

Jet Escapes Near Disaster

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A Pan American 707 jet liner carrying 123 persons scraped its left engines against the runway and bounced out of control on landing at International Airport Sunday.

Capt. James O. Roberts, Palo Alto, Calif., a veteran of 20,000 hours as a pilot quickly regained control over the giant airliner and brought it to a safe landing. A fire erupted in one engine but almost immediately extinguished itself.

A Pan American spokesman praised Roberts for his skillful handling of the plane and said: "I don't think 99 per cent of the passengers were aware of what happened."

No one was injured, although one passenger aboard the Honolulu to Los Angeles flight was given a sedative. There was a crew of 10 aboard and 113 passengers including two infants.

Roberts said "for some unaccountable reason" the left wing of the craft dipped as he came in for a landing and the No. 1 and No. 2 engine pods scraped along the runway, sending up a shower of sparks.

Imitative Behavior Said Causing Anti-Semitic Acts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sheer imitative behavior, of the "monkey see, monkey do" variety, has played a big role in the recent spate of anti-Semitic incidents and plane-bombing scares, a psychiatrist said today.

The same basic pattern has been evident in both situations, according to Dr. Leonard Duhl of the National Institute of Mental Health. It goes like this:

The initial incidents are perpetrated by deadly serious or deranged people who really hate Jews or who really want to blow up planes.

Then all sorts of other people get into the act for "a wide variety of motives."

Some of them are delinquent youngsters looking for a new way to express their "rebellion against authority." They are readily attracted to a form of behavior which has been demonstrated to be highly effective in shocking and intimidating the "respectable" elements of society.

Some are inspired by what Dr. Duhl calls "a vicious sense of humor that borders on the psychotic." He adds, in this connection, that there is good reason for questioning the mental health of any "practical joker" who thinks it's funny to inflict serious mental or physical distress or major inconvenience on other human beings.

Some people paint swastikas on synagogues or stir up phony bomb scares in the deliberate hope of getting caught. They are suffering from guilt complexes or other emotional disturbances, and they "want to be punished." So they go out and do what seems to be the currently fashionable thing to do to bring the police on the run.

Finally, said Dr. Duhl, some desecrations and bomb scares—other than the initial ones that start the fads—doubtless are motivated by genuine hostility. "Latent anti-Semitism" which has previously been expressed only in a verbal way may be stimulated by example, and result in an overt act of hatred. Or a person with a real or imagined grievance against an airline may seek vengeance with a bomb scare.

Does the publicity given to such incidents tend to spread and prolong the fad?

It probably does, said Dr. Duhl, but that is no argument for trying to hush them up or suppress the news.

"Most of these people are looking for an excuse to engage in anti-social conduct," he said, "and if they didn't have these outlets, they'd probably find something else.

"Moreover, I cannot subscribe to the notion that facts are dangerous. I think facts are important and should be made known.

"But the press and law enforcement agencies do have a great responsibility in matters of this kind to make sure that all of the facts are made known—that the whole picture is presented. They should be very careful to report each incident in its full perspective, so the public can differentiate between acts which might indicate a serious conspiracy and those which are simply the result of imitative behavior by sick, disturbed or delinquent persons."

If each case is treated calmly but firmly in the context of its own actual motivation, he said, this too shall pass.

General Taylor Hit By Toxic Bomb

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, former Army chief of staff who suffered a broken arm when struck by a toxic bomb Saturday, remained in satisfactory condition today at Walter Reed Army Hospital.

Taylor posed for photographers in his hospital room Sunday. He was smiling and in apparent good spirits.

Nixon Tells Publishers U.S. Strongest In World

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Stanley F. Wakefield, publisher and co-owner of the Oakland Leader, has been elected president of the California Newspaper Publishers Assn. for 1960.

Wakefield was named to the post at the organization's 72nd annual convention, which ended here this weekend. An active member of the group since 1944, Wakefield succeeds Carroll W. Parcher, publisher of the Glendale News-Press.

Other newly elected officers were A. W. Bramwell, Chico Enterprise-Record, first vice president; Ralph H. Turney, Temple City Times, second vice president; and Jack Craemer, San Rafael Independent Journal, secretary treasurer.

In the major speech before the publishers Saturday, Vice President Richard M. Nixon declared the major issues of the 1960 presidential race would be the security and survival of the U.S., foreign policy and the cold war.

He described the U.S. as "the strongest nation in the world militarily" and discounted criticism that the Soviet Union was widening the "missile gap" between the two countries.

"We have enough over-all strength that regardless of what they launch, undersea Polaris-type missiles, manned bombers or ballistic missiles, there will be enough strength that the launcher realizes there will be retaliation," Nixon said.

Nixon earlier told a television commentator that his entry in the New Hampshire and California primaries was "conclusive proof" that he was an active candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

"A formal announcement would have been gilding the lily," he said. However, he said he was taking a wait and see attitude toward his nomination. "I do not assume that I shall be the nominee," he said.

On other issues, Nixon said the U.S. must "maintain a hands-off policy" toward the Cuban situation, that the role of government was to support the U.S. economy and not supplant local government and that labor-management relations and civil rights would enter the campaign as issues.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown was seated with Nixon at the head table during the luncheon ceremonies of the convention. Brown joking about the start each made in politics in 1946, said neither "thought we would get as far as we did."

