Voting Unsuccessful

NFL Owners Agree, To Keep Disagreeing

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Eighteen owners of National Football League franchises agreed to select a successor to the late Bert Bell but have gone to the ridiculous side.

Not only can't the 12 owners agree on a boss, they even have trouble deciding what time to start disagreeing. After seven unsuccessful ballots Sunday—21 in all since voting began last Thursday—a motion was made to adjourn again.

"Move we reconvene at 5 p.m. tomorrow," said one owner who must have had visions of a day at Hialeah. Then came a few other motions, one suggesting an 11 a.m. starting time, another 1 p.m. still another 1 p.m. The latter, after some discussion, finally prevailed.

It was midnight when the sun-tanned executives came from the meeting room. Attorney Marshall Leiby of San Francisco still had seven votes—San Francisco, Los Angeles, Cleveland, Detroit, New York, Green Bay and the Chicago Cardinals. The "Solid Seven" refuses to budge. They won't even nominate a compromise candidate.

Lined up permanently as opposition is the "Fearless Four,"—Philadelphia, Washington, Pittsburgh and Baltimore. The minority group switched from time to time from Baltimore's general manager, Don Kellest, to Acting Commissioner Austin H. Gunsel. They switched just to break the monotony. The four votes, however, remain solid. They were last cast for Gunsel on the 21st round.

Nine votes are necessary to elect a new commissioner.

Also static is the position of George Halas, owner of the Chicago Bears. Papa Bear passes on every round. The leading exponent of league expansion, Halas has been criticized from both sides.

"Vote for the other group and you lose our expansion vote," said Halas.

The battle obviously tends to reduce the meeting to a war of nerves. The chief factions are trying to wait each other out. Each is counting on the other to give in to end the debacle.

This all-important annual winter meeting is nothing reminiscent of the long, hard days and nights put in under the whip hand of Bell when the sessions were held in cold, clammy Philadelphia. There is more play here than work.

For example, Sunday afternoon's session was adjourned for the professed purposes of caucuses. A glance around the lobby however, showed one owner playing bridge, several watching television, others telling jokes to newsmen.

Garney Henley of Huron College scored 141 points during the 1959 football season. In four years at the South Dakota school he tallied 394 points.

Kentucky, Georgia Tech Claim Week's College Cage Spotlight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

This is the night college basketball learns if Adolph Rupp and his Kentucky Wildcats still have the knack for winning the big ones.

The big one this time puts Kentucky at Georgia Tech in a game that probably will decide the Southeastern Conference championship and the SEC club to challenge for the national collegiate tournament title in March.

Challenging for the NCAA and winning it is an old Kentucky habit, what with Baron Rupp and his Wildcats holding NCAA records for number of games won in tournament play, number of appearances and number of national collegiate titles (four).

This time, however, Georgia Tech stands in the way—and has the edge so far on the Blue Grass perennials after whipping Kentucky at their Lexington fair Jan. 2. They get together tonight at Tech with the Engineers holding first place in the SEC with a 5-0 record to Kentucky's 4-1.

Besides being the road club, Kentucky is further hampered by the temporary loss of junior star Billy Lickert, who has a leg injury, and the ineligibility of his planned replacement, Roger Newman.

But of the top ten rankings so far, Kentucky has a 10-4 record but has come on strong after dropping three of its first seven games. Tech was ranked sixth nationally in last week's Associated Press poll and has a 14-2 overall mark after splitting a pair last week. Tech beat Tennessee 74-69 Saturday after losing a game that didn't count in the conference standings to SEC foe Auburn 66-59 last Tuesday.

The Kentucky-Georgia Tech game tops the Monday program as basketball begins to perk up some with many of the schools having finished mid-term examinations.

All of the top ten teams have games this week except 10th-ranked Texas A&M and the likes of Bradley, California, West Virginia and company probably can hardly wait to get going again after the way top-ranked Cincinnati and its All-America, Oscar Robertson, have been floundering.

Cincinnati, coming off its Jan. 16 loss to Bradley, managed to win its 14th in 15 tries, 61-58 over Duquesne Saturday night but the Bearcats had one of their toughest struggles with Robertson limited to 13 points by the defensive play of George Brown.

Oscar, needing 46 points to break the all-time three-year scoring record of 2,538 points established by Furman's Frank Selvy in 1954, hit only 4 of 14 shots from the field. He is still 33 points away from breaking Selvy's mark and needs 82 to top the major school all-time career record of 2,587 set in four seasons ending in 1955 by Wake Forest's Dickie Hemric.

Robertson gets one crack this week—against The Citadel at Cincinnati on Friday.

Other games involving the nation's elite show seventh-ranked Utah (14-2) against Los Angeles Loyola Wednesday, eighth-ranked Villanova (12-1) at Army on Wednesday and at Canisius Saturday, and ninth-ranked Utah State (14-2) against Brigham Young Friday.

The nation's longest major school win streak is a bare nine in a row (Idaho State) after Houston snapped the 11-game string of Miami (Fla.) 88-79 Saturday night.

UO Boss Anxious For Five

EUGENE (AP) — It would be nice, says coach Steve Belko, if the University of Oregon's best five players all could be on the basketball court at the same time.

First, Belko said, it was Glenn Moore, a prize 6-7 sophomore who was hobbled for weeks by an ankle sprain.

Moore recovered his full strength by Oregon's lone weekend game, but then Charlie Warren came down with the flu on the eve of the team's Friday encounter with Washington.

Oregon lost that game 63-56 and then drew two days of rest before resuming practice today.

Belko said Sunday night that Warren, Oregon's other high-scoring sophomore, appeared to be recovered enough from the flu to re-join the team.

"I hope we get them all healthy by this weekend," Belko said. "We haven't had our best five together for quite a while."

It's doubly important for Oregon to be at top condition this week, Belko said, for the Ducks swing into California for games Friday and Saturday nights.

The Friday night game will be at Berkeley against California's defending national champions, winners of 14 of 15 games this season.

It will be the first meeting of the season between the two teams, and of California Belko said: "Real good personnel. They're big and have a lot of bench power."

Belko said Oregon's drills this week will be concentrated on ways of threading through California's tip-top defense.

That defense is one of California's best points, but Belko said his team will attempt an extraordinary effort to overcome it.

Beavers Get Tired Of Trips

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP) — Oregon State's basketball team is weary after three weeks on the road. But there's more barnstorming just ahead for the Beavers.

"We're getting a little tired," Coach Paul Valenti said Sunday night. "We've been on the road three weeks. And as everyone knows, that's quite a chore."

Oregon State went north over the weekend, beating Washington State at Pullman Friday night, then losing to Idaho 62-56 in overtime at Moscow Saturday night.

After that game with Idaho, Oregon State rushed back to Spokane by bus to catch a midnight train. The train arrived in Portland at 7 a.m. Then the players took a bus on to Corvallis.

"It's just the traveling," Valenti said. "No one sleeps very well on those trains. Everything is a little different. Just being away from home is tiring. Then you have to do it again in a few days."

This will be the fourth week in a row on the road for Oregon State. The squad leaves by plane Thursday for San Francisco, and a Friday game with Stanford and a Saturday contest with California.

"We'd like to keep the drills as intense as we can this week, but we have to be careful because we know the kids are tired," Valenti said.

"There's no sense in spending all your excess energy on practice and having none left for the game."

Against California, Oregon State will be facing the defending national champions, loser of only one of 15 games this season.

Valenti said the game with Idaho was a tough one. "The kids did a good job of staying in there all the way."
