Special awards will go to group projects winners in the junior division.

822 Dimes Given To Fund Drive

Herman Barnes, employee of Peyton and Company, 835 Market, saved 822 dimes during the past year and gave them all to the New March of Dimes.

Each time he received a dime in change, he dropped it in a glass jar and when the time came for the annual fund drive he took them to the Dog House Drive-In and turned them over for the fund. They later found their way to Fire Chief Roy Rowe at the fire station. Rowe is one of those who helps each year with the drive.

Barnes came to Klamath Falls in 1944.

PHIL GOOGINS

By J. O. McKINNEY
MOUNT SHASTA — Phil Googins is no doubt properly named Phillip, but to call him that would probably rate a blank stare. Common usage has decreed that he be called Phil and the telephone company lists him by the shorter name.

Phil missed being a native son of Mount Shasta merely by a technicality. He was born here, but the town at the time of his birth was named Sissons. Whatever its name, he served eight years as city councilman, six of these as mayor. He would probably have served throughout his lifetime had not a mistake been made by the city voters. They voted to pay all councilmen $10 per month salary, Googins, after working eight years without pay, refused to take what he called "starvation wages."

There is a feeling in some quarters that council meetings often interfered with his nights to bowl.

That may have caused him to toss in the aldermanic sponge.

The former mayor attended Chico State, and University of California before settling down to become a pillar of the town and help run the bank. His days in Mount Shasta schools were not without their highlights. Thirty years ago, when the present high school was first used, Phil was president of the student body.

This native of Sissons likes all outdoor sports. He bird hunts with relish and swings a mean stick of golf. His deer hunting is seldom neglected, while trout fishing is a way of life to him. No more ardent baseball fan ever rooted for the home team than does Phil whether it be Little Leaguers, Babe Ruth players, softball addicts or Northern California League semi-pros.

The entire Googins creed is to enjoy life and help everyone to enjoy it, too.
