Sailor Injured In Accident

A 19-year-old sailor, stationed on Treasure Island, was injured late Friday morning when the car in which he was riding overturned after going into a ditch in front of the Tulana Farm grain elevator on Highway 97, about 10 miles south of here.

Booth Wayne Isham, who was thrown from the vehicle, was reported as being in good condition by Klamath Valley Hospital attendants. Extent of his injuries was not disclosed.

State police said that Isham was a passenger in a northbound car driven by Ronald D. Hutchison, 22, of San Francisco.

Hutchison tried to pass a freight truck when he lost control of the car, entered a ditch, overturned and skidded about 160 feet, police said. They added he was uninjured.

No citations were issued pending further investigation.

Future Fliers Take Torture

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Fifty future fliers took the torture test Friday.

The young men, ROTC cadets at the University of Maryland, were ordered to line up outside the women's dormitories.

It wasn't long before the coeds were unleashing their wiles, kissing the lads, chucking them under the chin, painting them with lipstick and cooing the kind of gooey stuff you read on Valentines.

The cadets had to take it at parade rest without batting an eye. It was part of an initiation into the national honorary society, Pershing Rifles.

Later, police got reports from frightened callers that a "gun battle" was raging in a wooded area nearby. It turned out to be the ROTC group, battling with cherry bombs and firecrackers.

Construction Of Gas Line Slated Soon

PORTLAND (AP)—First steps in construction of a natural gas pipeline south through the Willamette Valley to Eugene will get under way quickly, perhaps as early as this week.

That was the opinion of officials of Northwest Natural Gas Co. of Portland, which distributes gas piped in by El Paso Natural Gas Co.

El Paso's application for construction of the line got a temporary authorization Friday from the Federal Power Commission. That included the amendment which the company filed in December to run the line to Eugene. It at first had applied only for a line to Salem.

Northwest, which now supplies bottled gas to the Eugene-Springfield area as well as natural gas to the lower valley, would supply natural gas to valley communities over new distribution lines which it expects to cost $3,200,000. El Paso's pipeline will cost $10,495,000.

The pipeline will cross the Columbia River from Camas, Wash., and be 20 inches in diameter as far as Carver in Clackamas County. It will be 16 inches from Carver to Salem, 12 1/2 from Salem to Albany and 10 1/2 from Albany to Eugene.

The line will run six miles east of Salem and will continue on a course between Albany and Lebanon.

Nursery Chief To Give Talk

Dr. A. L. Hafenrichter of Portland will be guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Klamath Soil Conservation District at the Midland Grange Hall on Tuesday evening.

He is head of the nursery division of the Soil Conservation Service for the nine western states and has been responsible for the development of many of the varieties of grass commonly used in this area for pasture, hay and other erosion control purposes. Some of the most popular of these are Greenair intermediate wheatgrass, Topar pubescent wheatgrass, Alkar tall wheatgrass, Manchar smooth brome and the most recent, Latar orchard grass.

In the development of these new grass varieties, many hundreds of species are collected for comparative testing in nurseries. A few years ago, on a trip into this area, Dr. Hafenrichter found a native slender wheatgrass on Klamath Marsh which had many characteristics superior to the varieties being used. Seed was collected and is now going through the process of comparative testing at Pullman, Washington.

Dr. Hafenrichter is recognized as one of the foremost authorities on grass production and management in the nation. Two years ago he represented this country at the International Grassland Congress in New Zealand. During the last 25 years he has made many trips to the Klamath area.

His talk to the annual meeting will be concerned chiefly with management of irrigated pastures to get maximum production. The meeting will start at 8 p.m. and all farmers, ranchers and other interested persons of the area are urged to attend.

Police Officials Seek Terrorist

PORTLAND (AP)—A man who broke into a house in suburban southeast Portland and terrorized two women Friday night was sought today by law officers.

Ard Pratt, chief Multnomah County deputy sheriff, said the man took one of the women and fled in the car of the other.

Pratt said the woman later was released and taken to a hospital for an examination. He said the man also abandoned the car later and left a 30.30 rifle on the seat.

The woman told deputies she had come from Eureka, Calif., to Portland and the man apparently followed her. Officers reported she said she knew the man in Eureka.

No warrant has been issued for the arrest of the man.

Successful Test Of A-Bomb Triggers Many Protests

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS France's successful test of an atomic bomb Saturday triggered a chain reaction of protests, mostly from Communists and neutrals. Mingled with the oral explosions was an occasional bouquet.

Red China, a nonnuclear power, broadcast a declaration that the Sahara experiment was carried out "in defiance of the strong condemnation of the local people and world public opinion."

Communist East Germany's ADN news agency denounced the explosion as an "atomic crime." Though the French Defense Ministry minimized the hazard of radioactive fallout, ADN declared many countries in the Mediter-

15 Students Enter Essay

Fifteen Sacred Heart Academy students have had essays entered in a regional contest sponsored by the American Legion.

