Stocks WALL STREET NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market closed higher Friday with final prices going to their highest of the session. Trading was heavy. The ticker tape was late. Volume for the day was estimated at 3,300,000 shares compared with 3,000,000 Thursday. Gains of fractions to about a point outnumbered losers in the same range. Bigger moves were made by higher-priced or more speculative stocks. American Home Products gained about 1/8, Texas Instruments 4, Polaroid and Motorola more than 2 apiece. Kennecott's dividend cut wiped out a gain of more than 2 for this stock and sent it to a net loss of around a point for a while but it recovered and showed an edge to the upside.

Timber Tax Revise Asked SALEM (AP) — The state Tax Commission today recommended a major revision in the ad valorem tax on timber. The plan, submitted to the legislative Interim Tax Committee in Eugene, calls for a modest severance tax to offset a reduction in total property taxes. The commission said it would encourage good forestry practice and the use of all desirable lands for timber reproduction. Young forest crops would be exempt during the early years of growth, this period being 30 to 35 years, or even longer. Lands containing mature timber would be subject to property taxes at the current level. Merchantable timber would be subject to tax at a valuation of 20 per cent of current retail value. This timber now is taxed at 30 per cent of retail value. Gov. Mark Hatfield praised the plan, saying it would be equitable and would encourage conservation. He urged the Legislature to support "this fine solution to a problem that was spotlighted by such damaging differences in the last session."

Threatener Gets 3 Years Philip Duane Jackson was sentenced to three years in the state penitentiary Thursday, several hours after a circuit court jury found him guilty of threatening his aged grandmother with a .22 caliber revolver. Jackson was sentenced by Judge John J. Murchison of Portland, who had heard his trial on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon. Jackson first indicated to the court he would waive a 48-hour waiting period before sentence was passed. He changed his mind after hearing the verdict, but later decided to waive the time after Judge Murchison remanded him to the sheriff instead of freeing him on bond.

Dancing Party Set Saturday Eighth grade students from Altamont Junior High and Fremont Junior High School are invited to a dancing party at the YMCA Building Saturday night, February 20. The dance will begin at 7:15 and parents from both school groups will chaperone. This is the second consecutive year this activity for the two schools has been conducted, and is a part of the YMCA's service to youth in this age bracket. Physical limitation of YMCA space is the only reason the parties are limited to the two schools. The student steering committee planning the dances drew up a list of objectives and purposes and decided that getting better acquainted, developing social know-how, learning to take responsibility and opportunities to grow would come from the program. A committee of interested parents from the schools drew up their own list at a separate meeting and came up with much the same list, with learning about acceptable behavior and learning to manage their own affairs as possible additional results. On the steering committee from Altamont School are Lyana Payne, Janet Wardell, Coral Fuller, Tom Day, Don Workman and Daryl Mitchell. Committee members from Fremont School are Marianne Gallagher, Carol Drew, Marion McCoy, John Parisotto and Larry Binney. There is no charge for the dance. Admittance will be by student body card only. Ordinary school dress will be worn.

City Planning Chairman Urges Federal Assistance By NORM CARDOZA Don Sloan, chairman of the city planning commission, asked a strong bid for federal money to help develop the metropolitan city, Thursday afternoon. Sloan and other officials met with the Klamath Merchants Association to hear Kenneth James, regional supervisor for the Urban Renewal Administration, outline changes this year in the matching funds program. "We have to realize," said Sloan, "that during the next few years we face the prospect of several million dollars' worth of commercial construction outside the city limits. "We have to keep our downtown business core and prevent outside areas from taking over the bulk of local business." He said the planning commission is working on a long-term development plan, entailing many possible projects—some with high priority. The plan, he said, is aimed toward taking full advantage of matching federal funds. The city could receive up to two thirds the cost of many of its projects if conditions are just right. "It's going to cost us money or else we're going to lose business. "It's strange that a town spending millions annually can't spend one tenth of one per cent of that money on planning. We have received federal and state planning grants, but from now on the city council and county court are going to have to budget more realistically," Sloan stated. Sloan was backed up by Lloyd Anderson of the League of Oregon Cities. "We need imagination as well as money," he said. He spoke of downtown civic malls, offstreet parking and other possibilities. Al Hattan, owner of Shaw's Stationery store, agreed with Sloan and Anderson. He stated, however, that property owners should be more responsible for sharing the cost than merchants. He also urged formation of an organization of landowners, including local representatives for absentee landowners, who own more than 50 per cent of local downtown business property. "These absentee are interested in improving their local property, but they have no way of knowing what's going on here." One merchant questioned wisdom of taxation to cover cost of civic improvement projects. Industry might be scared off then. Industry knows that someone has to pay the bill, said Sloan, and most industrialists are more interested in what facilities a community has to offer than in the tax rate. "We can't overburden taxpayers," he said, "but we have to make the town physically and tax-wise attractive."

Mayor Signs Guard Day Proclamation "Whereas," said Mayor Lawrence Slater this week, "the Oregon National Guard has always performed an outstanding and patriotic service to the people here." "And whereas, the guard constitutes a strong and vital link in our national defense forces which is more important today than ever," and— "Whereas, the Second Gun Battalion, 249 Artillery, which was formed its fifth annual 'Muster Day' Sunday as a means of demonstrating its effectiveness as an integral part in the community life of Klamath Falls, now— "Therefore, be it resolved by the authority vested in me, I proclaim February 21 designated National Guard Muster Day in tribute to our own National Guardsmen and their fellow citizen - soldiers throughout the state and nation." From 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Sunday, the guard's new armory on Shasta Way will be opened to the public. In it, the public can view the 75 millimeter anti-aircraft guns called "Sky sweepers." They aim and fire nearly automatically on signal from a radar and computer system which makes supremely accurate calculations. On display will be surveillance radar sets, a variety of vehicles and generators, radio and telephone equipment, small arms, bazooka rocket launchers and machine guns. Guardsmen will be on hand to escort visitors on tours of the armory facilities and the maintenance shop.

Fine Paid For Fraud A man who collected a $28 unemployment check for a week in which he earned $60 pleaded guilty in district court Thursday. Alex Z. Zubie, 34, Merrill, was fined $250 and sentenced to 60 days in jail on the misrepresentation charge. The complaint was signed by D. L. Baker, supervisor of the Investigation Unit of the Benefit Division of the State Department of Employment. It alleged Zubie had earned $60 while working for Bill's Texaco Service, 2739 South Sixth Street, during the week ending last August 22. For the week, Zubie claimed only $9 earnings, and drew an unemployment check of $28. Records indicated Zubie had earned $207.75 but nevertheless drew unemployment compensation of $95 for a period between the weeks ending August 15 to September 19. Zubie was sentenced by District Judge D. E. Van Vactor.
