Big Crowd Witnesses Award Meal

CHILQUIN — A crowd of 180 persons, largest to date, was present at the fifth annual Klamath Reservation Jaycees' Award Banquet to see three members of the community honored as outstanding citizens.

The Distinguished Service Award was presented to Luther Sherier of Chilquin, and the Outstanding Young Farmer was Irwin Crume of Sprague River. Mrs. Darlene Wolf, Chilquin, was honored as the Senior Citizen of the year.

Luther Sherier, a comparative newcomer to Chilquin, arrived in April, 1958. He is owner of the local laundry and dry-cleaning establishment. In the short time he has lived in the area, he has been active in community affairs as member of the city council and president of the volunteer firemen.

In partnership with his father, Irwin Crume operates a 5,000 acre cattle ranch and grain farm in Sprague River Valley. He was selected for his outstanding ability and progress in controlled farming, erosion control, crop rotation and cattle raising. Crume, 26, is the father of five children. He finds time to participate in community activities in addition to his duties on the farm. He is president of the Sprague River Fire Department, member of the Klamath Tribal Executive Committee, and is very active in athletics and roping and riding clubs. He has spent his entire life in the area, attending Bonanza High School and Oregon Technical Institute.

A resident of Chilquin for over 25 years and extremely active in local affairs, Mrs. Darlene Wolf, mother of three teenage children, was honored as Senior Citizen by the PTA. Graduating from local schools and the University of Oregon, Mrs. Wolf was cited for her work in church activities, Camp Fire Girls, various women's clubs, youth activities and other community projects.

Other awards presented during the evening were two Key Men awards by Jaycee President John Plouffe to two of his outstanding Jaycee members, Director Ramon Zamudio and Secretary Ron Harrison. Topic of the main speaker, State Sen. Harry D. Boivin, Klamath Falls, was the very close relationship between politics and our everyday lives and business affairs. He stressed the importance of everyone's participating in local, state and federal government. Politics should not be considered a "dirty word," he added, but as the dictionary defines it: "the science of government."

The banquet menu was again the popular crab feed prepared by women of the Eastern Star. The Rev. Donald Brown gave the invocation and benediction and Richard Stratton of Central Point was master of ceremonies.

JOSEPH E. BURGER

PR Expert To Give Talk

TULELAKE—Joseph E. Burger, director of public relations for H. V. Nootbaar & Company, Berkeley, brokers and jobbers of serving the feed and flour milling industry on the West Coast, will be guest speaker at the annual banquet of the Tulelake Growers Association February 10.

The banquet, honoring wives of association members and other lady guests, is planned for 6:30 p.m. in the Home Economics Building at the Tulelake-Butte Valley Fairgrounds.

Clifford Jenkins, association manager in announcing plans for the speaker, said that Burger, "packing 30 years of personal experience into a dynamic capsule entitled, 'How to Get Better,' tells how to do a better job of persuading others, how to sell ideas, services and products to his customers, clients, employees and associates."

The speaker has a business background covering 14 years in sales promotion, has served in administrative posts with seed and chemical industries, as president of one of the largest automobile dealerships in the Midwest and is recognized as an outstanding speaker before many groups. His world travels have taken him into practically every European country, including Russia.

He is listed among the nation's top speakers in the Speakers Guide of the American Society of Association Executives, and on the Speakers Roster of the National Sales Executives, his name also appears in the latest edition of "Who's Who in the Midwest."

Tickets to the banquet may be had at the growers office.

Alaska Losing Resources, Population

By IRVIN FARIS
NEW PINE CREEK—More people are moving out of Alaska than are moving in due to the almost complete exploitation of Alaska's natural resources. Her timber is practically all gone, as well as her gold mining and fur industries. These facts were presented by Ben F. Twitchell at a recent meeting of the Kelly Creek PTA.

Twitchell, a teacher at Lakeview High School, is well qualified to discuss Alaska with authority. He was born in Bethel, Alaska, the son of a Vermont trapper and a native Alaskan mother. He received most of his formal high school and college education in the United States and returned to live at Tokatna on the Kuskokwim River. He held a unique place in the community as school teacher, owner of a little general store, clerk of the election board, the Social Security Board and the school board. He was also postmaster and farmed a small acreage three months out of the year.

Twitchell said there is still considerable fishing in Alaska, which provides the principal occupation of the natives.

Prospectors and miners are being subsidized by the government in hope of locating new minerals such as uranium and oil and to ferret out the remaining gold. New oil wells are producing a high grade of petroleum. Twitchell saw cellared, as winter temperatures average between 25 and 35 degrees below zero, with extremes to 50 or 60 below.

Bush planes and helicopters are used extensively to bring in mail and supplies. When he left Tokatna, Twitchell sold his farm and other property to a G.I. and brought his family out on a marine ply board constructed boat, four feet wide in the bottom and 24 feet long. They traveled 600 miles down river to the coast.

The teacher's talk was illustrated by a series of colored slides.

One of the main drawbacks to Alaska, he said, is that nearly everything used has to be shipped in due to the short growing season. In small communities like Tokatna, people are able to sustain themselves by carefully planting and harvesting crops to get maximum growth before freezing sets in. Produce must be deepfrigorated, as winter temperatures average between 25 and 35 degrees below zero, with extremes to 50 or 60 below.

Delegates Told For 4-H Meet

LAKEVIEW—Mary Scoville and Michael Counts, both of Lakeview, have been chosen to represent Lake County's 4-H clubs as delegates to the third annual "Know Your State Government" conference at Salem February 4, 5 and 6.

The 59 4-H delegates from the state will visit and hear various legislators and tour the departments of agriculture, finance and administration, agriculture, forestry, highways, motor vehicles and state police.

Charles A. Sprague of Salem, publisher of the Oregon Statesman and former governor, will deliver the key address Friday night, February 5.

The program was arranged by the state college extension service.

Cohabitation Case Dropped

District Judge D. E. Van Vactor granted a dismissal motion Tuesday in the lewd cohabitation trial of Philip Duane Jackson, 23, and Bernadine Dickens, 18, both of Bonanza.

Attorney Robert Redding maintained the state had failed to show sufficient proof as to the guilt of the defendants.

Jackson and Miss Dickens had been accused of lewd cohabitation on or about December 20 at the home of Jackson's grandmother, Mrs. Anna May Copperfield. Both defendants lived at the home.

State witnesses called by Deputy District Attorney Ernest Gordon were Mrs. Copperfield, Mrs. Bertie Joe of Bonanza, and Deputy Sheriff Robert Hartley.

Jackson faces two other charges filed at the same time. His trial on an assault and battery charge involving Mrs. Joe is scheduled for district court on Thursday. On Friday he is to enter plea in circuit court on a charge of assaulting Mrs. Copperfield with a .22 caliber revolver.

Air Raid Siren Causes Turmoil

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—A button was pushed in city hall for Berkeley's regular monthly civil defense siren test. The 12 sirens spotted around the city wailed.

But one didn't stop. For 16 teeth-gritting minutes most of downtown Berkeley waited for an electrician to silence the siren atop Burbank Junior High.

"That's why we test 'em," said the fire department electrician.