In other convention activities, the publishers named new members to the Board of Directors. They were Kenneth L. Adam, Lompoc Record; Walter M. Barrett, Sierra Sun and Truckee Republican; Gerald T. Deal, Deal Publications of Los Angeles; Max Goodwin, Lemon Grove Review; Harry Green, John P. Scripps Newspapers of San Diego; George Grimes, Oxnard Press-Courier; James K. Guthrie, San Bernardino Sun Telegram, and Gordon G. Hadley.

Also elected were Millard F. Hoyle Jr., Hollister Evening Free Lance; Robert T. Ingram, Grass Valley Nevada City Union; Parke F. Keays, Atascadero News; William F. Knowland, Oakland Tribune; Robert S. Magee, Santa Maria Times; Ferdinand Mendenhall, Van Nuys News; A. Q. Miller Jr., San Gabriel Valley Daily Tribune; Harlan Palmer, Hollywood Citizen News; Franklin S. Payne, Los Angeles Examiner; Virgil Pinkley, Associated Desert Newspapers of India, and Bernard J. Ridder, Pasadena Independent.

Herman Silverman, Walnut Creek Sun; Robert M. Speidel, Visalia Times Delta; Warren L. Taylor, Monrovia Daily News-Post; A. M. Tierney, Garden Grove Daily News; Newton Wallace, Winters Express; Chapman Wentworth, Dunsmuir News; G.K. Williams, Coronado Journal, and George A. Wright, Artesia News.

Cancer Group Lists Advance

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — The American Cancer Society reported today that an as yet unidentified blood substance has successfully immunized rats against six forms of cancer.

The society said it could not speculate whether the same substance would be effective against human cancers and that side effects of the substance make it impossible to say how soon tests on humans "can even be considered."

The research work is being done at the Medical College of Virginia by one of the society's research fellows, Dr. Jerome H. Sacks, and his collaborator, Dr. Richard E. Egdahl, the society said.

It said their work is the first successful cancer immunization with a blood substance, although animals have previously been immunized with whole tumor cells and extracts from tumors.

The agent, known as PHA for filterable hemolytic agent, appears to be either a virus or a part of the nucleic acid core of a virus, the announcement said.

The announcement said that "an average of about 55 per cent of rats vaccinated 16 to 101 days before tumor transplant become completely and possibly permanently immune to the cancer transplant."

Tiny Child Dies; Birth Premature

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — An 11 1/2 ounce boy, born more than three months prematurely, died today after nearly 28 hours of life.

The infant was born Saturday at 11:22 p.m. to Mrs. Morris Vermeulen, 23, in Still Osteopathic Hospital. He died at 3:16 o'clock this morning.

Doctors had listed the infant in "poor" condition and said the odds against survival were overwhelming.

Dr. Bernard M. Kay, resident pediatrician of Still Hospital, had planned to try and feed the infant later today by means of an injection under the skin.

But Kay said the infant was just too small to live.

"He died as a result of prematurity," the doctor said.

Kay woke up Mrs. Vermeulen to tell her of her baby's death. "She took it fairly well," Kay said. "She had expected it to happen."

Dr. Gordon Elliott, the family physician, went to the Vermeulen home to advise the father, Vermeulen, 25, was home caring for the couple's three other children, Kerry, 5; Steve, 4, and Janelle, 2.

Vermeulen went to work as usual Sunday at a service station.

He said it was "a matter of necessity" because he was laid off several weeks ago at a tire company plant in Des Moines.

Kay said the infant was weighed immediately after birth but was too delicate to be measured and was placed in an incubator.

According to American Medical Assn. records, the smallest baby to survive was Jaqueline Jean Benson, who was born at 12 ounces on Jan. 14, 1936, to Mrs. Lester R. Benson of Chicago.

Bull Auction Reflects Drop

RED BLUFF (UPI) — Western cattlemen paid an average of $776 for 374 animals auctioned at the Red Bluff Bull Sale last week, final figures showed today.

The four-day event ended Saturday with the sale of 288 Hereford bulls. Cattlemen bid an average of $849 for the bulls.

Sale officials blamed scanty range feed for this year's average price dropping below last year's average for all breeds of $903.

The Maddox Hereford Ranch, Brigham City, Utah, paid the highest price, $3,500, during the Hereford bidding for a bull consigned by Jensen Brothers, Logan, Utah.

The reserve champion Hereford, shown by Brooktree Farm of Auburn, took the second highest price, B. F. Madglin, Upper Lake, paid $3,000.

8 Children Lose Second Mother

LEVITTOWN, N. Y. (UPI) — Last September Robert Creamer's wife, Lucy, 38, was killed in an auto crash and Creamer, a factory foreman, was left alone to bring up their eight young children.

Creamer moved his mother, Mrs. Catherine Creamer, 69, into their home to act as a foster mother to the children.

On Saturday night while Mrs. Creamer was crossing a rain-slick road, hurrying home with groceries for Sunday dinner, she was struck and killed by a car.

Dido, beautiful daughter of the King of Tyre, is said to have founded the city of Carthage in the year 845 B.C.
