

Life-Saving Bogus Kidney Introduced To Physicians

CARMEL, Calif. (AP) — A life-saving artificial kidney which can operate continuously without human monitoring was introduced today to the medical profession.

In the three months since its development the instrument has helped to save the lives of six out of eight persons who were in serious condition because of kidney failure, its originators said.

In one instance it has been credited with saving a hunter whose abdomen was torn open by an accidental gun shot wound. It ran uninterruptedly for 14 days to bring the man through a crisis.

The man was very close to death from loss of blood, mangled kidneys and peritonitis, but he is now over the initial crisis although still in a hospital and his bill to date is about $15,000 said Dr. R. H. Scribner, of the University of Washington Medical School at Seattle.

Dr. Scribner described the new instrument to the Western Society for Clinical Research. The instrument was developed by Dr. Scribner and a colleague, Dr. J. E. Z. Caner.

Most artificial kidneys operate only for a few hours, then have to be re-serviced. They also require blood transfusions and the attendance of doctors and technicians as well as nurses. The new instrument can keep going with only an occasional checkup by a nurse, Dr. Scribner said.

To operate the new instrument an artery in the arm is tapped and a tube inserted in it. This tube leads through the freezing compartment of a household type refrigerator. Blood flowing through this tube is cooled to the point where clotting and bacterial infection are prevented. The cooling also prevents destruction of platelets, the disc-shaped blood particles which promote natural clotting to heal wounds.

The blood is cleared of its poison elements by passing through a cellophane envelope submerged in a bath containing water and an assortment of chemicals. Then purified blood is piped back into the system through a vein in the arm.

More experimenting is needed before instruments like this can be built for general use, but thus far no drawback has developed to prevent eventually their wide utilization, Dr. Scribner said.

Civil Suits On File With Clerk

These civil suits have been filed in the county clerk's office:

Herman Sable maintains that Clive and Pearl McPherson of Midland owe an $8,000 balance on three promissory notes signed between February 1948 and April 1957. He seeks payment of the balance or foreclosure and sale of mortgaged property in Midland.

The trustees of Oregon-Washington Carpenters-Employers Health and Welfare Trust Fund seek access to payroll records of Ivan Kandra, grain elevator operator of Merrill. Trustees maintain Kandra failed to contribute a 10-cent per manhour fee to the fund.

Rudolph Kunz and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brightman seek settlement of a title dispute with Bryant Mountain Sawmill Company over property in Malin.

Two suits have been filed regarding a home-building contract between Harley J. Hart and Melvin McCollum, Arthur Beddoe, and others. Hart seeks payment of $8,261 for materials and services between January 1958 and July 1959. The other suit, filed by Swan Lake Moulding Company, seeks $280 from Hart, and others, for steel posts and fencing supplied between September 1958 and July 1959.

The State Industrial Accident Commission has brought suit against three firms for contributions to the workmen's compensation fund which it claims were not paid. Defendants, and amounts claimed, are:

Clarence R. Badger, $130 between April and June 1959, and $146 between July and October 1959; Charles Melvin Howie, $190 between July 1958 and May 1959, and $68 between June and September 1959; Rocky Point Lumber Company, $142 between January and March 1959, and $548 between April and November 1959.

Two Anglers Drown In Pacific

WESTPORT, Wash. (AP)—Tradition was tempered with tragedy for a fishing boat and two of its three crewmen on the storm-tossed Pacific Ocean off the southwest Washington coast Thursday night.

The fishermen stayed in dangerous, turbulent waters to aid four Coast Guardsmen in a disabled patrol boat. The fishing boat sank. Two of its crewmen vanished into the churning sea.

The drama began when the fishing vessel Barbara Lee called for help to get through huge swells at the narrow entrance to Grays Harbor. All day, winds up to 35 miles an hour had raked the coast.

The Coast Guard sent the 52-foot patrol boat Invincible to guide the fishing boat across the bar. It was a familiar procedure; the Grays Harbor Bar is treacherous for small craft at all times.

Suddenly, a monstrous wave knocked the Invincible bottom-side up. The boat slowly righted, but its engines were dead.

The 30-foot Barbara Lee stood by in the rain and wind. It threw a line aboard the Invincible. The line broke. It tried to attach another.

