Noted Clown, Felix Adler, Dies At 62

NEW YORK (AP)—Felix Adler, 62, who tickled five decades of circus audiences by waddling around the rings in a droopy clown's suit followed by oinking piglets, died Monday.

Adler, who left the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Circus last May after 50 years of operation at St. Clare's Hospital, since Jan. 15 when he entered the hospital suffering from an ulcer. Liver complications developed.

Adler knew the same gimmicks 20 laughs year after year, and his life was dedicated to laughter. Children and grownups alike roared when he topped his grotesquely misshapen costume with a tiny umbrella or when the red light glowed in the tip of his make-believe nose.

But his piglets, always the timest creatures he could find, provoked the biggest laughs. He trained them to stand on their hind legs and to prance along with him around the rings. When the pigs outgrew the act, he often gave them away. He loved to hear from people who had adopted his pigs.

Born in Clinton, Iowa, he was only 9 when a circus came to town. He fell asleep in the circus train and awoke in Davenport, Iowa, the show's next stop. His family retrieved him, but later he ran away with a troupe of acrobats.

His clumsy attempts at acrobatics brought laughs from the audience, and this is how his clowning started. Adler is survived by his wife, Amelia, also a circus performer.

HOME EXTENSION

Leaders were trained on the laundering of synthetics lesson in training meeting held at the fairgrounds January 27, 28 and 29 reports Ruth Dyer, county extension agent. Klamath County homemakers will be receiving this lesson in their units during the month of March.

In this lesson leaders were informed that in order to launder the synthetic fabrics successfully they need to understand the products available on the market for laundering in order to select the right kind for the water supply, the fabrics to be washed, and the type of washer that is used in laundering. Leaders were informed that 10 years ago 90 per cent of the washing products sold were soaps and 10 per cent were detergents. Today the reverse is true. Who has set this trend? The homemaker. Whether to use soaps or detergents for laundering synthetics will be discussed further at the unit meetings.

Leaders who attended this training session included Mrs. Ethel Redfield, Mrs. Merle Jackson, Al-

Geologists Find Hut

MEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — A hut but which sheltered Robert F. Scott, English explorer, on his second, fatal antarctic expedition has been found by a Tufts College geology group. Scott perished in 1912 while studying the frozen wilderness. Discovery of the hut was announced Monday by Prof. Robert L. Nichols, noted geologist, who said it is located at Granite Harbor. Possibly a clue to explorers' literary preference, two volumes were found in the hut, one of Poe and the other Jules Verne. With them were shoes, spice boxes and a tobacco tin.

'Fair Play' Drive Slated Against Senator Humphrey

WASHINGTON (AP) — Strategists for Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) are preparing to launch a "fair play" campaign against Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) in the Wisconsin presidential primary.

The Democratic State Committee during the weekend changed the method of selecting delegates to cast Wisconsin's 31 convention votes. Kennedy protested the change favored Humphrey.

In the Kennedy camp there is talk of trying to duplicate in Wisconsin the feat of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's supporters in trumpeting "steal" charges against Sen. Robert A. Taft's Texas backers in 1952.

When Taft's men packed the Texas state convention and named a delegation favoring the Ohioan, Eisenhower's supporters carried a "fair play" issue to the national convention. It contributed to Taft's defeat by Eisenhower for the GOP nomination.

Kennedy does not consider Humphrey a major threat in his drive for the Democratic nomination. But some of his backers see an opportunity to dramatize Kennedy as a victim of what they call machine politics.

In the past, each of Wisconsin's 10 congressional districts elected delegates to cast two votes per district. Delegates with 11 more votes were chosen at large. These included the state's national committeeman and committeewoman, with 1/2 vote each.

The state committee voted Saturday to give 2 1/2 votes to each congressional district, leaving only five to be named at large in addition to the vote split between Kennedy would have the same total if he won the five at large, carried the four most populous congressional districts and got the half vote of National Committeewoman Mrs. W. W. Fox.

Kennedy expects to pick up Maryland's 24 convention votes today, but he had advance notice they might not stay with him after the first ballot.

Gov. Millard Tawes is expected to give his approval to Kennedy's entry in the state's May 17 primary, where he and delegates committed to him are not likely to face serious opposition.

SCOUT NEWS

PACK 77
Cub Scouts of Pack 77 received awards during a regular monthly meeting the evening of January 29 at the Congregational Church. Cubs and the awards they received were Ray Swaim, hotbal pin; Ronald Young, wolf award; Dan Cameron, wolf silver arrow and assistant dinner stripe, and Russell Tarrant, two bear silver arrows. The awards were presented by Cubmaster Emmitt Tucker. Clifford Kenyon, neighborhood commissioner, told Cubs of special awards they may earn during a talk about the coming Golden Jubilee of Scouting. Mrs. Louise Mitchell, Den One mother, announced plans for Scout Sunday to be conducted February 7 at the Congregational Church. The program will honor Cubs and Boy Scouts. Cubs of Den One, assisted by Mrs. Mitchell, demonstrated a simple fire extinguisher and a chemical garden they made as a project for January. The theme for the month was "Cub Scout Scientists."

Cubs of Den Two, assisted by Mrs. Joan Aschenbach, den mother, showed how ice cubes may be lifted with string and how razor blades may be made to float on water. They also produced music from bottles filled with water. The meeting opened with the salute to the flag. The Cubs repeated the Cub Scout Promise to close it. Den One served refreshments.
