

Income Tax Facts

HE MUST ATTACH A DETAILED STATEMENT TO HIS RETURN

By RICHARD A. MULLENS
Written for NEA Service

The old game of trying to pad an expense account so that an eagle-eyed boss would not catch a personal item hidden in it took on a new slant when income taxes became so high.

The game was to get a tax break by charging personal items such as Florida vacations for pleasure to an expense account. This wasn't too difficult if the company was small and there was no independent boss to check on expense accounts.

To crack down on expense account abuses, the Internal Revenue Service drew up some new rules which went into effect last year.

The first step in applying these rules is to determine which of the following two categories you are in:

Employees who were required to and did submit an expense account voucher or other accounting to their employers which listed their business expenses.

Employees who were not required to or did not account to their employer for business expenses.

If you fall in the second category, then you must file on Form 1040W or Form 1040 and you must attach thereto a statement showing:

1. The total of all amounts received as advances or reimbursements, including amounts directly or indirectly charged to the employer through the use of credit cards; and

2. Your occupation, the number of days away from home on business, and the total amount of business expenses paid or incurred in 1959. The expenses must be broken down into broad classifications like transportation, meals and lodging away from home overnight, entertainment expenses, and other business expenses.

In an announcement, Neuberger's office said physicians had told the senator "his future life should be carefully regulated to avoid excessive fatigue."

Extensive and recent examinations in Portland "indicated no evidence of recurrence of the malignancy for which Neuberger underwent surgery in August of 1958, or any other serious developments," the announcement said.

It added that Neuberger had been suffering from fatigue and lowered resistance, brought on mainly by the fact that he has had no vacation or prolonged rest since his surgery and treatment for cancer nearly two years ago.
