Drunk Charges Face Novelist

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Novelist Thomas Chamales must appear in court March 21 to answer charges of battery, drunkenness and disturbing the peace at his estranged wife's home.

His wife, singer Helen O'Connell, appeared in court for a hearing Tuesday but Chamales was in a hospital, being treated for ulcers. He also is accused of throwing a milk bottle and getting into a fight with arresting officers during a family row last Nov. 28.

Last Thursday Miss O'Connell won $900 a month temporary alimony and child support. She is suing for separate maintenance.

Chamales is the author of the novel, "Never So Few."

Construction Of Pipeline Underway

PORTLAND (AP)—Construction of a 10 1/2 million dollar pipeline down the Willamette Valley to Eugene already is underway.

This was announced Tuesday by Paul Kayser, president of El Paso Natural Gas Co., in a speech at the Rotary Club here.

He said the pipeline will be in operation by autumn.

Kayser said the pipeline will open a potential industrial market equal to 50 per cent of the industry now served by gas in the Portland metropolitan area.

The new line, Kayser said, will be in addition to the one that now runs as far as Lebanon, Albany and Corvallis.

It will connect with the main pipeline in the Camas-Washougal area of Washington and cross under the Columbia River, reaching the Oregon shore just east of the Sandy River.

The pipeline will be 20 inches in diameter to Carver, southeast of Portland. There will be five taps for the Portland area.

The line will be 16 inches in diameter south of Carver until reaching Salem, then it will be 34 inches in diameter until reaching a point between Albany and Lebanon. From there it will be 12 1/2 inches in diameter until reaching the Eugene area.

The natural gas, to be marketed by Northwest Natural Gas Co., will be the first natural gas to reach the Eugene area.

A contract for the pipeline, Kayser said, was awarded in advance of the federal Power Commission action last week, which authorized the line.

The work, he said, began at once on the Columbia River crossing. The line to be buried under the river has walls an inch thick, he added.

Kayser said the contract for the line south of Salem has not been awarded.

Phone Callers Threaten Man

PORTLAND (AP)—Anonymous callers have threatened harm to the family of Levi S. McDonald and the man's attorney, another attorney said.

William Murray said the callers threatened harm to Frank King, attorney for McDonald and associate of Murray.

McDonald, 32, is charged with a part in blowing up 10 trucks that hauled for the struck Oregonian and Oregon Journal here. McDonald was a member of the Stereotypers Union negotiating committee.

More than a dozen threatening calls, Murray said, were made to McDonald's daughter. The attorney said they became so bad the telephone had to be removed from the house.