Then a mountain of water engulfed the Barbara Lee. First the fishing boat's smokestack and antenna were swept away; then it sank. The Invincible got one fisherman, Harold Perna of Cordova, Alaska, aboard. The others, Skipper Robert Bolam and crewman Ted Sigardson, both of Westport, were nowhere to be seen.

Two other Coast Guard boats prowled the stormy waters in the hope that the men might be found bobbing about in life jackets. The Coast Guard sent an airplane, but foul weather forced it back. The sheriff's office ordered the beach patrolled in case the men were washed ashore.

Dispute Over Anti-Poll Tax May Move Into Integration

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate dispute over anti-poll tax measures threatened today to spread to the controversy over school integration.

An aide said Sen. Herman Talmadge (D-Ga.) may inject his proposed constitutional amendment to vest exclusive control over the public schools in the states. Such action would depend on how the situation in the Senate develops.

Up for action is a constitutional amendment by Sen. Spessard Holland (D-Fla.) to bar any states from requiring payment of a poll congressional or presidential elections.

Holland offered his proposal as a rider to another constitutional amendment by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) That would empower governors to fill vacancies in the U.S. House of Representatives if more than half the members should be killed in an atomic attack or other disaster.

Holland has listed 67 senators, including Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, as co-sponsors of his amendment.

But it is opposed both by some Southern senators who contend that it would undermine states' rights and also by a bipartisan group of Northern Senators who contend that only an act of Congress is necessary to wipe out the poll tax.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.), spearheading the efforts of this latter group, has offered an anti-poll tax bill that he plans to offer as a substitute for Holland's constitutional amendment.

Talmadge introduced Thursday a revised version of the constitutional amendment he first offered last year. It is designed to overcome the 1954 Supreme Court decision declaring racially segregated schools unconstitutional.

Under it, the operation of schools on a segregated or non-segregated basis would be left to the decision of each state.

An aide to Talmadge said the senator is prepared to try to tack his constitutional amendment onto the others and, in case Javits' anti-poll tax bill is approved, probably will offer it as a substitute.

Johnson, in supporting Holland's amendment, told the Senate he had long felt that "this was the proper procedure for doing away with the poll tax as a requirement for voting."

Missouri Dems Slate Rally

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Missouri Democrats, with something extra at stake, are making their annual rally here today and Saturday the biggest in years.

The extra incentive is the chance that Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) will win the Democratic presidential nomination.

Missouri party workers are trying to build as big a boom as possible behind the senator.

One person they will try to impress is Gov. David L. Lawrence of Pennsylvania, who will lead an 11-vote delegation to the National Democratic Convention.

Gov. Lawrence will be the speaker for Saturday night's Jackson Day dinner, which is expected to draw 2,000 persons.

Writers' Guild To Extend Pact

Hi-Fi Stolen

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — While actor Charlton Heston was in New York City, someone apparently entered his Coldwater Canyon mansion and stole hi-fi equipment valued at $750.

MAMIE WINS AWARD

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower, national honorary chairman of the Heart Fund for four successive years, has been named recipient of the American Heart Ass.'s Heart of the Year award. The award will be presented to the President's wife Tuesday at the White House.

Budget-Balancing Scored By Two Leading Democrats

NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and Adlai E. Stevenson accused the Eisenhower administration Thursday night of putting budget-balancing above maintaining peace.

Humphrey, an announced candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, and Stevenson, a possibility, addressed more than 750 persons at a dinner of Americans for Democratic Action (ADA).

The ADA, a pro-New Deal-Fair Deal group, gave its annual Roosevelt Day award to Stevenson for his contributions to foreign policy. The award was presented by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Humphrey told the dinner guests that the Eisenhower administration has fallen down in mapping a sound future for the nation, negotiating for disarmament and seeking to banish war in the world. Humphrey called these things "the three great tests of the age."

In the seven years of Republican administration, Humphrey said, the nation has slipped in science and technology, education, housing and other essentials.

Stevenson, hitting at the administration's "balancing the budget" tactics said:

"This noble alliteration has represented the sum of Republican ambitions since 1952.

"To seem to do something without doing it, to substitute pious rhetoric and insubstantial gestures for action, to treat our people as though they had the intelligence and aspirations of the higher apes, to present to them no challenge, to conceal or distort facts that they may determine their fate—this is the era in which we have been dragged, drugged and brainwashed."

Rayburn Refiles For House Post

BONHAM, Tex. (AP) — Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) filed formally Thursday for his 23th term in Congress from Texas' predominantly rural 4th Congressional District.