Seniors, juniors and sophomores wrote about "Why My Education is Important to the Future of America." The best were written by seniors Elizabeth Sykes, Jean Gasperini, Deanna Louie, Gary Pastega and James Ryan; juniors Kathleen Radszpiner, Robert Amberg, Rosalie Bartell and Norman Gilles, and sophomores James Novak and Cecilia Crouse.

Freshmen wrote essays entitled "Why I Love My Country." Those by Richard Steinbock, Carmelle Hartin, Margaret Ann Casey and Catherine Boss were judged best.

The assignment was mandatory for all high school students.

Seniors and juniors are working on another contest sponsored by the Association of American Physicians and Surgeons in cooperation with state and county medical societies.

Some of the spoils are a $1,000 top national prize, and there are others. Students have a choice of discussing in essays the advantages of the American free enterprise system, or the advantage of private medical care.

Final Report Sent Senate

PORTLAND (AP)—The Bonneville Power Administration Friday sent off its final report to a Senate committee on proposals for linking the Pacific Northwest power system with that of California.

The final proposal was unchanged from the earlier recommendation that an intertie between Klamath Falls and Redding, Calif. be used to link the systems. The linking line would carry 230,000 volts.

The proposal calls for surplus power in the Pacific Northwest to be sold to the Pacific Gas & Electric Co., a California private utility.

There had been considerable opposition to the proposed intertie. Public power agencies wanted the surplus power to go to public power systems. Private power agencies said they were afraid the public power agencies might claim the power under the public power preference clause.

The report was requested by the Senate Interior and Insular Affairs Committee last May. The deadline for the report first was set for Dec. 30. This was extended until Feb. 15.

The committee asked BPA to take charge of the study with the cooperation of the Bureau of Reclamation, the Federal Power Commission and other major regional, state and local utility interests in the two states.

The report will be sent to the Secretary of Interior who will forward it to the committee.

LOST CAUSE

WASHBURN, Wis. (UPI)—Police Officer Charles Hudson surprised a gunman in an alley as he attempted to break into a drug store. The man fired, ran to his car and sped away. Hudson followed. They exchanged a dozen shots during a three-mile chase. The chase ended and justice lost when the police car ran out of gas.

Paar Relents; May Do Show For Network

NEW YORK (AP)—Jack Paar softened a bit Saturday and said he'd be willing to resume television work for the National Broadcasting Co. under certain conditions.

In press interviews the star comedian said he would be agreeable to resumption of his "Jack Paar Show" on a once-a-week basis, with the Friday night programs consisting of excerpts from previous shows.

However, Paar said he preferred to do a "person-to-person" type of program, with an opportunity to travel.

Paar said he also expects more money for fewer hours and shows involving less "intrafamily" controversy.

NBC had no immediate comment on these matters but officials continued to express hope that Paar would return to the network fold.

Paar continued to maintain that he will never go back to his four-nights-a-week stint.

He scoffed at reports he earned half a million dollars a year or more under his current contract, which runs through 1962.

Paar said he had abandoned a plan announced for taking a long vacation in Europe.

NBC executive Ernest Lee Jahncke Jr. acknowledged it was he who made the decision to take Paar off the air as he recounted an anecdote Wednesday night. It was this action which enraged Paar and caused his walkout on the show Thursday night.

Jahncke said his decision was based solely on the question of good taste.

In the furor over the comedian's walkout, NBC issued a statement Friday saying it expected "Mr. Paar to fulfill his contractual obligations. He is not free to perform on any other broadcasting facilities."

Unions Ask Ad Policy Tightening

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—AFL-CIO leaders—saying the American consumer is being royally gypped—Saturday called for a stepped-up government policing drive against misleading advertising and over-pricing.

The AFL-CIO Executive Council said in a statement that recent disclosures of drug profits ranging to 7,000 per cent, disc jockey payola, rigged television shows and pure food law violations "awakened the public that it is being contemptuously victimized."

The union leaders, calling for establishment of a special consumers' department in Washington with Cabinet status, said the states, too, should take steps to protect consumer interests.

"For the individual consumer," the statement said, "the battle is a hopelessly unequal one. He is in no position to bargain down the price of a life preserving drug prescribed for him."

"He cannot, by any stretch of the imagination, detect the evidence of cancer-producing residue on the cranberries he buys for Thanksgiving dinner. If he watches a TV program, he is unable to distinguish the 'cheat shot' from the true one, so refined is modern camera technique."

"Nor is he able to sort out the valid claims for products from the misleading ones thrown at him on the screen in all too excessive frequency."

The AFL-CIO said that to protect its 14,000,000 members and their families, the labor organization will do everything possible to aid them against "exorbitant pricing, harmful products and deceitful advertising."

The AFL-CIO chiefs, recessing their winter meetings for the weekend, were guests Saturday on an all-day voyage aboard the Navy's largest aircraft carrier, the USS Independence.
